THOMPSON NOTE AND CHECK TO HIM FOR $15,000 ARE IDENTIFIED

Chicago Banker Gives Testimony as to Transaction With St. Louis Contractor on Trial.

"FIXER" HAD TOLD OF GETTING $15,000

Government Introducing Testimony in Effort to Corroborate Mortimer's Story of Conspiracy.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Evidence that J. W. Thompson drew $15,000 from his Chicago bank on the precise day that Elias H. Mortimer says John W. Thompson of St. Louis gave him $10,000 in cash to be divided with former Director Forbes of the Veterans' Bureau, from whom Thompson and his partner, James W. Black, were seeking hospital contracts, was introduced in the conspiracy trial of Forbes and Thompson today.

Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Union Trust Co. of Chicago testified that, although Thompson had a balance of $56,000 there, he and Black borrowed $15,000 on their note and checked it out on June 20, 1922, the day Mortimer says Thompson handed him $10,000 in a lavatory at the Drake Hotel. Wheeler identified a note and a check.

It was also shown from the books of the Pontiac Construction Co. that half of the loss sustained on the Northampton foundation contract was charged to Thompson; this, as against the defense contention that Thompson had no interest in the Northampton job. The amount of loss charged to Thompson was $6871. It has been the theory of the Government throughout that Thompson had a half interest in the contract.

Coolidge's Name Brought In.

The name of President Coolidge entered the trial today in incidental fashion, when Matthew F. O'Connor, a contractor of Northampton, Mass., testified that the then Vice President, his fellow townsman, arranged for an interview between O'Connor and Charles Cramer, then general counsel for the Veterans' Bureau. O'Connor was bidding for the Northampton job.

O'Connor put some life into the trial. He had a trace of brogue, and a belligerent recollection of his failure to get the work.

"I went to see this fellow Cramer," he said, in a strong voice. "'Twas about a week after the bids had been opened. Says I to him, "My bid was the only one that was here on time. There's only two things you can do—accept mine or advertise for new bids.'

"'How do you know yours was the only one on time?' says he. 'Because I had my representative here,' said I."

Counsel objected to this as hearsay.

"Why do you think I had my representative there, if I couldn't depend on what he told me?" asked O'Connor.

'No Bid But Mine.'

"When time came to open the bids, there was no bid but mine. 'There's others in the building,' someone said. 'In what part of the building?' says my representative. It's a pretty big building, your honor, so they searched it for bids but they couldn't find any. About 11:30 one came in from Boston.

"This fellow Cramer, he says to me, that he can neither accept my bid or advertise for new ones. 'Why not?' I says. 'I have to wait till Forbes comes back from the West,' says he. 'I haven't the authority.'

"I told him if I didn't have no more authority than he did I wouldn't try to hold the job down. Then I left. I was disgusted with the whole outfit, I was."

O'Connor's bid, however, was $420,000, as against the lowest bid of $133,000.

Reluctant Testimony.

Further evidence of alleged collusion came reluctantly today from Owen Hughes of Dallas, Tex., a friend and associate of Thompson, whose firm, the Hughes-O'Rourke Co., does most of Thompson's subcontracting in the South. He identified telegrams which passed be-

BLIND WOMAN IS DEFRAUDED OF $4 BY A CUSTOMER

Proprietress of Tobacco Stand at City Hall Takes Man's Word That $1 Bill Is $5.

The tobacco and candy stand concession in the city hall rotunda is operated by Mr. and Mrs. E. Forhsee of 4253W Evans avenue, both of whom are blind, but who, by reason of their compensating acute sense of touch, mixed with average human sympathy, are enabled to carry on the business of selling merchandise and making change as though, to a degree, they were in possession of sight.

At least, to the hundreds of city hall employes, many of whom daily make purchases of fruit, sweets, soda water or tobacco at the stand, their affliction is hardly percebtible.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Forshee was waiting on trade, being on duty alone in the absence of her husband, who was ill at home. She had served a negro janitor with a glass of milk, when a man, bareheaded and in shirt sleeves, came to the counter and called for a 15-cent purchase of tobacco. Then he tendered a bill—a $1 bill.

"A five," responded the customer, who received his purchase and $4.85 in change, and walked rapidly down the hall. The transaction, however, was observed by the negro janitor, who reported it to the chief janitor, after which the fraud was confirmed. The witness then made the round of offices in the building, but failed to find the customer.

This morning an employe of the Recorder's office appeared at the cigar stand with $4 gathered by his fellow-employes among themselves. A few minutes later, Mayor Kiel's secretary apeared with another $4, from the Mayor's staff. Mrs. Forshee refused the second offering and it was redivided among the donors.

700-FOOT BROADCASTING TOWER PLANNED FOR CHICAGO

It Is to Surmount Temple of Agriculture, Which Is to Contain Immense Convention Hall.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—A world's temple to agriculture, including a broadcasting tower rivaling the Eiffel Tower in Paris, a convention hall of 20,000 seats and a hotel of 3500 rooms, the whole to cost $30,000,000, is planned for Chicago by a group headed by Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois. The structure to be erected here would be known as the American Agricultural Society Building.

According to plans the building would be the center of farm activities in America such as was urged in recent resolutions adopted by delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention. Associated with Lowden are William Wrigley Jr., Robert M. Stewart, Lawrence Whiting and others.

Financing of the project is assured, according to Whiting, whose company financed the American Furniture Mart Building, recently completed here.

TANK ON AUTO EXPLODES, SERIOUSLY BURNING MACHINE

Sam Renaud, 39 years old, an automobile mechanic, of 2746 Park avenue, was critically burned at 3 p. m. today when accumulated gas in the tank of a worn-out automobile exploded in the rear yard of the Modern Auto Parts Co., at 1722 Lafayette avenue.

Renaud was dismantling the machine, cutting off parts with an acetylene torch, when the flame pierced the tank and ignited the gas. The tank burst with a flash of flame which burned him from head to foot.

UNTRUE THAT ALL ARE EQUAL BEFORE LAW, SAYS GRIMM

Judge, in Luncheon Talk, Calls Attention to "Case of Wealthy Man Charged With Murder."

"POOR MUST TAKE UNTRAINED LAWYERS"

Advocates Speedier Trials for Influential Defendants and Putting Witnesses Under Bond.

"As a matter of common experience, it is not true that all men are equal before the law."

Circuit Judge J. Hugo Grimm made this declaration in a luncheon talk to the Cosmopolitan Club at the American Annex Hotel today, and pointed his assertion with a reference to "the case of a wealthy, influential man charged with murder in the first degree." He did not mention the name of Lem Motlow, wealthy Tennessee distiller, who was acquitted of a murder charge in St. Louis last week.

"Take the case of such a man," he said, "and then, on the other hand, take the poor man who has neither money nor influence; are they equal before the law? Let us see.

"Excuses for Delays."

"The man of wealth and influence who happens to commit a crime, and the members of the brotherhood who make crime a business and who are highly organized, seem to be able not only to employ the best legal talent, but they seem to have a faculty of finding witnesses to support their defense, and seem able to find excuses for delays, which unfortunately result in the absence of important witnesses for the State, due to death, disappearance from the State and unwillingness to return, and often to the most remarkable lapses of memory on the part of the State's witnesses. Or, among their array of distinguished lawyers, one or the other is engaged in another trial, and to accommodate him a continuance may be granted, and this may be repeated several times.

"Take the man without money or influence, however, and what is his position? Instead of selecting high-priced and very able lawyers in impressive numbers, he must take what is given him, usually a young, inexperienced lawyer. Not only that, but his counsel works without reward or hope of reward. It is a pretty well-known fact that a fee stimulates the intellect and ingenuity of counsel, and the larger the fee the greater the mental effort. And when we have the unpaid lawyer working for charity, we have in addition to his inexperience a certain amount of friction in his mental machinery, due to the absence of a suitable lubricant in the form of a retainer.

"Perjured Testimony."

"That in many cases defendants escape, as a result of perjured testimony and manufactured alibis, is known to all who have had experience in the criminal courts, and this sort of testimony is not produced in the case of the unfortunate offender who has little or not money and no influence."

As to possible remedies, Judge Grimm said some might advise that all the lawyers be killed, or that all the politicians be similarly dealt with, but that this would be too sweeping a measure, since there were honorable lawyers and worthy politicians.

"The first and most important thing, in my opinion," Judge Grimm continued, "is to bring an accused person to trial as speedily as possible, and the wealthier and more influential and powerful the offender is, the sooner should his case be brought to trial. Even if the dockets are crowded, it would be much better to advance such cases on the docket, because the delays are not nearly so dangerous in the case of accused persons who have neither wealth nor influence. In England a person charged with crime is brought to trial within two or three weeks after his indictment and arrest. If he is convicted and appeals, his appeal is heard within a month or so, and if a case is sent back for a new trial, which occurs very rarely, the second trial is had within two or three months after the indictment.

Bond for Witnesses.

"And important witnesses in that country—and in our Federal courts, for that matter—are put under bond to appear at the trial, and in default of giving such bond are locked up until after they have testified. If a case is tried within a

Cold Weather To Spread Over Country Tomorrow

Temperatures Will Begin Falling in Mississippi Valley by Tomorrow Night.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The decidedly cold weather which now is over the Northwest, is expected by the Weather Bureau to spread over the greater part of the United States before Thursday.

Temperatures will begin falling in the lower Ohio Valley tonight, the upper Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys Wednesday or Wednesday night, and the Atlantic States Thursday.

The great area of high pressure and intensely cold weather from Alaska has now overspread the Canadian Northwest, the Northern Rocky Mountain region, the northern plains states and Minnesota. The lowest temperature reported was 42 degrees below zero at Edmonton, Alberta.

30 Below in Montana.

By the Associated Press.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Dec. 16.—A temperature drop of 84 degrees in 12 hours was registered yesterday from noon at Fairfield, on the United States reclamation records. At noon Sunday the Government thermometer stood at 63 above zero; at 12 o'clock Sunday night it was 21 below. A blizzard is reported at Shelby and also at Sunburst where it was 30 below yesterday. It was 16 below at noon in Great Falls.

20 Below Zero in North Dakota.

COOLIDGE CALLS TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS NATIONAL EVIL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The appalling yearly toll of traffic accidents has mounted to such proportions that they have became an evil of national concern, President Coolidge declared today in an informal address to delegates to the national conference on street and highway safety.

Recommendations designed to assist city, state and Federal authorities in achieving a reduction in accidents were agreed upon at the concluding session of the national conference on street and highway safety, assembled at the call of Secretary Hoover.

Suggestions were made as to uniform methods of traffic control, traffic signalling and zoning plans in cities affecting traffic movement. A proposal for general betterment in the systems of accident reporting and investigation and in the compilation of statistics was included.

300 MEN PUT TO WORK AT CHEVROLET MOTOR PLANT HERE

Three hundred men started to work today at the local Chevrolet Motor Co. plant, Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue, as a result of an order issued by General Manager Charles F. Barth of Flint, Mich., that production be resumed immediately.

The local plant was operated on a part production plan until last month, when it was closed for inventory. Full production will be under way by Jan. 15, John F. Wildgen, local manager, said today. Under full production 1000 men are employed in the local production department, and the daily output is 500 cars, Wildgen said. The local plant is chiefly an assembly station, manufacturing only the bodies of the cars.

More than 3000 men returned to work at the main plant of the Chevrolet company at Flint, Mich., today. It was announced that this plant, where motors and chassis are made, would be under full production on a day and night schedule before Jan. 1.

WIFE OF COMPOSER DIES OF POISONING

Mrs. Dorothy Stotheart Succumbs After Kneeling Before Husband After Quarrel.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Dorothy Stotheart, 25 years old, wife of Herbert Stotheart, composer of musical comedies, died this morning of poison in her apartment in the exclusive Pomander Walk colony under circumstances prompting a police investigation. Officials could not say definitely the nature of the poison which killed her and why she took it.

Stotheart told the police his wife came into the living room of their apartment at 3 a. m. He was at the piano working on a composition. She knelt before him, he said, after first kneeling in front of an empty chair. He tried first aid measures after calling an ambulance, but she did not respond.

A physician the husband called also tried resuscitative measures, but Mrs. Stotheart died quickly and apparently without pain.

Stotheart said his wife was a high-strung woman without cause for worry. He is a handsome man and, while admitting frankly that he did not believe he had given his wife real cause for jealousy, he added that other women had been attracted to him despite his wishes.

"Rose Marie" a Success.

Stotheart has had many successes on Broadway, the most recent and most successful being "Rose Marie."

Stotheart told the police he had gone to the theater alone last night to study some catchy music. His temperament, he said, demanded that he be alone on such excursions.

He met his wife just before 11 p. m. and they went to a motion picture show. It bored them and they left. In the lobby of the picture theater they quarreled, "nothing serious, just one of the tiny things that often come up in married life," he said.

This difference was adjusted before they got home and both were cheerful. They sat and talked until almost 2 a. m., when they went out for a bite to eat. When they returned a half hour later, Mrs. Stotheart went to the bedroom and he to his piano.

In the Living Room.

At his request, she brought him a pen, that he might jot down the combination of notes as he played them. She quietly returned to the bedroom. Then she came back to the living room.

"She sort of staggered, I thought," said her husband. "She knelt in front of an empty chair and I told her to stop fooling. Then she came to me and knelt at my feet. She put her head in my lap. I spoke. She didn't answer. I called my aunt, who lives with us. Then we called out the window for a policeman. I tried to force milk down her throat and failed. Then the ambulance came. Dr. Barrus looked her over. He told me she was dead."

Police could find no trace of poison in the apartment. The aunt said she had found crystals in a glass of water in the kitchen but had thought nothing of it and allowed it to be washed down the sink.

SCHOLLMEYER IS SENTENCED TO 15 YEARS IN PRISON

Convicted of Burglary and Second Degree Larceny by Jury in Judge Hamilton's Court.

10 YEARS ON FIRST COUNT, 5 ON SECOND

Woman in Whose Flat Stolen Goods Were Found Appears as a Witness for the Prosecution.

William A. Schollmeyer, whose law-breaking exploits kept the police busy for a time last summer and made him a frequent inmate of Central District holdover, was found guilty today, by a jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court, of second degree burglary and larceny. The jury assessed the maximum punishment—10 years in the penitentiary on the burglary charge and five years for larceny, a total of 15 years.

Schollmeyer, who formerly was a clerk of the Board of Education, was charged with the robbery, March 27, of the store of A. H. Asadorian, importer, 4320 Olive street, in which 17 Oriental rugs valued at $15,000 and several hundred dollars' worth of statuary and bric-a-brac were stolen.

He was charged with second degree burglary and larceny and receiving stolen property. The Court instructed the jury that if Schollmeyer was found guilty on the first two counts he should be found not guilty on the third. The jury deliberated an hour and five minutes beginning at 2 p. m. and reporting at 3:05.

Testimony of Doctor.

Testifying as to Schollmeyer's mental and emotional makeup Dr. William Nelson, director of the Psychiatric Clinic, told the Court and jury today that the defendant has the mind of a 12-year-old boy and that he is "markedly defective" and a "feeble-minded individual."

Dr. Nelson, in reply to a hypothetical question on cross-examination, said he believed Schollmeyer was incapable mentally of profiting by his experience. The fact that he continued in his conflicts with the law, after he had been arrested several times and indicted, showed his incapability of recording and correlating his experiences to his future profit, Dr. Nelson said.

"Markedly Defective."

Dr. Nelson prefaced his testimony by stating that he was appearing neither for defense or State, but on the request of the Court. During a discussion which followed it developed that John Collins, counsel for Schollmeyer, had requested Judge Hamilton to order a psychiatric examination of his client. The request was made by the Court of Dr. Nelson, who appeared to testify in pursuance to the request. Apparently Dr. Nelson was testifying during the presentation of the defense only because his findings happened to be favorable to the defense. The witness said a searching examination of Schollmeyer, who is 31 years old, showed that the defendant was "markedly defective" and not up to normal.

"Examination of his life from childhood showed that he was always irresponsible," Dr. Nelson said. "He was raised in a good environment and had the opportunity to gain an education. His brothers took advantage of these opportunities, but Schollmeyer failed to do so."

Dr. Nelson said he found Schollmeyer was not able to distinguish absolutely between right and wrong or to determine with certainty his duties to God, the State and his neighbor. He placed his average mental age at 12 years, explaining that viewed from some aspects he was older than 12 mentally, while from other angles he was younger.

Mrs. Joynson Testifies for State.

Mrs. Pearl Joynson, former sweetheart of Schollmeyer, in whose flat at 4458A Page boulevard some of the goods stolen from the Asadorian shop were found, was the chief witness against Schollmeyer yesterday. Mrs. Joynson was indicted jointly with the former saloon keeper but the charge was dismissed yesterday to allow her to testify.

A former model, Mrs. Joynson is a slim, graceful woman in her 30's. She was modishly clad in a dark frock and wore a blue coat with blue fox fur collar and cuffs. Her dark bobbed hair was crowned with a small blue turban. During her testimony she was composed except when questioned about her relations with the defendant. She was in tears when

IBANEZ NOT GOING TO SPAIN TO FEED 'FAMISHED SHARKS'

Author Laughs at Madrid Edict Calling Him Before a Military Judge.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Dec. 16.—Vicente Blasco Ibanez, the Spanish author, who recently, from Paris, has been attacking the King and the Government of Spain in pamphlets scattered in various parts of Spain by airplanes, has been summoned to appear before a military judge in Madrid to answer charges made against him.

"Vicente Blasco Ibanez, lately domiciled in Valencia, is hereby summoned to appear within 15 days from the publication of the edict before a military judge, whose official residence is Calle Goya, No. 36, for the purpose of giving testimony regarding the case which Captain of the Cavalry Joaquin Martinez Friera is investigating, dealing with the seizure of a pamphlet, written in Spanish and entitled, 'A Nation Seized; the Militaristic Terror in Spain.'"

Ibanez at present is in France.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Vicente Blasco Ibanez, Spanish author, laughed heartily when informed of the edict just published in Madrid summoning him to appear before a military judge in the Spanish capital.

"It is unnecessary to say that I shall not respond to the invitation," he said. "I would just as soon take refuge on a cannibal island or throw myself into waters inhabited by hungry crocodiles or famished sharks as to confide myself to the Government of bandits now ruling Spain."

BRITISH AUTHOR TELLS WHY WALES DOES NOT MARRY

Says Prince Is Injected With Socialism and Thinks He Never Will Be King.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—In a half-facetious, half-serious speech before the Philadelphia branch of the English-Speaking Union, Cosmo Hamilton, British author and playwright, said the reason the Prince of Wales refuses to marry is that he believes he will never be King of England.

The Prince, he explained, has been exposed to the doctrines of Socialism so much that he has had the germ injected somewhat in his own veins.

"The Prince of Wales is a great chap, a charming fellow and very human," Hamilton said. "He loses his head from time to time, but that doesn't matter. At present he is suffering from a very extraordinary state of affairs, which is undermining every step he is taking toward the throne.

"The fashionable hobby in London right now is Socialism. One can't be smart unless one is one, so to speak. It is like the cross-word puzzle here.

"The Prince is up against it. He doesn't marry because there has been injected into him from all sides the virus of Socialism. He has had it rubbed into him so much that he will never be King, that he doesn't see why he should perpetrate a royal marriage with some near-reigning beauty for reasons of state, have children he doesn't want, and be unhappy the rest of his life."

HIRAM JOHNSON WOULD CHANGE ELECTORAL SYSTEM

Proposes Amendment for Election of President by Plurality, Rather Than Majority.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A resolution proposing a constitutional amendment providing for election of a President by a plurality of electors rather than a majority was introduced today by Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in the last pre-convention campaign.

DEMOCRATS TO TIE UP LEGISLATURE IN REPRISAL

WOULD HAVE CAUCUS DENY APPOINTMENTS

Proposes Inquiry Into Conduct of State Departments With Passage of Appropriation Bills Only.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

If plans announced today by State Senator Frank H. Farris, Democratic floor leader of the Senate and former chairman of the Democratic State Committee, are carried out, not one of the appointees of Governor-elect Baker will be confirmed and no legislation advocated by Baker will receive the approval of the Senate, which is overwhelmingly Democratic.

"Apparently, the Republicans have started out to play the meanest kind of politics," Senator Farris today said. "They will learn that that road is strewn with sharp stones and prickly thorns. There are no real pressing legislative needs in Missouri just now, and the Senate can very well occupy its time with an investigation of the numerous irregularities in nearly all the State departments, as they have been managed under the Republican administration.

Farris' Proposal.

"It will be my advice to the Democratic Senate caucus to institute these investigations, to deny Baker every appointment he desires, to pass little if anything except the appropriation bills, and on the completion of the investigation, to adjourn and go home."

Senator Farris' statement was occasioned by information that at the last legal moment, the Republicans had instituted contests to unseat a sufficient number of Democratic members of the House of Representatives to give control of the joint assembly to the Republicans. There are four contests and if the Republicans should be seated, as they can be, the Republicans having a majority in the House, the Democratic majority of six on joint ballot will be changed to a Republican majority of two.

In two of the districts in which contests have been instituted, the vote was very close, the Democrat winning in Jefferson County by only one vote and in Dade County by only 14 votes. In these districts there are allegations of illegalities in the elections. In contests begun in Benton County and for one of the Greene County seats, the allegation is that the successful Democratic candidates had not complied with the constitutional requirement that they must have paid a State and county tax within one year.

Nelson Undecided.

The contests are the culmination of reports which have persisted for several weeks that Republican contests would be instituted to make certain Republican control of the joint assembly in case Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, defeated Democratic candidate for Governor, should contest the election of Baker. Officers of the Republican State Committee several weeks ago allayed these rumors by a direct statement that contests would not be filed. Nelson said today he was undecided whether he would contest.

"I have nothing to say about the contests in Jefferson and Dade Counties," Senator Farris said. "The elections there were very close, but the purely arbitrary contests begun in the other counties should not be tolerated. There never has been a Legislature in which there have not been several members who have not paid their taxes. No attention ever has been given to it, except in one contest many years ago. Nearly anybody is liable to become delinquent in his taxes.

"It is surprising to me that the Republicans did not foresee exactly what the effect of their sort of cheap political trickery would be. The Democratic Senators, and we have a majority of 12 in the Senate, will caucus Jan. 6, and then we will determine the exact details of our course.

"State Will Not Suffer."

"Governor-elect Baker will have a lot of appointees he will want confirmed. He will get none of them confirmed. He will have a

GOMPERS' BODY LIES IN STATE AT WASHINGTON

BRIEF RITES BY ELKS TONIGHT

Mystic Shrine to Place Wreath on Casket After Which It Will Be Taken to New York.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The funeral train bearing the body of Samuel Gompers reached Washington at 3:15 p. m. today.

Mrs. Gompers and the veteran labor leader's three sons met the casket in the President's room at Union Station.

The Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor, various delegations of labor unions, and 50 women from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing were in the cortege to the Labor Building.

Within the halls of the structure where he had carried on his toil of years for the cause of organized labor in America, a space was set apart to receive the body in a last tribute to his leadership.

After reposing in state in the Federation of Labor Headquarters Building for six hours, the body at shortly after 10 o'clock tonight will be borne for the last time through its portals to be started on the way to its last resting place in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery at Tarrytown, N. Y.

The hour for opening the doors of the building to the public had been arranged to permit a first opportunity to the family to remain with the body for a brief time after its arrival. Ritualistic services, conducted at the bier tonight by the Washington Lodge of Elks, to be followed by the placing of a wreath on the casket by members of the Mystic Shrine, are to be the only ceremonial features of the tribute.

The reception hall of the building selected for the casket's repose is a plainly, almost barely, furnished room, with sweeping wall space broken only by an oil portrait of the dead labor chief and an antlered head, given to him by Wyoming trade unionists.

Although the Federal Government, through its high officials, will take no part in the obsequies here, a military guard of honor, comprising a Sergeant and 10 men, accompanied the body through the streets of the capital today.

"In recognition of his conspicuous war service and at the request of officers of the American Federation of Labor," said a statement by the War Department, "the War Department has detailed a Sergeant and 10 men to guard the remains of the late President Samuel Gompers from the Union Station to the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor and on the return to the station."

The order, issued by Secretary Weeks, was a recognition of Mr. Gompers' leadership of labor during the World War.

Mountain Towns of East Pay Tribute to the Dead.

By the Associated Press.

ON BOARD GOMPERS' TRAIN, EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 16.—Through the mountains and valleys of West Virginia and Maryland, the train carrying to Washington the body of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Lalabor, halted frequently today to permit thousands to see the face of the dead leader. Many thousands had to be turned away because of lack of time. The train arrived heer at 11:30 a. m., about 30 minutes late.

At Keyser, W. Va., a town of 6000 population, more than 1000 assembled to see the bier, but only a part could be accommodated. All the mountain towns paid a similar tribute and where the train did not stop workmen ceased their labors for a moment to bare their heads as the funeral cortege passed.

One of the most touching scenes of the trip was at Parkersburg, W. Va., which was reached at 3:45 a. m. The Mayor and several hundred citizens gathered, to pay their respects. Practically all of the official party were asleep, except the new watch of two comrades who raised the lid of the casket while the people filed quietly past.

The locomotive broke loose from the train a few miles west of Piedmont, W. Va., early today, on a 17-mile grade but the coaches came to a stop under their own brakes without damage. The locomotive was again attached and the train proceeded.

Thousands of laboring men from Cincinnati and its environs paid tribute to the late president of the American Federation of Labor when the funeral train reached that city last night for a 30-minute stop. Large floral offerings were placed aboard the car.

From the hoboes of America, whom Gompers helped to organize into a body, came a floral tribute in the form of a basket of chrysanthemums. The Central Labor Council, representing the organized men of Cincinnati, placed a large floral wreath aboard the car.

Secretary Hughes to Represent President Coolidge at Funeral.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

The active pallbearers, also formally announced by Frayne, will be James Duncan, Frank Duffy, William Green, Matthrew Woll, Martin F. Ryan, Thomas A. Rickett, Jacob Fisher, James Wilson, Daniel J. Tobin and Frank Morrison, who make up the Executive Council of the Federation.

Arrangements for handling what is expected to be the largest crowd to gather in the city recently were made with Police Commissioner Enright yesterday., Forty-third street, in which the Elks Club, from which the funeral will be held, is located, will be closed to traffic between Sixth avenue and Broadway Thursday. The route of the funeral cortege will be Broadway to the city line. There Westchester County police will take charge and conduct it to Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, Tarrytown, where interment will be made.

When the body arrives in this city tomorrow morning it will be met in the Pennsylvania Station by an honorary committee of labor men resident here or now in this city and by details from the Army and Navy and taken on a gun carriage to the Elks clubhouse, to lie in state until the funeral services at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

Mexicans to Lay Down Tools Hour for Gompers' Funeral.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—Workers throughout Mexico have been called upon by the Regional Federation of Labor to lay down their tools for one hour during the funeral of Samuel Gompers, whose journey to Mexico City, made to attend the Pan-American Labor Congress, proved to be his last one.

German Labor Federaton Cables Condolences.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—The General Federation of German Trades Unions, which has a membership of 5,000,000, has cabled condolences to American workmen on the death of Samuel Gompers. Gompers was a man whom "it will be difficult to replace," said the message.

Predicts "Wirelessing" By Mind This Generation

Scientist, Following Tests by Prof. Murray, Says Human Beings Will 'Tune In' on Long Distance Messages.

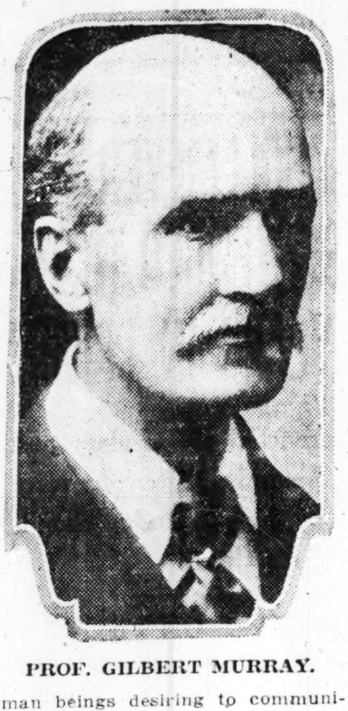
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1924.)

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The experiments in thought transmission which were carried out by Gilbert Murray and indorsed by Lord Balfour have not only created a sensation in lay circles, but have evoked the astonishing prediction that human beings within this generation will be able to tune their minds to receive long-distance communications.

Prof. Murray successfully recorded five messages out of ten involving a lengthy translation from a Russian novel which he had never read. The conditions imposed by investigators left no chance of fraud.

Experts discard the theory that Murray possesses an abnormally acute sense of hearing and prefer to believe that we are now on the brink of the strangest field of scientific investigation, with every prospect of discovering a means of using the unconscious mind for the purpose of communicating messages of ideas.

One eminent investigator declares that thought waves go forth from the human mind much after the fashion of electrical impulses and when properly controlled they impinge upon the thought waves of other minds which are sympathetically tuned. He cites the well-known physical fact that glass tuned to give a note when struck creates the same note in other glasses which are similarly tuned. This leads to the theory that human beings desiring to communicate with each other need only experiment with each other to find the most favorable circumstances for thought transmission.



PROF. GILBERT MURRAY.

Recent disclosures of this nature point to the fact that at least half a dozen of England's foremost scientists are actively engaged in this field of research and delving constantly into the uncharted regions of mental activity with remarkable results.

Sir Oliver Lodge is emphatic in his belief that communication between human beings need not depend upon mechanical devices. The English scientists have been able to enlist the co-operation of some of the greatest laymen, as Gilbert Murray did, thus insuring the application of rigid tests conceived by disinterested but able minds.

FINED 10TH TIME FOR TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATIONS SINCE 1920

Joseph Stockman, 29 years old, of 5740 Kingsbury avenue, a service car driver, was fined $5 and costs in Police Judge Homer's court today upon his plea of guilty of driving through a street car safety zone at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue on Nov. 26.

It was his tenth fine for traffic law violations since 1920 and his nineteenth arrest. William Schoenbein, a bystander, who took his license number at the time of the offense, appeared as prosecuting witness.

When informed of Stockman's record after the hearing, Judge Homer expressed annoyance at the failure of the police to make the facts known to him earlier. Had he known of the man's record, he said, the fine would have been much heavier.

UNTRUE THAT ALL ARE EQUAL BEFORE LAW, SAYS GRIMM

few weeks, this would not be so great a hardship. Moreover, the average respectable citizen will have no trouble in giving bond.

"We have a statute in this State expressly authorizing the courts, upon a preliminary hearing, where the defendant is held, to put witnesses under bond. If we will speed up the trial of these criminal cases and show some zeal in holding witnesses and preventing their being reached and intimidated, and if, when we find witnesses perjuring themselves, we prosecute them for it, then, notwithstanding the well-known difficulties of conviction, a different story will be told of the administration of the criminal law."

Judge Grimm said he was not in sympathy with much of the criticism heaped upon jurors. Juries are not to be censured for acquitting in cases where they find a reasonable doubt, he said. "The most severe criticism that I would make about juries is that in assessing the punishment they often show too great a tenderness for the defendant, but even this is a failing that leans to virtue's side; and perhaps the juries are not deserving of much blame even for this tenderness, for after all, what makes punishment a deterrent to crime is not its severity, but its certainty."

Judge Grimm spoke of the need of public sentiment in favor of law observance and enforcement. This, he said, is largely a matter of education, and the schools and the press have a duty in this regard. He said the newspapers have rendered splendid public service in calling attention to defects in the laws and error in their administration.

DEMOCRATS TO TIE UP STATE LEGISLATURE IN REPRISAL ON CONTESTS

legislative program he will want adopted, but it will not be adopted. The State will not suffer. We have laws now covering every conceivable subject; too much law. If there is anything that really is needed, the measures will originate in the Democratic Senate. Nothing that Baker and the Republican organization wants will be adopted.

"As a matter of fact the Senate could very well put in the entire 70 days of the session investigating and exposing the illegal conduct of a number of State officers. There has been collected considerable information of serious irregularities by several heads of departments. We can get the evidence by a proper investigation, and my advice to the caucus will be to undertake it."

The contests begun by the Republicans are:

Jesse L. Sargent for the seat of Charles G. Goodnight, Jefferson County.

J. M. Brotherton for the seat of Fred Frye, Dade County.

Election Contest in Benton County Abandoned

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WARSAW, Mo., Dec. 16. — John W. Stanton, former Representative of Benton County, who contested the election of Carl A. Baldwin, Democrat, who defeated him Nov. 4 by about 600 votes, served notice yesterday afternoon abandoning the contest. The suit was based by Stanton on the contention that Baldwin was not eligible because of tax requirements.

CONFESSED BANK ROBBER, ON STAND FOR STATE, FREED

Joe Neuby Accuses Four Others of Participation in $11,000 Columbia (Ill.) Holdup.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WATERLOO, Ill., Dec. 16.—Joe Neuby of East St. Louis, who admits that he was one of the seven men who robbed the First National Bank of Columbia of $11,371 Sept. 3 last, walked from the Monroe County Courthouse this afternoon, free, after State's Attorney Fridrichs had dismissed the charge against him, in consideration of his testimony against the four other men on trial here for the robbery.

Mrs. Agnes Young Clinard of East St. Louis, who testified for the State as a witness, in rebuttal, met Neuby as he left the courtroom. "Stick around," she remarked to reporters as she walked away with Neuby, "and you may see a wedding."

Testimony Closes.

Testimony in the case closed at 1:50 p. m. and an hour for a side was alloted to the arguments for and against the defendants, whose number was reduced from five to four by the nolle prosequi order as to Neuby. The case was expected to go to the jury before night.

Neuby's testimony is not the sole reliance of the State, as all the defendants have been identified by employes of the bank and neighboring merchants who viewed various stages of the robbery. He told, as in his signed confession, the substance of which appeared in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, of the robbery and of the escape of himself and the others in a stolen automobile and a motorboat bought for $500.

Used Stolen Auto.

Neuby related that three of the men went to Columbia, 15 miles south of East St. Louis in a Marmon touring car stolen in East St. Louis in August, and that the others went to Columbia by trolley car. The seven met in front of the bank, he said, and four, of whom he was one, went in, the others remaining in the car.

Those who entered and robbed the bank, Neuby testified, were himself, Jess Ripley, Arthur Hornberger and Jesse Stoneking. Those who stayed in the machine, he said, were Arthur Edgar, Charles Green and Cyrus Brinkley.

Ripley and Green are under indictment, but are not on trial here, and dispatches have stated that they are held in Shawnee, Ok., for the $18,000 robbery of a national bank there last Wednesday. The others are defendants in the present case.

Neuby related how the men with him held up Emil Brucker, assistant cashier, and how Ripley scooped up the money in the tellers' cages, and then that Brucker was forced to open the vault and get more money.

Crossed in Motorboat.

After leaving the bank, he said, they drove north in the machine to Baltz, and thence to the Mississippi River. They found a motorboat which, he said, Hornberger and Green had bought the day before. Crossing to the Missouri side, he said, they found three automobiles awaiting them.

Drivers were in two Ford cars, he said, while the third car, a Chandler, was empty. He did not know the two drivers, or whether they knew of the facts of the robbery.

The party drove through St. Louis, over McKinley bridge and to Granite City, Neuby said. In Granite City, he said, they went to the home of a sister of Stoneking and divided the money, after which they parted.

Neuby identified the revolver found outside the bank as that which had been carried by Hornberger, and said it fell out of its holster when Hornberger ran against a door in getting out. A cap found by the roadside near Baltz was identified by the witness as Green's.

Questioned by Defense.

Harold Bandy, defense counsel, asked two questions of Neuby. He asked whether Neuby had told Mrs. Clinard, when she recently visited him at the police station, that the State had "the goods" on him, but that if he "framed" the others, he would get out. He denied having said this. The other question was whether he said, to the same woman, that if Ripley and Green had not escaped, he would not have had to "frame" the rest. He denied saying this also. He admitted that he had been getting better meals, in the last few days, than the other defendants, and that his dinners yesterday and Sunday came from the Sheriff's kitchen.

Defense Testimony.

The defense began by placing Stoneking on the stand, to swear that he had heard Neuby, in talking to a woman visitor, make both the statements, previously cited. Stoneking, who is 23 years old, lives at 2611 South Broadway. He denied knowing Ripley and Green and said he met Neuby for the first time in a roadhouse near East St. Louis, the night of his arrest. He said he was at home on the day of the robbery and that he never was in Columbia.

Hornberger, who is 18 years old and lives in North Venice, gave similar testimony as to the conversation between Neuby and Mrs. Clinard. Neither he nor Stoneking could remember what she said in reply.

Hornberger then testified to an alibi for himself, saying he was at the home of Mrs. May Fietsam, in North Venice, from 10 a. m. to noon on the day of the robbery, which took place at 10:45 a. m. Mrs. Fietsam testified later, supporting this statement. Hornberger admitted having been in Columbia a week before the robbery, but denied the story of a boy witness that he had asked the boy questions about the bank. He said he knew none of the other defendants except Stoneking.

Testimony Supports Alibi.

Edgar Fietsam testified in support of his wife's statement, saying his wife was sick and he was at home with her when Hornberger was at the house. Mrs. Fern Vumsteg, who said she was at the house helping to care for the sick woman, gave the same testimony in support of the alibi. It was brought out in cross-examination that Fietsam and Mrs. Vumsteg had called on Hornberger, with his parents, since he was a prisoner. Mrs. Minnie Hornberger, the deefndant's mother, told of being in Columbia with him Aug. 31, the stop there being because of an automobile breakdown.

Mrs. Mamie Shushank and her husband, William Shushank, who said they were keeping a restaurant at 2611 South Broadway in September, testified to an alibi for Stoneking, saying he ate at the place between 11 a. m. and noon on the day of the robbery.

John L. Jackson, 16, of Columbia, Hornberger's cousin, testified that he was with him when Willis Schneider, a State's witness, was riding about Columbia with them, and that he heard no questions asked by Hornberger as to the bank. The other boy testified yesterday that Hornberger asked questions as to the bank and its resources.

Mrs. Clinard, called for the State in rebuttal, said, that Neuby had not made the statements attributed to him by two other prisoners. Two officials in charge of the jail testified that the two prisoners were not where they could have heard remarks passing between Neuby and Mrs. Clinard.

The order for the dismissal of the case, as to Neuby, was then entered by the State's Attorney, who told the jury not to consider the case further as to Neuby. "Then he's free," said Attorney Bandy. There was objection to its remark.

Thompson Note and Check to Him Identified

tween Thompson and himself early in 1922.

In one of these Thompson instructed Hughes to write a letter to individuals whom Thompson would name in a separate telegram, applying for hospital contracts. The supplementary telegram directed him to address the letter to Forbes, but to send it inclosed to E. H. Mortimer at Wardman Park Inn, Washintgon.

Copies of the letter to Forbes and the covering note to Mortimer were produced and identified, with similar correspondence between Thompson and Hughes. The witness was an unwilling one and admitted that he had shown the file of correspondence to Thompson since arriving here to testify. He said his firm had acted as subcontractor for Thompson for 25 years.

Hotel registers showing the presence of Forbes, the Mortimers, Black and Charles Hurley, another contractor, at San Francisco and Spokane were introduced. At San Francisco, Hurley registered in a private register instead of the customary one.

Chided Forbes and Was Transferred, With Cut in Pay.

Testimony corroborative of that of Mortimer was given yesterday by John B. Milliken, an attorney, formerly in the bureau under Forbes and now in the Treasury Department. He is a nephew of the late John T. Milliken, St. Louis multimillionaire.

Milliken, a scholarly, level-toned young man, told of having been a member of the party which took the celebrated junket to the Pacific Coast in 1912, at a time, the Government charges, when the conspiracy was being hatched. Milliken said that no sooner had the party left Washington, than he inquired of Forbes who the Mortimers were and why they were there. Forbes replied that they were neighbors and personal friends who happened to be going West at that particular time. Milliken said he knew nothing of the fact that Mortimer represented contractors who were seeking contracts from Forbes.

As to his own duties on the trip, one of them was to compose a speech for Forbes to deliver at a convention of disabled veterans in California, Milliken said. He added that he wrote several speeches for Forbes, but did not know whether they were ever delivered.

The party met Thompson at Chicago and it met his partner, James W. Black, at Seattle, after having been joined at San Francisco by Charles Hurley, another contractor, whose name occurred frequently in Mortimer's testimony.

The Gutthell Case.

Forbes and Mortimer discussed with Milliken the $700,000 claim which Thompson had against the Government arising out of the wartime seizure of his ship, the Guttheil, and Forbes asked Milliken to recommend a lawyer in Los Angeles to take depositions. This was significant testimony. Mortimer had testified that Forbes was to get $33,333 if Thompson's claim was allowed, while the defense maintains that Forbes was innocent of any connection with the Guttheil matter.

Similarly, Milliken testified that he knew about the Colombian project of Thompson and Black, wherein they proposed to get rich concessions in Latin-America. In fact, the contract drawn up between a Colombian syndicate and the Black-Thompson interests was submitted for his approval. He said he was given to understand that friends of Forbes were interested in it. Mortimer testified that Forbes accepted an offer of a $100,000 a year salary from Thompson and Black in connection with the Colombian enterprise. There, again, the defense contends that Forbes had no interest and has charged Mortimer with "framing" the story.

It was after leaving Spokane, following a round of parties and other social events in which Forbes and the Mortimers participated, that Milliken gave Forbes a piece of his mind.

"I went into his drawing room on the train and told him bluntly that I didn't like the aspect of things," he regtated.

"The trip seemed to have a social tinge. I spoke of certain relationships and the talk they were creating. It would be improper for me to repeat it here because women were involved. I told him I felt he should be more circumspect, lest his indiscretions be misunderstood, to his own detriment and that of the bureau. I said I didn't like the idea of the Mortimers being along."

"Well, what did he say to that?" inquired Judge Carpenter, leaning over toward the witness. "He replied that I had got a wrong impression about his conduct and that my informants had been in error about his actions.

What He Told Hurley.

"Then he asked me if I had told Hurley that, if I were in Forbes' place I would resign, for the good of the bureau. I replied that I had told Hurley I thought he was temperamentally unfitted for the office, and that I felt it would be best both for him and for the bureau if he did get out. But I had not suggested anything improper or corrupt in his administration.

"Forbes said he was glad to have it explained because Hurley had got the impression that I believed there was something crooked."

Soon after his return to Washington, Milliken learned that Forbes proposed to let the Northampton foundation contract to the Pontiac Construction Co., Black's firm, notwithstanding that another bid was lower. He said he protested against this to the Planning Committee, composed of division heads in the bureau, telling the committee that he believed it was not only in violation of President Harding's strict orders, but was actually illegal. Forbes defended his intention on the ground that the Pontiac guaranteed swifter work, he said.

Transferred at Pay Cut.

In September, something over a month after this episode, Milliken was invited by the Shipping Board to accept a transfer from the Veterans' Bureau at a salary of $500 a year less than he was getting. He accepted it, although he had not applied for a transfer. Asked if he knew whether somebody 'arranged" for his removal, he said he "had heard, but didn't know positively." He said he was heartily glad to move.

The witness testified to what purported to be a lengthy typewritten report by Forbes to President Harding at the end of the western inspection trip. It was introduced in evidence.

JURY HEARING WOMAN'S SUIT FOR HALF OF MOLL ESTATE

Plaintiff Not Permitted to Testify Regarding Alleged Marriage Agreement.

Testimony in the suit of a woman calling herself Mrs. May Hickey Moll to establish a claim to one-half of the $150,000 estate of Frederick Moll, wholesale liquor dealer, as his common-law wife, is being heard by a jury in Circuit Judge Pearcy's court. The claim was denied last December by Probate Judge Holtcamp, but was taken to Circuit Court on an appeal.

Mrs. Ella Ponzer testified today that the plaintiff was a frequent visitor to Moll's country home at De Soto, Mo., in 1906. Mrs. Ponzer, who was employed as Moll's housekeeper, said she regarded the plaintiff as her employer's wife and referred to her as Mrs. Moll, until she learned there had been no formal marriage between the two.

It is maintained by the defense in the present suit that the plaintiff was nothing more than Moll's housekeeper.

Another witness, Mattie Cavanaugh, a negress, testified that Moll lived with the plaintiff in 1897 at 3102 Lucas avenue and that the plaintiff was known as Mrs. Moll and was called "Ma" by Moll's son by a previous marriage.

The plaintiff, who asserts she lived with Moll at intervals from 1893 to his death in 1922, was not permitted to testify in her own behalf today in regard to the common-law marriage agreement to which she asserts she and Moll were parties. The defense contention that she should not be permitted to testify because the other alleged party, Moll, is dead, was sustained by the Court.

CHINESE TROOPS LOOT TOWN

By the Associated Press.

PEKIN, Dec. 16.—One battalion of Chinese troops mutinied today at Kalgan, 116 miles inland by rail from here, and looted the business section of the city, the United States legation was informed tonight by the American Consul there.

Several Kalgan establishments belonging to Americans and other foreigners were among those tampered with by the looters, it was reported, but no Americans were molested.

DISAPPEARANCE OF 120 LIBRARY BOOKS SOLVED

Youth Helped Himself From Shelves But Forgot to Return Volumes.

Stephen McGinity, 17 years old, loves books. He likes to read juvenile stories of adventure, and, unfortunately for him, he likes to possess the books as well. The borrowing privileges, accorded by the Public Library satisfied his desire to read, but it hurt him sorely to take the volumes back. So, about a year ago he began helping himself at the library shelves and forgetting to bring the books back.

Building Superintendent Parker, of course, was alarmed at the losses from the children's department of Central Library, and was mystified until Saturday when a citizen telephoned that there were a pile of library books in the McGinity family garage behind 3967 Kennerly avenue. Today Parker and two detectives paid the McGinitys a visit and in the basement of the home at 4006 Maffitt avenue they found a five-foot shelf of library books and another supply in the garage—in all 120 volumes.

McGinity readily admitted his guilt and was paroled to his mother, Mrs. James McGinity, pending a Juvenile Court hearing. Since he quit high school a few months ago, he explained, he has devoted most of his time to reading and helping his mother about the house.

"I liked to read and I wanted books of my own," he declared at Deer Street Station. "I didn't know of any other way to get them. I never thought it was stealing."

CONFESSION OF MRS. SWEETIN BARRED AT TRIAL

Court Rules Rights of the Defendant Were Violated in Obtaining Admission She Killed Husband.

HIGHT DENOUNCED BY HER COUNSEL

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Dec. 16.—Mrs. Elsie Sweetin's confession that she administered the poison which caused the death of Wilford Sweetin, her husband, was excluded from the evidence today by Judge Kern in the trial of Mrs. Sweetin and Lawrence M. Hight, former Ina pastor, for the murder of Sweetin.

The ruling came after a fight which lasted all day yesterday, culminating in the appearance of Mrs. Sweetin on the witness stand and after Robert E. Smith, attorney for Mrs. Sweetin, had turned upon Hight with an impassioned and savage denunciation.

Defendants' Rights Violated.

After reviewing the law and the facts, Judge Kern said it was his opinion that the constitutional rights of the defendant had been violated and the confession had been obtained under such circumstances that he could not "in good conscience," admit it in evidence.

Following the ruling on the confession, the jury was brought in and, with State's Attorney Allen conducting the examination, testimony was taken upon the conduct of Hight and Mrs. Sweetin at Ina before Sweetin was killed.

Mrs. Irene Christian, a neighbor of the Sweetins, told of seeing Hight enter the Sweetin home by the back door, several mornings. She did not know how long he remained. Cross-examination brought out that Sweetin worked nights and was at home mornings. She did not see Hight go there after Sweetin's death.

Tells of Supposed Signals.

Mrs. Vivian Taylor told of seeing Hight several times standing in a yard and rubbing his hatband with his handkerchief, which she inferred was a signal to Mrs. Sweetin at her home, three blocks away. She quoted Hight as saying in his funeral sermon over Sweetin, that he did not feel worthy to stand there, and that he had prayed to God for a chance to be alone with Sweetin.

Gilbert Wilson saw Hight and Mrs. Sweetin talking together once near a filling station.

Mrs. Esther Fowler saw Hight sit on a pile of ties in July. He took off his hat and mopped the top of his head with a handkerchief. She quoted Hight as saying at the funeral that he had been sent to Ina to save Sweetin.

Mrs. Ollie Clinton saw Hight and Mrs. Sweetin leaving the tabernacle at Bonnie campmeeting several times during the services and go in the direction of their cottages.

Visited Mrs. Sweetin.

Alva Turner was painting the Sweetin bungalow one day when Hight visited Mrs. Sweetin about 15 minutes. He also had seen Hight on what he described as a pile of mine props, and old ones at that, and nobody ever visited it except Hight and he waved his handkerchief south toward the Sweetin cottage and then he climbed up on the pile and sat there.

As for himself, he had sometimes taken off his hat and mopped his brow, but never looking toward the south. "I never indulged in a bandana flirtation in my life," he said, shaking a finger at Layman.

Smith made his formal objection to admitting Mrs. Sweetin's confession in evidence on the ground that the confession was obtained by duress and persuasion and was not her free and voluntary act.

Smith, arguing in support of his motion, called attention to her lack of sophistication making her susceptible to the influences which were brought to bear upon her. He emphasized that she maintained her innocence through several hours of grilling and until after she was exposed to the threats and cajoling of Hight.

"Hight Lacks Honor of Beast."

Turning upon Hight, Smith shouted: "The scene that was staged in that Sheriff's office was the most damnable thing that was ever done in any Sheriff's office in the world.

"The beasts of the field have honor, the savages of Africa have honor, but this man Hight had not the honor of the beasts of the field or the savages of Africa. This man, who is said to have exercised such an influence over this woman as to cause her to take her husband's life, was locked in a room with her. Did he know witnesses were listening through a hole in the door? I think he knew it when he came from the jail. I think he

Court Rules Rights of the Defendant Were Violated in Obtaining Admission She Killed Husband.

HIGHT DENOUNCED BY HER COUNSEL

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Dec. 16. —Mrs. Elsie Sweetin's confession that she administered the poison which caused the death of Wilford Sweetin, her husband, was excluded from the evidence today by Judge Kern in the trial of Mrs. Sweetin and Lawrence M. Hight, former Ina pastor, for the murder of Sweetin.

The ruling came after a fight which lasted all day yesterday, culminating in the appearance of Mrs. Sweetin on the witness stand and after Robert E. Smith, attorney for Mrs. Sweetin, had turned upon Hight with an impassioned and savage denunciation.

Defendants' Rights Violated.

After reviewing the law and the facts, Judge Kern said it was his opinion that the constitutional rights of the defendant had been violated and the confession had been obtained under such circumstances that he could not "in good conscience," admit it in evidence.

Following the ruling on the confession, the jury was brought in and, with State's Attorney Allen conducting the examination, testimony was taken upon the conduct of Hight and Mrs. Sweetin at Ina before Sweetin was killed.

Mrs. Irene Christian, a neighbor of the Sweetins, told of seeing Hight enter the Sweetin home by the back door, several mornings. She did not know how long he remained. Cross-examination brought out that Sweetin worked nights and was at home mornings. She did not see Hight go there after Sweetin's death.

Tells of Supposed Signals.

Mrs. Vivian Taylor told of seeing Hight several times standing in a yard and rubbing his hatband with his handkerchief, which she inferred was a signal to Mrs. Sweetin at her home, three blocks away. She quoted Hight as saying in his funeral sermon over Sweetin, that he did not feel worthy to stand there, and that he had prayed to God for a chance to be alone with Sweetin.

Gilbert Wilson saw Hight and Mrs. Sweetin talking together once near a filling station.

Mrs. Esther Fowler saw Hight sit on a pile of ties in July. He took off his hat and mopped the top of his head with a handkerchief. She quoted Hight as saying at the funeral that he had been sent to Ina to save Sweetin.

Mrs. Ollie Clinton saw Hight and Mrs. Sweetin leaving the tabernacle at Bonnie campmeeting several times during the services and go in the direction of their cottages.

Visited Mrs. Sweetin.

Alva Turner was painting the Sweetin bungalow one day when Hight visited Mrs. Sweetin about 15 minutes. He also had seen Hight on what he described as a pile of mine props, and old ones at that, and nobody ever visited it except Hight and he waved his handkerchief south toward the Sweetin cottage and then he climbed up on the pile and sat there.

As for himself, he had sometimes taken off his hat and mopped his brow, but never looking toward the south. "I never indulged in a bandana flirtation in my life," he said, shaking a finger at Layman.

Smith made his formal objection to admitting Mrs. Sweetin's confession in evidence on the ground that the confession was obtained by duress and persuasion and was not her free and voluntary act.

Smith, arguing in support of his motion, called attention to her lack of sophistication making her susceptible to the influences which were brought to bear upon her. He emphasized that she maintained her innocence through several hours of grilling and until after she was exposed to the threats and cajoling of Hight.

"Hight Lacks Honor of Beast."

Turning upon Hight, Smith shouted: "The scene that was staged in that Sheriff's office was the most damnable thing that was ever done in any Sheriff's office in the world.

"The beasts of the field have honor, the savages of Africa have honor, but this man Hight had not the honor of the beasts of the field or the savages of Africa. This man, who is said to have exercised such an influence over this woman as to cause her to take her husband's life, was locked in a room with her. Did he know witnesses were listening through a hole in the door? I think he knew it when he came from the jail. I think he knew it when he uttered words of love to her.

"Betrayed in Hands of Law."

"When they were alone he said to her, 'Elsie, you killed Wilford and you know you did.'

"She answered, 'You know I didn't.'

"Time after time she said to him, 'You know I didn't.' But he was her minister, her spiritual adviser. She thought he had the power to damn her soul in hell. He told her a mob would get them unless she confessed. Under the hammering of this man Hight, under his words of love, she yielded. The same influence that had wrecked and damned this woman's soul out there at Ina was used again to make her confess a crime she did not commit.

"He not only betrayed her at Ina; he betrayed her into the hands of the authorities. Oh, God, why didn't you strike Hight dead at that minute?"

Prosecutor Ridicules Claims.

Prosecutor Thompson emphasized that consideration was shown in permitting the defendants to confer, instead of wringing confessions from them separately. He pointed out that the only person Mrs. Sweetin blamed for influencing her confession was her codefendant, a situation without precedent in Illinois courts. He scoffed at her claim that she believed Hight, the man who had killed her husband and his wife and had implicated her in the crimes.

Mrs. Sweetin, he said, although she lived in a village, was sophisticated. She was a bright woman, with as good an intellect as he had ever seen exhibited on the witness stand. He asked the Court to consider the relative intelligence of Mrs. Sweetin and Hight. The only question bearing upon the admissibility of the confession, he said, was as to whether a confession obtained by a codefendant was admissible.

Coercion Into Confession by Hight, Mrs. Sweetin Says.

Mrs. Sweetin took the stand twice yesterday and gave the courtroom crowd the thrill for which it has been waiting since the trial started. Her first appearance was brief, her testimony consisting of an attempted repudiation of confidences given to Miss Sarah F. Lewis, a Chicago newspaper woman, following her confession.

Mrs. Sweetin said she had no recollection of having seen Miss Lewis at the time. The purpose was not to discredit Miss Lewis, but to make it appear that Mrs. Sweetin's condition of mind at the time was such that she had no recollection of the interview.

The second appearance gave Mrs. Sweetin a chance to show her mettle as a witness and she took full advantage of it. It was at the end of an afternoon of wearisome testimony, in the absence of the jury, covering the circumstances under which Mrs. Sweetin made her confession, the purpose being to show that she was weak and ill and was influenced by the pleadings and fears of Hight and the confession was not her free and voluntary act.

Proves Self Quick-Witted.

She proved herself quick-witted, in strong contrast to the sluggish mentality exhibited by Hight when he was on the stand. She needed to be quick-witted. Her story exposed her to the pitfalls of cross-examination. She succeeded, even under cross-examination, in giving a color of plausibility to an improbable narrative, unabashed by the crowd.

She was rather a valiant little figure as she sat in the witness chair, leaning a little forward to catch the questions and toss back her answers. Unwonted color came into her lips and cheeks, in contrast to the chalky whiteness of her neck, accentuated by the simple black gown that she wore. Her smooth brow and broad-set eyes were untroubled. Her voice was crisp and clear. There was whiplash scorn in the close-clipped "Hight," without prefix, when she had to mention his name.

Questioned by her attorney, Robert Smith, she said: "I was arrested September 22. I was sick. For several nights I had had but little sleep. I was taken to the county jail. I was questioned there until midnight. Then I was taken to the Sheriff's office in the Courthouse. I was sick, nervous and very weak. I answered all their questions. Over and over I told them I did not poison my husband. State's Attorney Thompson went out and left me with a crowd of men. He said some of them were reporters. I thought some of them were officers. My treatment there was horrible.

"Called Me a Murderer."

"They called me a murderer. One of them put his hand in his back pocket and shook his finger at me like this, and said 'You murdered your husband, you know you did.' We know you did, you might as well come across and tell everything.' Another said, 'You ought to be hung and maybe will be without a trial.' I called for the State's Attorney to protect me. He came in and put them out of the room. Yes, the officers asked me if I wanted to rest. I was very tired, but I wanted to answer their questions and get home to my children.

"Then they brought Hight. I refused to be photographed with him.

"With who?" "Hight."

"What did he say to you?"

"He said he had told them that I killed my husband. I said you know I didn't. He said yes, but they believe me and you might as well confess. I told him again and again that I didn't kill my husband and that he knew it. Over and over he said the people believed I had, because he had told them so. Finally, he said if you don't confess, it won't be but a few hours until we are in the hands of a mob. He told me over and over about this mob. He begged me to confess so that we could be taken away from Mount Vernon. Later he would fix it up and tell them I was innocent. At last I said I would, but I didn't know what to say. He told me what to say. I said to State's Attorney Thompson what Hight told me to say.

Smith handed her a document.

"Is this the paper," he asked.

"Yes."

"Did you sign it?" "Yes."

"Does it contain what Hight told you to tell?" "Yes."

"Is it true?" "No, it is not true."

Told Her of Mob.

"He said I would never see them again if I did not sign it. I would be hung by a mob of mad men."

"Was there any kissing or embracing when you were alone in the Sheriff's office with Hight?"

"He came in there like a wild man."

"Did he kiss you?"

"He tried to. Then he said the men outside heard that and they would know there was nothing to me and wouldn't try to protect me."

"What did Hight promise?"

"He promised to go back to his first confession in which he took all the blame, and I expected him to do it."

Hamburg Seamen Ask for Suppression of Traffic to U. S.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Dec. 16.—Sharp disapproval of the participation by German ships in international rum running was voiced in a resolution adopted at a largely attended meeting of the Nautical Society of Hamburg today.

The resolution demanded immediate action by the central government in the direction of suppressing this illegal traffic.

MEN CAUGHT AT RUM LAUNCH HELD TO COURT

Five Plead Guilty of Transporting Liquor, the Other Denies Any Complicity.

The six men arrested Saturday night as a cargo of whiskies, wines, champagnes and cordials was being unloaded from the launch "Nancy Ann" at a deserted section of the Illinois levee, below East St. Louis, were bound over to the St. Clair County Court yesterday under $2000 bond each.

Five of the men—August Tovilleaux and H. T. Miller of New Orleans, Sam Strunnoz of Madison, Styan Evnoff of Granite City and Peter Stoyle of St. Louis, pleaded guilty to the charge of transporting intoxicating liquor. William Durrett of St. Louis, the sixth man arrested, denied he was one of the party, saying he was hunting in the vicinity of the craft when it was raided.

The capture of the launch followed a search by Deputy Sheriffs for a stolen automobile said to have been abandoned near the spot where the launch was moored. Chief Deputy Farrell of East St. Louis became suspicious, secured a warrant and searched the boat. Eight hundred quarts of liquor were found.

SCHOLLMEYER IS SENTENCED TO 15 YEARS IN PRISON

she testified she had believed Schollmeyer was single.

Mrs. Joynson, who gave her present address as 1432A North Garrison avenue, said she had lived at 4458A Page boulevard for several months prior to the robbery of the Asadorian establishment on the night of March 27. On March 28, she testified, Schollmeyer drove to her flat in a machine with another man and left there several rugs, some oil paintings and some pieces of bric-a-brac and statuary.

"They put the rugs and the rest of the stuff in a room in the flat," Mrs. Joynson testified. "He said he wanted a place to leave them."

Concerning her relations with Schollmeyer, Mrs. Joynson said she had known him for a year prior to the raid on her flat. He paid some of the bills for the flat, she said, and spent much of his time there. She identified a gas bill in Schollmeyer's name as one item he paid. She said she also kept a few roomers.

The story of the raids, which resulted in the recovery of the stolen property, was told by policemen. Each raid was made after a woman, unknown to the police, had called headquarters and "tipped off" the police. The identity of this woman, whose tips also resulted in later arrests of Schollmeyer, never has been learned.

40-YEAR ROMANCE FIGURES IN SUIT TO SET ASIDE WILL

Stanislaus Mitchell Successfully Renewed Courtship After Rival's Death, Defense Contends.

A courtship begun more than 40 years ago preceded the marriage in 1918 of Stanislaus Mitchell, former head of the Mitchell Fire Brick Co., then 62 years old, and Mrs. Annie D. Berry, 58, it was disclosed in Judge McElhinney's court at Clayton, where a suit to set aside Mitchell's will under which he left half of his $100,000 estate to her, is being heard today.

A nephew, S. C. Mitchell of Salt Lake City, alleging that Mitchell was of unsound mind and unduly influenced by his bride when he executed the will, seeks to have it set aside. The defense, through Attorney Julius P. Nolte, argues that Mitchell was perfectly sane and seeks to prove that the marriage was the late fruition of a youthful romance begun when Mitchell and Dr. J. M. Berry of St. Louis County vied for the hand of the woman who later was to marry both of them.

40-Year-Old Romance.

Mrs. Mitchell, now 64 years old and a grandmother, sat in the courtroom yesterday while Nolte told the jury of the 40-year-old romance. Dr. Berry won at that time, Nolte said, and Mitchell waited, a bachelor, until 1918, when he reopened his suit after his rival's death. He wrote her that he planned a tour of the Orient, suggested that it be a honeymoon, and in October, 1918, they departed for a three months' trip.

After their return to St. Louis, Mitchell drafted the will bequeathing half his property to his wife and half to several other relatives, at the same time selling his interest in the brick company, which his father founded almost 90 years ago. He died Aug. 19, 1922, at the age of 66 years.

In 1916 Mitchell was sued by two young women who alleged breach of promise, a fact which has not yet been introduced in the present hearing. One woman sought $100,000 and the other $50,000, but both actions were dismissed on plaintiffs' motions. At that time Mitchell said he was a "ladies' man," but had asked no woman to marry him.

Testify to Mitchell's Sanity.

Yesterday several witnesses testified to Mitchell's sanity. William F. Knoessel and John Wert Jr., who purchased his interest in the brick company and witnessed the signing of his will, declared he apparently was of sound mind at that time. Officials of the St. Louis County Trust Co., executor and codefendant in the contest suit, testified Mitchell had dealt with them for many years in a business-like manner.

The plaintiff today offered witnesses who gave contrary testimony as to Mitchell's sanity and submitted, as the principal argument for their plea, a pre-nuptial agreement signed by Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell in which it was agreed that she relinquish her dower interest in his estate for $5000. The will was executed two years later in March, 1920.

While Mitchell's estate was inventoried at $35,000, its value has been estimated by both sides in the suit at from $100,000 to $150,000. Mrs. Mitchell, who lives now at Hotel Gatesworth, is said to have had considerable property in her own name when she married Mitchell.

WOMAN WHO WAS HURT WHEN AUTO HIT BRIDGE DIES

Mrs. Ruth Horn Succumbs to Fractured Skull Suffered Sunday on Lemay Ferry Road.

DEAD.

Mrs. Ruth G. Horn, 19, of 1304 Seventh boulevard.

INJURED.

Mrs. Mattie Wunsch, 57, of 1342 Temple place, fractured skull, fractured rib and lacerated scalp.

Mrs. Bertha Goldman, 58, of 702 Syracuse avenue, University City, internal injuries and lacerations of cheek, nose, elbow, hands and arms.

A week-end automobile trip to Festus, Mo., upon which Fred Horn of 1304 Seventh boulevard started Sunday with his 19-year-old wife, Ruth, had a tragic termination at Lutheran Hospital last night when Mrs. Horn died of a fractured skull, the result of a crash into a bridgehead at the Meramec River.

Horn and his wife, together with the family of his brother, Jeffrey Horn, set out for Festus Sunday evening for a visit to Mrs. Horn's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, who were following in another car. They were proceeding south on the Lemay Ferry road, Jeffrey driving, when near the Meramec River another car drew up behind the two machines of the party and attempted to pass.

As the machine drew alongside the Horn car, Jeffrey swerved to the right, intending to allow the other to pass before reaching the narrow bridge they were approaching. He attempted to apply the foot brake, but instead, stepped on the accelerator. His machine sped forward and piled up against the bridgehead. Fred Horn and his wife were thrown out and the others buried in a mass of debris. The passing machine went on its way, its occupants apparently unaware of the accident.

The Smiths gathered up the injured and took them to Alexian Brothers Hospital for treatment and then to Lutheran Hospital. Mrs. Ruth Horn was unconscious. She had suffered a fractured skull, a broken right leg, several broken ribs and internal injuries. Her husband suffered an injury to his right hip and right foot. Jeffrey was bruised and cut and his wife, Elizabeth, escaped with minor bruises.

Widow Is Seriously Injured When Struck by Auto.

Mrs. Mattie Wunsch, 57 years old, a widow of 1342 Temple place, was seriously injured at 5:15 p. m. yesterday when struck by an automobile as she attempted to cross from the north curb of Washington avenue to the street car safety zone a few feet east of Twelfth boulevard. The machine was being driven west in Washington by Dr. Clyde Dyer, 43 years old, of 113 East Cedar avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. Wunsch was taken to city hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, fractured rib and a lacerated scalp. Dr. Dyer was released when Mrs. Wunsch refused to prosecute.

Mrs. Bertha Goldman, 58 years old, of 702 Syracuse avenue, University City, is in a serious condition at her home as a result of internal injuries and numerous lacerations suffered at 8:55 p. m. when struck by the automobile of Dr. Charles Neilson of 5337 Cabanne avenue, while crossing from the north curb to a street car stop in front of 5427 Delmar boulevard. The car was being driven west in Delmar by Dr. Neilson's son, Arthur, 18 years old. He assisted Mrs. Goldman to a nearby physician's office, where she was treated for lacerations of the forehead, right cheek, nose, elbow and hands.

Pasquale DeBlase, 82 years old, of 5577 Manchester avenue, proprietor of a small store at that address, suffered a fractured skull and lacerated scalp at 6 p. m. when knocked down, while crossing the street in front of his place, by an automobile driven by Millard F. Webb, a houseman, residing at 603 South Kirkwood road, St. Louis County. Webb took DeBlase to Barnes Hospital, where physicians said there is slight hope for his recovery. The driver was held on a charge of careless driving.

Man Dies After Being Found Pinned Under Auto.

Arnold Fisler, 27 years old, 317 Russell avenue, who was found pinned beneath a motor car at Broadway and Dakota avenues yesterday, died five hours later of skull fracture. Other occupants of the car, Eugene Hartoebben, 28, 2606 South Seventh boulevard, and Jacob Traun, 25, 811 Allen avenue, driver of the car, were critically injured, both suffering skull fractures. Traun said the accident occurred when the steering gear of the car broke.

NEGRO BOY TAKEN FROM NASHVILLE HOSPITAL, LYNCHED

He Is Hanged Near Where He Shot Grocer When Surprised With Uncle in Burglary.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 16.— No trace has been obtained of the mob that took Samuel Smith, negro, 15 years old, from the city hospital here just before last midnight and hanged him where he had shot a Nolensville, Tenn., grocer less than three days before.

Unlike the last mob here—30 years ago, when two men were killed attempting to storm the jail, before the delivery of Eph Grizzard, a negro charged with assault, had been made—the one last night was orderly and did not attract general attention. Using rather the tactics of robbers, the mob entered the hospital, covered the custodian with shotguns, and took its victim.

Smith and his uncle, Jim Smith, were attempting to steal parts of an automobile in a garage at the home of Ike Eastwood, when the grocer was aroused Friday night.

Eastwood hurried to the garage, captured Jim Smith and shot at the boy, after the latter had wounded him. Jim Smith is in the Davidson County jail; the boy had been taken to the city hospital for treatment and the chain which had held him to the hospital bed was on his foot when the mob lynched him. Eastwood is recovering.

TWO WOMEN AND MAN HELD IN $6670 THEFT

Trio Arrested in Connection With Robbing Home of L. Sturgis Day.

Russell Miller, a former Deputy Constable of Central Township, St. Louis County, and two bobbed-haired young women about 20 years old, are being held in jail at Clayton today in the roundup of a burglar gang which on the night of Dec. 1 looted the home of L. Sturgis Day, 7 Wydown terrace, of jewelry and clothing valued at $6670. Meanwhile the officers are seeking a fourth member of the gang implicated by the two women and said to be a Government employe.

Miller, who formerly served as a deputy under Constable George Roth, was arrested as a suspect in the case early yesterday, but was released after questioning. Last night the two young women were arrested at the home of one of them, following an anonymous tip, and according to the officers, a suitcase containing $1500 worth of the loot was recovered. They implicated Miller, who is said to be a sweetheart of one of them, and declaring he planned the burglary in detail and afterwards left the suitcase in their possession. His second arrest followed today.

An offer of $1000 reward for recovery of the loot was announced today. Among the valuables taken were a platinum ring set with three diamonds valued at $3200; a platinum breastpin valued at $2000 and a flexible platinum bracelet valued at $1200.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED SECOND TIME IN EXACTLY A YEAR

William Kranke Victim of Highwaymen on Anniversary of Experience Last December.

William Kranke of 6807 Pershing avenue, who was slugged by a bandit in a holdup last December, was slugged in a robbery again last night, exactly a year after the first assault. He was held up at 7:30 p. m. as he put his machine in his garage by two men who escaped with a $25 scarf pin after one of them had hit him on the head with a blackjack. The robbers did not molest Mrs. Kranke, who was with Kranke.

A year ago Kranke walked into a jewelry store at 503 Pine street just in time to be slugged by one of two bandits who escaped with $30,000 worth of jewelry. Kranke operates a loan establishment at 505 Pine street.

ATLANTA FEDERAL PRISON WARDEN OUSTED BY STONE

"TOO LENIENT WITH BOOTLEGGERS"

This Is Ground on Which Resignation of Warden Was Demanded, Latter Announces.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 16.—Interest in an investigation which may result in a general house-cleaning of officers of the Atlanta Federal penitentiary centered in the arrival here today of Assistant Attorney-General J. W. Donovan of Washington, and the meeting of the federal grand jury.

The Assistant Attorney-General is expected to confer with District Attorney Clint W. Hager, who last night said he had not received an "official report" on the situation at the prison. T. B. White, representative of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, is in charge of the prison as temporary successor to A. E. Sartain, deposed warden. Sartain, whose resignation followed closely upon that of D. T. Allen, prison purchasing agent, last week, broke his silence in regard to the situation at the penitentiary and in a public statement declared he had been discharged "solely for the purpose of paying off old scores on the part of certain individuals."

The "individuals" were not named by him, he said, because he desired to remain silent in regard to them for the present. His resignation was requested by Attorney-General Stone "on the grounds I was too lenient with bootlegger prisoners," Sartain said. "For the past month investigators have been conducting an inquiry at the prison," he continued, charging that their methods had been unfair.

"During the past year, approximately 550 prisoners were made trusties and assigned to various positions about the prisons. About 150 of these were bootleggers, which number is approximately the same as that of other classes of prisoners. We never made trusties of narcotic prisoners and the proportion of convicted bootleggers in the 550 trusties was not high.

"I have endeavored not to discriminate for or against any prisoner or class of prisoners, and have only made assignments affecting privileges according to my best judgment."

Sartain, whose home is in Columbus, O., was appointed by former Attorney-General Daugherty to succeed Warden Dyche, now a prohibition agent in Oklahoma. Attorney-General Stone called Sartain to Washington last week and requested his resignation.

The Attorney-General, according to Washington dispatches, said that anything done at the prison would be intended to incerase efficiency and make for better administration. Plans, which have been worked out will accomplish this purpose, in his opinion.

Justice Shoots Man in Court.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Ok., Dec. 16.—Dewey Elliott, 25 years old, Hockerville, Ok., miner, died in a hospital here yesterday from a gunshot wound inflicted yesterday by T. F. Wilburn, an aged Justice of the Peace, in Hockerville. Elliott had been arrested for drunkenness and the possesion of liquor and taken before Wilburn. Witnesses said Elliott overpower Wilburn, who is 72 years old, and wrested a bottle of liquor from him, breaking it. Wilburn fired when Elliott continued the assault.

SIX PERSONS DIE IN TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE

Youth Repeatedly Risks Life in Flames, Carries Out Whole Family.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Six persons lost their lives nine others weer injured and hundreds were driven from their homes early today in a series of fires in apartment houses, tenments and one hotel in Manhattan and Brooklyn. Today's blazes brought the number during the cold spell since Sunday to more than 100, making hundreds homeless and causing heavy property losses.

Five women and a man lost their live sin a fire which swept through a five-story apartment house in East Ninety-eighth street, near Fifth avenue. Five other persons were painfully burned in escaping from the blazing building and scores of families living in the neighborhood weer driven to the streets from their homes.

Four persons, including two children, were severely burned in a fire which broke out about the same time in a four-story dwelling in Sixty-sixth street, Brooklyn. The blaze spread to an adjoining dwelling house, driving 12 families from their homes in both buildings.

Guests in an Eighth avenue hotel patronized largely by members of the theatrical profession were routed from their beds by a fire which started a few hours after the Ninety-eighth street blaze. Many of the guests were forced to make their escape by way of the hotel roof after the flames had spread from the lower floors.

Five of the victims in the Ninety-eighth street fire were trapped and burned to death in the building. The sixth fell to his death from the fifth floor when he lost his grip on a rope which firemen lowered from the window of an adjoining building.

The bravery of a 19-year-old youth, Fred Nugent, saved an entire family. Awakened by smoke, he ran into the room of his mother, Mrs. Anna Nugent, and carried her to the street. Entering the building, he dragged his sisters, Barbara and Antoinette to safety, and then for the second time plunged into the flaming house. This time he was driven back by the flames as he attempted to enter the room of his uncle, Edward Russell, who had been weakened by a long illness.

Meanwhile, firemen, who also sought to rescue Russell, had dropped a rope to him at the window of his room from a higher floor in an adjoining building. The aged man clutched the rope, but his grip gave away and he fell five stories to his death.

NEGRO 'DIES' IN ORDER TO GET MONEY FROM MOTHER

He Is Preparing to "Erect Monument Over Grave" When Police Disturb His Plans.

Clarence Diggs, late of the negro population of Madison, Ala., needed money after he had been in St. Louis a few weeks. In fact he was ready to die for it.

So it was that before his arrest at 311 North Ewing avenue early today he had got $95 from his mother in Madison to be used in "funeral" expenses, the money being wired here to a fictitious "Robert Johnson," the live edition of the late Diggs.

"That ain't all," Diggs confessed today at the Laclede Avenue Police Station. "I needed more money, an' I was going to send for $125 for a monument to put over my grave."

Diggs wrote a letter to his mother several months ago telling her, over "Robert Johnson's" signature, that her son was on the verge of death. He "died," by telegraph a few days later and his mother wired $50 for funeral expenses.

"I intended to buy some clothes and get a classy job," Diggs said. "But I went out to eat, and then I got a striped taxicab and first thing I know that money's all gone. Then I wire for $45 more and get it."

After the $45 had been sent Diggs' folks got suspicious and wired the St. Louis police, who found Diggs alive and very healthy, laying plans for the monument for his grave.

Warns Middle-Aged Women To Check High Blood Pressure

Thousands of women at times are in danger of high blood pressure. It is caused by poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system or the weakening of one or more organs. This forces the heart to do more work and raises blood pressure.

The symptoms are dizziness, shortness of breath, head pains, flushed face, nervousness or sleeplessness. High blood pressure must be treated and stopped, for everyone knows it brings on Bright's disease, apoplexy and often sudden death. It is too dangerous and quick acting to go without heeding its symptoms.

Norma is a doctor's prescription for high blood pressure that has been used with great success.

Being a purely vegetable medicine it contains no habit-forming drugs, is harmless, and works in such a way that it drives out waste matter, lessens the duty of the over-taxed heart and reduces blood pressure swiftly and safely. Often one bottle brings great relief. Get a bottle of Norma today and free yourself of life-shortening high blood pressure.

BEVERLY HILLS LIQUOR SEIZED

Fashionable California Hotel Claims It Has Permit.

By the Associated Press.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 16.—Deputy Sheriffs raided the fashionable Beverly Hills Hotel here last night and seized approximately 150 cases of liquor in a basement vault.

Stanley Anderson, manager of the hotel, said the liquor was prewar stock owned by him and certain guests at the hotel and held under a Government permit. One case, which deputies said bore a 1919 label, was taken away as evidence and the rest left under seal in the vault. Anderson was directed to appear in Justice Court to answer a charge of illegally possessing liquor.

Electric Curling Iron

For Bobbed Hair

And, of course, it can be used as well for hair that isn't bobbed.

Just attach it to an electric light socket and it's instantly ready for use. No fuss—no waiting, gives you just the right amount of heat—never too much—and stays hot until you turn it off.

Mr. R. E. Geering, Daly City, Cal., says in a recent letter. "I have used Trunk's Prescription and it seems to have eradicated all rheumatic pains. It is all that could be desired." A frank and voluntary statement by Mr. Geering which is typical of hundreds of letters endorsing Trunk's Prescription.

Trunk's Prescription does not hurt the stomach, it does not depress the heart. Contains no narcotics, salicylate soda, oil wintergreen or narcotics, but usually relieves any kind of rheumatism for good.

Trunk's Prescription is a great uric acid solvent and a superior liver medicine. Sells for only $1.75 at drug stores like Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and the Johnson Bros. Drug Co.

END CROUP Quick!
No cause for worry if you have this physician's 38 year old prescription on hand. Relieves without vomiting in 15 minutes. Stops Coughs, Croup, Colds and Whooping Cough.

SPANISH FORCES WITHDRAW FROM XAUEN, MOROCCO

PERMANENT BASE NOW AT TETUAN

Whole Interior of Western Region Now Is in Hands of Natives; Strips of Coast Retained.

By the Associated Press.

TETUAN, Morocco, Dec. 16.—The completion of the retirement of the Spanish forces in Morocco from the sacred city of Xauen to a permanent base at Tetuan is announced.

The arduous task of leading a force of approximately 15,000 men of all arms, with baggage, guns and an enormous amount of ammunition, along trails knee deep in mud, while the fanatic tribesmen sniped continually from the slopes of the rock-hewn hills, has been effected with success, but heavy casualties characterized the movement. Among the losses were numerous well-known officers whose names had become famous on account of the part they had taken in organizing the fighting forces which bore the brunt of most of the engagements.

The position of Benkarrich, lying on the road between Tetuan and Xauen, about four or five miles south of the main road from Tetuan to Tangier, probably will form part of the new line projected by Gen. Primo Rivera for the protection of communications. A narrow gauge railroad runs from there to Tetuan.

New Fortified Line.

Although the Commander in Chief has thus far hesitated to give complete details of his plans for the new fortified line, it is gathered from hints dropped in official quarters that this line will run almost straight across from Tetuan, passing through Xeyear, Buhadifa and Cocoelha, with a strong position at Zocotelata, on the Larache road, and stretching almost directly southward through Megaretaulef to Taatof and the frontier of the French Moroccan zone.

This would leave the strip of coast line along which the Tangier-Fez railroad runs, in the hands of the Spaniards. The whole interior of the western region of the Spanish zone thus will remain in the hands of the tribesmen who are expected to turn their attention to the French. The latter must hold their frontier line with a strong force in order to prevent raids and disturbances among the inhabitants of their zone.

Abandoned 250 Positions.

Altogether the Spaniards abandoned approximately 250 small positions in the interior. While the forces were retiring from the Mexerah region, the troops occpying the minor surrounding positions were falling back upon the line westward toward Alcaza Quivir. This movement was commanded by Gen. Riojelme.

Another scene of the Spanish Military activities lies northward of Tetuan where the Wadres tribesmen, with the support of turbulent elements among the Anyeras, have been causing trouble. There has been some fear regarding the Ceuta railroad being interfered with. Sharp fighting took place a few days since in the neighborhood of Ybanda, half way between Tetuan and Ceuta, but it appears that engagements in this vicinity will not be renewed, as the natives received severe punishment at the hands of the Spaniards.

When the retirements are fully effected, the question will arise regarding the fortifications of the new line intended to keep the armed Moors from penetrating the territory of the peaceful tribes.

It is generally conceded that such a line will require a large force, with adequate reserves, in order to render it impenetrable. Nevertheless, it will be possible to send home considerable numbers of the peninsular troops and steps to this end have already been considered by the staff.

Grandes of Spain Denounce Author for "Temporary Insanity."

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Dec. 16.—The military directorate has given out a copy of a letter received from the Permanent Committee and Council of the Grandes of Spain, protesting against the recent pamphlet published in Paris by Vicente Blasco Ibanez denouncing King Alfonzo. The letter concludes:

"The committee complies with its duty in setting forth its feelings and thoughts about this pamphlet. The committee cannot explain this unfortunate temporary insanity of a Spaniard who does not merit his citizenship. From acts such as his, decent people always turn with repugnance."

"Give Her Something She Can Wear"

by Shirley Deane

There is something subtly flattering in a gift of wearables. It presupposes a pride in personal appearance; it indicates also a nice sort of friendliness on the part of the giver, an understanding of a woman's point of view towards useful things. For what is nearer to every woman's heart than something of service that enhances one's comfort and one's beauty as well?

Silk Pajamas
$5.95 to $35
Styles appropriate for boudoir or slumber. Of moire silk, Georgette, crepe de chine or satin; they vary widely in style, with lace, fringe or novelty trims.

Silk Nightgowns
A gift that every woman loves. Exceptionally attractive styles of crepe de chine and radium are featured in this group. Others, $2.95 to $35.

Silk Step-Ins and Chemises, $2.95
In dainty tailored or lace-trimmed styles, of crepe de chine and radium, in all the new lingerie shades. Others, $1.95 to $19.75.

Her Gifts Should Include
A Corduroy Robe
$2.95

A Corduroy Robe is always a comfortable friend. It is snug and warm and easy to slip into. This price includes both plain and brocaded corduroy in the following shades:

Purple Rose Blue
Fuchsia Henna
Firefly Orchid Cerise

Other Groups Are Priced at $3.95, $5.00 to $10.00

(Negligee Shop—First Floor.)

Silk Negligees
$10 to $39.75
Perfect relaxation in leisure moments is best enjoyed in a delightful Negligee. Every style imaginable is offered in our extensive collection.

Glove Silk Bloomers, $2.95

Silk Costume Slips, $3.95

Dance and Dinner Gowns
For Holiday Gaieties Are Greatly Underpriced

$35

Of Canton crepe, Georgette and chiffon, in styles for the most youthful as well as for the youthfully mature.

Other Frocks for dinner, dance or afternoon are shown in extensive variety, ranging in price from $16.75 to $95.

LAWYERS ASK CONGRESS TO INCREASE PAY OF U. S. JUDGES

Urge Advances Totaling $743,000 "That Federal Jurists May Live in Modest Dignity."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Lawyers from all parts of the country presented the case for increase in Federal Judges' salaries yesterday on both sides of the Capitol.

A subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee heard witnesses at both morning and afternoon sessions on the measure by Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, providing that Associate Justices of the Supreme Court be given $20,000 annually, with relative increases for others of the Federal judiciary. The increases, witnesses said, would total $743,000.

Members of the House Judiciary Committee in the afternoon also heard a number of lawyers, many of whom had appeared at the Senate hearings, urge favorable action on a bill by Chairman Graham, also of Pennsylvania, carrying provisions similar to those in the Reed measure.

A salary that would enable Federal Judges to live in "modest dignity" was advocated at both meetings by Attorney-General Stone, who said two Judges had resigned since he had assumed his present post, and others might follow, due to inadequate salaries.

Chairman Sterling of the Senate subcommittee inquired if any move for this legislation had been initiated by the Judges and was informed by witnesses that it had not.

M'COY'S RAMPAGE IN SHOP MAY ACQUIT HIM

Witnesses Contradict State's Contention That He Was in Murderous Rage.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—Bullets that flew about the antique shop of Mrs. Theresa Mors on Aug. 13 last, the morning after she was shot to death in an apartment not far away, today may save Kid McCoy, former pugilist, from conviction on a murder charge growing out of the slaying.

Such was the hope held out to defense counsel in the testimony of two witnesses called yesterday by the prosecution to describe the reign of terror which gripped the antique shop when McCoy, wild-eyed, drunk and dishevelled, walked into the place and launched a holdup and shooting affray that resulted in the wounding of two men and a woman.

The State conteids McCoy killed Mrs. Mors in a murderous rage because she planned to leave him and go back to her divorced husband, Albert A. Mors. The ex-fighter went to the antique shop afterward, according to the prosecution theory, planning to kill Mors and all friends of Mrs. Mors, who had been urging her to become reconciled with him.

Two men who were in the shop at the time, however, testified yesterday that McCoy seemed to be acting irrationally, without a plan; that he was "different from a man just ordinarily drunk," and that insanity, as well as liquor, occured to them as a possible cause of his eccentric behaivior. This is seen by deefnse attorneys as corroboration of McCoy's declaration soon after his arrest, that his "lights went out" when Mrs. Mors killed herself in his presence despite his own efforts to prevent the deed, and that thereafter he did not know what he was doing.

The prosecution expected to complete its case today with the testimony of Mors, who was slated to describe how McCoy contributed to the domestic difficulties which culminated in his divorce from Mrs. Mors and to offer evidence explainng why McCoy would brodk no attempt at a reconcilation between the couple.

Airpalne Propeller Cuts Man's Face

By the Associated Press.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 16.—Earl Barnes, 20 years old, Arkansas City aviator, was injured severely here yesterday when struck in the face by the whirling propeller of his plane. His face was literally chopped off as with a sharp knife, physicians said. Barnes was working on the plane when he stepped directly in the path of the propeller. Surgeons believe they will be able to build him a new face. Although he suffered severe scalp wounds, he will recover, unless there are complications, physicians said.

FRENCH PREMIER SHOCKED BY "BRUTAL PLEASURES" CONEY ISLAND PROVIDES

Polyglot Mass "Plunging After Joy" in Night Turned Into Day Jars Him, but He Finds Delights on the Hudson."

By EDOUARD HERRIOT,
Premier of France.
NO. VI.

PARIS, Nov.—It will be in error to believe that the access of mechanical civilization has deprived Americans of the pleasure and the benefits of natural living. Nature, she envelops and cleanses this enormous factory. It is enough to escape the obsession of skyscrapers and immense department stores to go out along the banks of the Hudson, on the heights of which stands the gray stone temple, the tomb of Gen. Grant. Turn our backs to the buildings armored with steel that have been built without scaffoldings and that are topped with crowns of Moorish pretension. The supple line of the coast of New Jersey is screened by a dark forest, sheltering charming wooden villas. The setting sun tints the river with spots of orange light.

But the crowd prefers rougher pleasures. To understand them one must go to Coney Island. The fete (Mardi Gras) which, on its final evening, pours motor cars by the thousands and persons to the number of 400,000 into its incandescent amusement parks. The first impression is one of an immense conflagration or of a permanent fireworks. Everything is in movement, noise and uproar. Under a profusion of light, which gives the illusion of noonday, the people of New York, delivered from their jails, rush to the candymakers' booths, toward the rotisseries, which turn out an uninterrupted stream of sausages (called hot dogs) and fill the restaurants which sell an indefinable mixture under the name of beer. The inexhaustible human river flows along the streets, past the Italian or Greek rotisseries, past the Chinese cafes, past the naively pretentious astrologers' booths, the tattoo artist and the hideous four-legged woman. The brutality of the pleasures offered to this mass, plunging after joy, shocks our sense of proportion. It is a fever of shocks, of sudden fits and starts, a search for vertigo. One is carried along into the torrent with all the languages and all the races of the globe.

Magnificence for Cheap People.

But around this city of cheap pleasure for cheap people New York has built a magnificent promenade, three kilometers long and swept by the air of the sea. Families which cannot go to the rich watering places come in hordes on Sunday to enjoy the municipal beach. It is like the Promenade des Anglais at Nice turned over to the proletariat. There, no clamor. Installed on the sand Jewish families from the Ghetto find it quite natural that the city should spend $3,000,000 to offer them this place of rest.

On the same day, Sunday, everybody who owns a motor car leaves New York to go to the country. One has scarcely crossed the Hudson on the ferry boat, incumbered with motor cars, before the scene is brusquely changed. Tiny villas of wood or of brick are lodged among the coral-colored rocks or under the oaks and everywhere appears the national flower of the United States, the golden rod. Motor cars follow each other without interruption on the road. The motor cycle policeman gauges their speed and levies fines on the delinquents. These little suburban houses are scrupulously clean—no rubbish, smoothly clipped lawns, little French garden plots and trellised vines. But no inclosures and no walls.

We followed the fjords of the Hudson. All the west bank preserved its prehistoric aspect, the trace of long erosion, the earthquakes which, breaking the unity of the soil, threw it up in parallel folds, separated by abrupt valleys. From the gullies which lie between these folds escape bounding torrents of water.

Nyack Suggests Norway.

At the fjord of Nyack, among the lakes, one could easily imagine himself in Norway. The mountains, with wooded summits, advance clear to the Hudson, which washes with a clear blue the cliffs colored with the tones of dried blood. In spite of the great numbers of flowered villas dotting the roadside, the scape has kept its wild note. It leaps and bounds. We were startled to see unexpectedly, in a cove, a cemetery of ships. Two hundred vessels of reinforced concrete were moored there side by side. They had been built for war use and laid up because of the slump in shipping.

Again the valley of the Hudson narrows. The road hugs the rocks. At Bear Mountain the generosity of a philanthropist has set aside a State Park, in which it is forbidden to build. It is the custom to come here during the whole summer, and right up to the last days of Indian summer, for camping. Here in the high oak forests about the little lakes, colored with ultra-marine and dappled with light, we are close to nature. The melange of sand and boulders evokes for the Frenchmen among us the finest aspects of the Forest of Fontainebleau. The crowd wanders through the underbrush, silently, almost with a religious calm. One feels an instinctive love and respect for Nature, the need to get closer to it. In this simple and peaceful environment the over-excited soul of a man coming from Europe finds peace and comfort. West Point, created according to the wish of Washington to become the Gibraltar of the Hudson, has none of the gloomy aspect of our fortified places, despite its castle in the English Gothic style. The cadets are trained among the trees, in the breezes which leap from the highland and in the living air, which mounts from the river.

A Millionaires' Town.

I will keep as one of the most soothing impressions of my life the memory of a journey, too soon interrupted, along this beautiful American fjord. On the east bank of the Hudson the vision is different. Here there is wealth, as in the environment of Geneva, confined within the walls of great private parks and costly rosaries. The high gate forbids the passerby to enter these domains. Even the cemeteries have an atmosphere of privilege. Pergolas line the immense lawns. A wealthy negress rivals in magnificence the kings of oil and steel. This is Tarrytown, home of millionaires. At the moment when the sun descends behind the hills of the west bank, the trees, all gilded, seem to be covered with golden coin instead of leaves.

This east bank is especially dear to the hearts of all old Americans, for it played a great role in the history of the Revolution, as is indicated by the numerous monuments that punctuate the landscape.

We arrive at a historic spot. It was in this old house, near the picturesque village of Bellevue, that Washington met Carlton in 1783 to agree to peace terms with Great Britain.

A Bit of History.

There is a curious story which present conditions made all the more interesting as I passed on this evening before this historic house. England, though beaten, made difficulties over the debt settlement. It was England who believed, at that period, in the theory of "guarantees." For did she not wish to retain for her own profit the valuable fur trade of the Great Lakes? Meantime that fraternity which, in spite of the dramatic conflict which closed the Eighteenth Century, continued to unite the Americans and British, that fraternity which showed itself in 1917, was already apparent in the making of the Treaty of 1783. England had abandoned with a philosophic resignation these river banks which Washington himself, his work finished, was to leave for a well-earned rest.

After the most bitter struggles Anglo-Saxons do not cherish those long vibrations which trouble our Latin sensibilities so profoundly. Even politics is only a business. They settle the past to turn ardently toward the future. First of all, they want to live, and as individuals or as a people they reduce lost time to a minimum.

URGES ABSENT VOTERS' LAW

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—A campaign which is expected to reach every member of the Missouri State Legislature urging support of an absentee voters' law, granting suffrage to Missourians living in Washington was started last night by the Missouri Society. Representative Cleveland A. Newton, president of the society, intimated that there were a thousand Federal employes in Washington who were legal residents of Missouri. Newton read a letter from Attorney-General Barrett stating that a constitutional amendment passed two years ago "authorized and directed" the Legislature to enact an absentee voters' law, but that nothing had been done.

Newton urged the members of the society to write to their Senators and Representatives explaining the need of such a law. He said that so far 29 legislators had approved the measure.

STATESMAN TO VISIT U. S.

Sir Christpher Thomson Will Lecture in 24 cities, Then Write Book,

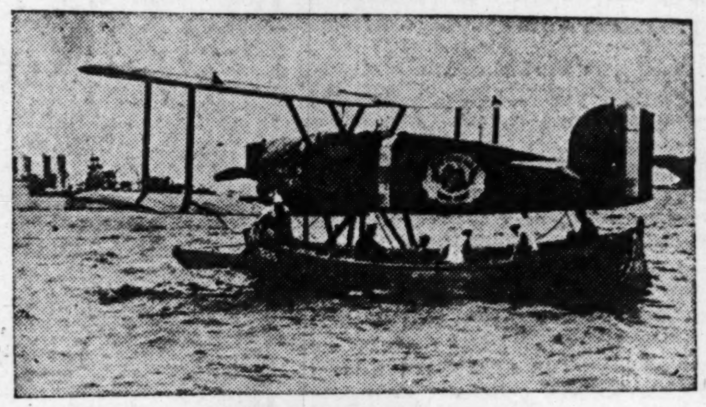
LONDON, Dec. 16.—Sir Christopher Thomson, Air Minister in the Labor Government, leaves for the United States on the Olympic today. He is going at the invitation of the Foreign Policy Association, which is arranging a banquet for him on his arrival.

Sir Christopher will then make a lecture tour embracing 24 cities, after which he plans a rest at Palm Beach to finish a volume of fiction he is writing.

Adventures of the Round-the-World Flyers

FIRST FLIGHT OF PACIFIC, A RECORD FEAT, ACCOMPLISHED

Jump From Attu to Kamchatka Matches Crossing of Atlantic by NC-4—Storm Forces Landing Near Soviet Island and Brings Courteous Request to Leave.



Refueling at Kushimoto, Japan.

By LOWELL THOMAS.
(Copyright, 1924, by the Chicago Tribune Newspapers Syndicate and the McClure Newspapers Syndicate.)

HISTORICALLY, the next jump that the world flyers were to make was to be the most important single episode of the world flight. For the first time in history airplanes were to fly across the Pacific Ocean.

In flying around the world, the American aviators, in addition to being the first to circumnavigate the globe, established a host of other records. But on this one jump, from Attu Island, across Bering Sea to the Peninsula of Kamchatka, the world flyers were accomplishing a feat which in itself would have assured them of a permanent place in history even if they had gotten no farther. In historical importance, this flight from America to Asia ranks as an achievement similar to the first aerial crossing of the Atlantic by the United States naval seaplane NC-4, the Atlantic flight of Alcock and Brown, the Portuguese flight from Lisbon to Brazil, Sir Ross Smith's marvelous feat in flying from England to Australia, and the British flight through the heart of Africa from Cairo to the Cape.

Gave Russ Wide Berth.

"We rolled out of our bunks in the trader's house at Chicagoff about 5 o'clock on the morning of May 15," says Lowell Smith. "Maj. Blair, our meteorologist friend, was with Capt. Beck out at Bering Sea off the Kobandorski Islands and the coast guard cutter Haida was 50 miles out at sea. They had gone ahead in order to give us full weather reports.

"We had held a council with our bureau of fisheries and coast guard friends several nights before and had decided that we would attempt to fly all the way through to Paramushiru, a distance of about 870 miles, if the weather was clear. But away up here in the North Pacific and in Bering Sea it may be perfectly calm and then an hour later you may find yourself in the midst of a terrific storm. The nearest land after leaving the Aleutian Islands happened to be the Komandorskis. But they belonged to Russia, and owing to the fact that our Government had not recognized the soviet, it had not been possible for any arrangements to be made with the Russians for us to land anywhere in their territory. To do so, theoretically, might therefore lead to serious complications. Nevertheless, in view of the fact that the weather up here is so notoriously fickle, it was decided that the Elder would lie off about three miles from Bering Island in the Komandorskis, just so that in case of emergency we could at least come down at sea in the shelter of land, refuel from the Elder and then wait for the weather to clear up off Kamchatka for the remainder of the hop to Paramushiru in the Kuriles, which belongs to Japan.

"As things turned out, it was most fortunate that we decided upon this, for soon after we left Attu a great storm cut off the direct route to the Kuriles. At exactly 11:35 on the morning of May 15 we set forth across the open sea to fly the Pacific. It was Wednesday morning when we left Attu, but when we reached the Komandorskis, five hours later, we arrived there to find that it was Thursday afternoon. About midday we passed the 130th meridian, where time advances a whole day. So we made this flight both on May 15 and 16.

Last of American Soil.

"At five minutes past midday we were directly above the last bit of American soil that we were to see again until crossing the Atlantic.

"By now the weather to the southwest in the direction of Paramushiru had suddenly become thick and foggy, while to the north and straight ahead it was perfectly clear. So we headed straight toward the Komandorskis. For three hours we flew out of sight of land, and all that time we kept wondering what kind of a reception the bolsheviks would give us."

Erik Nelson, Leigh Wade, and the other airmen all praise Smith for his ability as a navigator, for when they reached the Russian islands the planes were not even a hundred yards off their course. Everyone who has flown with "Silent" Smith declares that he has the instinct of a homing pigeon.

"At 3:05 we reached Copper Island, the most easterly of the Komandorskis. While it wasn't much to inspire one, it sure looked good to us. Then from Polata Point on Copper Island we headed northwest toward Bering, the largest island of the group, and at 5 o'clock we came to a dent in the coast on the shore of which are the wireless towers of the Russians and the village of Nikolski. At the same moment we saw the Elder, about three miles out at sea. It was too rough for us to land out where she was. Her officers evidently realized this, and while we circled around they steamed in to the sheltered dent in the coast line and dropped buoys.

"The moment we had taxied down to them we saw a boat putting out from shore, so we sat there in our cockpits ready to take off again if necessary. When the boat came alongside we saw that she contained five men, some of them in uniform and the others in civilian clothes. Several of them wore long beards and looked just like the Russians of one's imagination. Not one of them could speak a word of English, and we knew as little about their language as we knew about Chinese. So we all went on board the Elder together, and fortunately there was one man in her crew who could talk to them.

Russians Courteous.

"Incidentally, some of the press reports that came through saying that the Russians had told us to 'get outski' were all bunk. They were exceedingly courteous, but, of course, they wanted to know who we were, where we had come from, why we were there, and whether we had permission. You can imagine their astonishment, away out here at this uttermost extremity of Russia's possessions, when they suddenly saw three giant airplanes come swooping into their bay.

"Of course, we told them that we had no permission to land, but that we had been forced to descend at their islands because of the storms to the South. When we told them that we merely wished to remain over night they asked us to remain on board the Elder and not go ashore. In the meantime they said that they would get in touch with their Government in Moscow.

"We heard nothing more from them that day, but they were awfully nice and sat around smoking cigarettes and chatting before returning to the village.

"Just as we were getting ready to take off early on the following morning, out came the Russians in their little boat. They said that they had just received word from Moscow to the effect that we should not be allowed to stop there. We thanked them for their courtesy, smiled to ourselves, because, of course, we were just at that moment getting ready to say goodby to their little island, and asked them to pull their boat off to one side a few yards. Ten minutes after they had requested us to leave we were 10 miles away.

Auxiliary Ships' Aid.

"The previous night Capt. Beck of the Elder had informed the Haida of where we were and what had happened, and the latter had started full steam ahead toward the Komandorskis. That morning, as we started from Bering Island for Paramushiru, far off on the horizon we saw our faithful friend, the Haida, speeding towards us. She was coming to our rescue in case any unpleasantness arose as a result of our emergency stop with the bolsheviks. That was the last time we saw the Haida until we had completed our trip around the world. As we flew westward toward the ice-capped mountains and volcanoes of the Siberian mainland the thoughts of all of us were of the Haida and the Elder. We knew that if we succeeded in reaching our goal success would be due in no small degree to our enthusiastic friends on the coast guard cutter and little bureau of fisheries boat that were now specks on Bering Sea far behind us.

"It was an ideal spring morning that we approached the Gulf of Kronotski, Cape Shipunski, and the mountains of Kamchatka. We covered the flight of 150 miles over the water in just two hours' flying time. At 9:30 a. m. on May 17 we looked down and saw a cape jutting out into the ocean directly under us. At that moment we had completed the first aerial crossing of the Pacific."

GOV.-ELECT BAKER GOES TO CHURCH, LOOKS IN, TURNS BACK

Says Pews Were Filled and Avers He Didn't Know Klan Group Was There.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 16.—In his campaign for the Governorship, Sam A. Baker said some sharp things about people who attend Ku Klux Klan meetings and say afterward that they are not members of the klan.

The Governor-elect still has a clear record in this respect. For Sunday night, when he looked into the First Presbyterian Church here and saw a klan delegation in the pews, he went home.

The klan visitors were not in robes, and Baker might have been excused if he had gone in, particularly as he is a member and an elder of that church. But he looked in and walked away, with Mrs. Baker and four friends who accompanied them.

He said afterward that the seats were all taken, and that he and those with him did not care to stand up. He said that he did not know of the presence of the klan group.

The Sunday night service was a farewell for the Rev. Dr. W. Hooper Adams, pastor, who is leaving for New Mexico. The klan delegation, at one point in the service, presented Dr. Hooper a purse, the presentation being made by Ewing McKinney, who stated that he spoke for the order.

MALVY, IN FRENCH CHAMBER, IMPLICATES HIGH OFFICIALS

Former Exiled Cabinet Member Accuses Poincare, Millerand, Viviani and Delcasse.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 16.—Former Premier Poincare, former President Millerand, the late Theophile Delcasse, former Foreign Minister, and former Premier Viviani were directly involved in the famous case of the Defeatist newspaper Bonnet Rouge, by Louis J. Malvy, former Minister of the Interior, during a debate today in the chamber on amnesty.

Parliament last month voted an amnesty bill which specifically included Joseph Caillaux, the former Premier, and Malvy. The latter was convicted of communication with the enemy during the war and banished from France for three years. Subsequently M. Malvy declared he was not satisfied with the amnesty voted him and said that he intended to insist upon a complete revision of his case.

The former minister admitted that Bonnet Rouge had been subsidized while he was haed of the Department of the Interior, during the dark hours of the war. He stated, however, that what he did had been fully approved at a Cabinet meeting presided over by M. Poincare. He said that of the first 20,000 francs given the late editor, Miguel Almereyda, 10,000 was furnished by M. Millerand and 10,000 by M. Delcasse, and this sum was handed him (Malvy) by M. Viviani to turn over to the editor.

C. & A. PAY DISPUTE SETTLED

Trainmen and Conductors Granted 5 Per Cent Increase.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—The trainservice wage question in connection with a nation-wide wage movement started in the fall of 1923 was settled yesterday on virtually the last standard railroad, the Chicago & Atlon. Negotiations were facilitated in the eleventh hour, when, at the request of both parties, the United States Railroad Labor Board issued an addendum to a recent decision on a disputed rule.

The settlement, which provides an approximate increase of 5 per cent in the wages of trainmen and conductors, and a number of changes in rules, resembled the general agreement reached by the employes and nearly all Class 1 Western roads last spring.

Connecticut Votes on Senatorship.

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 16.—Connecticut voters went to the polls today to choose a successor to the late United States Senator Frank B. Brandegee. The candidates are Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Bingham, Republican, who also is Governor-elect, and Hamilton Holt, Democrat, former editor and advocate of the League of Nations.

TORIES IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT CRUSH LABOR PROPOSAL

Conservatives in Commons Reject Amendment to Address of the King by Majority of 231.

MACDONALD HITS POLICY IN EGYPT

Chamberlain, in Lively Debate on Zinovieff Letter, Asserts He Has Evidence of Its Authenticity.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.
Copyright, 1924, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—At the close of the first parliamentary discussion of the new Tory Government's Egyptian and Russian policies, a Labor amendment to the address of the King, deploring Conservative actions, was beaten, 363 to 132, a Tory majority of 231.

Austen Chamberlain, in his first speech to the House of Commons as Foreign Secretary, refused to reveal the subjects of his discussions with Premiers Herriot and Mussolini and Pope Pius. He had not discussed interallied debts, he said, because that was the job of the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

He denied talking of "any division of anyone else's territory" in connection with the imminent Spanish evacuation of Morocco. As for Egypt, he said, he was carrying out former Premier MacDonald's policy, which the Labor leader denied, saying he was for negotiation, not ultimatums.

Apologies for Threat to Egypt.

In effect, Chamberlain apologized for the threat to cut off the Nile water supply from Egypt, saying "nobody but a fool would think we proposed to starve Egypt by thirst." He added that an impartial foreigner would be chairman of the board to investigate the irrigation problem.

He also admitted the ultimatum was sent in a hurry and more time might have caused use of different language. MacDonald admitted the British case was good, but deplored the methods being used.

Debate on the letter, alleged to be signed by Gregory Zinovieff, head of the Third Internationale, urging revolution in England, followed. This letter was one of the causes for defeat of Labor at the polls, but even more important than the discussion of it was the Foreign Secretary's statement that trade with Russia was not enough to lead to attempts to negotiate a new treaty or resume diplomatic relations.

Evidence of Authenticity.

He said the Cabinet had evidence of the letter's authenticity from four sources, two more than the Labor Government possesses, but they were secret, and he would not reveal them. MacDonald hinted the letter was part of an election lot and Chamberlain became angry.

He admitted MacDonald had acted with all due promptness in his handling of the letter. The Labor chief thanked the Minister ironically and then, pointing to the Tories, cried:

"Whole rows of members sit there who owe their seats to the fact that those admissions were not made earlier."

Heckled About McManus' Signature

Chamberlain remarked that the new proof is that the original of the letter, never found, was received by the communist party here and destroyed. The Government had a photostatic copy signed by Zinovieff and Arthur McManus, a British communist. Heckled about McManus' signature, Chamberlain cried:

"It doesn't matter whether he signed it or not," whereupon Labor members shouted: "Then you admit it is forged."

Langley Goes Home After Arrest.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Representative Langley of Kentucky, who was arrested here Saturday night charged with intoxication, has returned to his home at Pikeville, Ky., without making a statement on the case. Representative Langley has not been in good health, it was said at his office, and his return home was advised by his doctor.

John Coolidge Not to Join Son.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—President Coolidge received word today from his father, John Coolidge, that the elder Coolidge had decided against accepting an invitation to spend Christmas at the White House, but that he probably would come to Washington to see his son inaugurated President, March 4.

CLAIMS WHICH PRESIDENT WANTS PAID DATE BACK TO EARLY HISTORY OF NATION

They Are Based on Damage to American Shipping in Anglo-French War—Approved by Court of Claims.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—That hardy legislative perennial, a bill for the allowance of the remaining French spoliation claims, had been brought to the fore in Congress by the recommendation of the President, in his annual message, that the claims be paid.

"The Congress has provided for the payment of many similar claims," said President Coolidge. "These that remain unpaid have been long pending. These claims have been exalted by the Court of Claims, and their validity and amount determined. The United States ought to pay its debts."

In response to the President's recommendation, the steering committee of the Senate has put the bill for the payment of the claims on the preferred list of measures to be acted upon at this session.

The claims that would be settled under the pending bill total about $3,240,000. Four previous appropriations, aggregating about $4,000,000, have been made for the payment of similar claims. The last of these grants was in 1905.

History of Claims.

The French spoliation claims are founded on depredations committed against American commerce by the French prior to July 31, 1801. To understand their inception, it is necessary to go back to the aid given by France to the United States during the War of Independence. In return for this assistance, the states guaranteed to France her possessions in America and gave her the exclusive right, among foreign nations, of using our ports for her ships of war and privateers and such prizes as they might bring in. The pledges of the two nations were exchanged in formal treaties, one in 1778 and the other in 1782.

When, however, France and Great Britain subsequently went to war, the infant nation chose to ignore its treaty obligation. The ties of common interest between the United States and Great Britain had by this time reasserted themselves and there was no national sentiment in favor of making good the perpetual guarantee we had given France to protect her interests in America. Instead, the United States entered into the Jay treaty with England, whereby we granted to that country exactly the same port privilege which had been exclusively given to France 16 years earlier.

In the bitter conflict between France and England, neutral rights were trampled by both sides. Commerce was indiscriminately attacked. American ships, particularly those vessels trading with the West Indies, suffered heavily.

How Break Was Avoided.

Despite the depredations by French vessels of war and privateers against American commerce—depredations which were doubtless aggravated by the French grievance against the United States—there was no break in the nominally friendly relations between the two countries. The diplomatic relations created by the treaty of 1778 remained in full force and effect.

A break was only prevented by the tact of a commission which the United States sent to France to negotiate a new treaty. Chief Justice Ellsworth was the head of the mission. During protracted negotiations, the French insisted that the American Government fulfill its promise to protect them in their American possessions.

The American envoys, on the other hand, pressed with equal vigor the claims of American merchantmen to indemnity for the seizure of their ships and cargoes.

Both sides fully admitted the validity of these mutual claims. Finally the dispute was settled by mutual renunciation. France surrendered her national claim against us, and the American envoys agreed to waive the obligation of France to reimburse American citizens for their losses. In other words, as has been said by an American historian of the proceedings, "The rights of American ship owners and merchants were traded away for a great national advantage."

Referred to Court of Claims.

After the confusion of the treaty with France, in 1800 the American claimants had to look to their own Government for redress. From the time that the claims arose until 1885, when Congress referred them to the Court of Claims, they were persistently pressed. Some of the greatest figures in American public life, including Chief Justice Marshall, have declared the claims a just charge against the Treasury. The Legislatures of all the original states passed resolutions calling on Congress to provide for their payment.

The Court of Claims unanimously found that the claims were valid, as the property of the claimants had been taken without compensation to cancel a national obligation to France. Twenty-five years later, after the personnel of the Court had been completely changed, the claims were subjected to re-examination and again were found valid.

The bill pending in Congress is for the settlement of all the claims which have not been paid out of previous appropriations. Each has been adjusted by the Court of Claims. No interest or costs have been allowed the claimants.

"It would be inconceivable, said the Senate Committee on Claims, in reporting the bill, "To refuse to mete out justice to the remaining claimants and further delay redress when the others have been paid."

The original claimants were mainly residents of the Atlantic Seacoast states. These seeking redress today are several hundred heirs, widely scattered throughout the country.

RESIGNATION OF MARX CABINET IS ACCEPTED

Marx-Stresemann Minority, However, May Continue in Office Until May Election.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Dec. 16.—President Ebert accepted the resignation of Chancellor Marx's Cabinet yesterday and it was announced that the new Reichstag would hold its first session Jan. 5.

The formal retirement of the Marx Cabinet was merely in the nature of ratifying the Ministers' resolution of last week as soon after the election as possible. President Ebert will discuss the parliamentary situation with Reichstag leaders today and then will decide which party is best qualified to undertake the task of forming a new coalition government. In the meantime, at the request of the executive, the present Cabinet will continue its duties.

President Ebert will not ask the strongest party in the Reichstag to form a new ministry, as the Socialists, who lead in number of deputies, are declared to be without the slightest prospect of being able to construct a new government out of the present chaotic lineup.

It is therefore assumed that the President will give either the clericals or the German People's party the burden of surveying the situation. If a four-party coalition, extending from the Socialists to Stresemann's People's party, can be evolved, it is believed by many that the Marx-Stresemann ministry will continue in office and trust its fortunes to the varying majorities until the presidential election next May.

MATSUDAIRA IS NAMED AS JAPAN'S ENVOY TO U. S.

Successor of Hanihara Was Former Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs in Tokio.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 16.—The appointment of Tsuneor Matsudaira, Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, as Ambassador to Washington, was formally announced today.

Matsudaira succeeds Masanao Hanihara, who returned to Tokio following the passage by Congress of the immigration bill, containing a clause excluding Japanese immigrants from the United States. A member of one of the old Daimyo families of Japan, Matsudaira was born in Tokio in 1877. He graduated from the Tokio Imperial University and entered the diplomatic service as a clerk in the Foreign Office. He served as secretary of the legation in Pekin and embassies in London and Paris, and Consul-General in Tientsin, and later had charge of diplomatic affairs in connection with the Siberian expedition, following the revolution in Russia.

From the latter he went back to the Foreign Office as director of the Western division, which includes Europe and America, and in this way was brought into close touch with the diplomatic representatives of the United States in Tokio.

Upon Hanihara's appointment as Ambassador to Washington, Matsudaira succeeded to the position of Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, in which position he likewise kept in close touch with the relations between his country and America.

The new Ambassador is considered an expert in Russian affairs.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Missouri Has a Child Labor Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WANT to voice my opinion in favor of the child labor amendment, which I hope will pass in the Legislatures of 36 of our states.

Citizens should not be led astray by any false propaganda that the child labor amendment will prohibit children from fixing a furnace, from making beds or washing dishes, etc. This propaganda worked very effectively in the State of Massachusetts.

This law is against the exploitation of children by means of injurious labor. This law is against those people who exploit the labor of children for their own selfish interest. This law is going to give children an education and so help wipe out illiteracy. This law is against those people who stunt the brains and dwarf the growth of our children.

This law does not prohibit children from doing light work between the ages of 16 and 18 years. This law does prohibit any child from doing any heavy work in mills, sweatshops, factories, etc., whose age is under 18 years.

Congress lays the nucleus or foundation for state laws to build upon. The Legislatures can make the laws more strict and rigid. Congress does not override the power of the states regarding this law. It is a shame that the people have to appeal to Congress to pass a child labor amendment, because the various states are not strong enough to do it themselves.

Thirty-five states allow children to go to work without a common school education. Is it any wonder that there is so much illiteracy in this country?

If the citizens of this country don't wake up and have this amendment passed, the children of this country will pay for their folly.

This amendment is the Government's challenge to the exploiters of child labor. Are you going to help the Government in the protection of the children or are you going to help the exploiters?

M. OSTFELD.

Safety Traffic Laws.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE letter in your paper in regard to sirens on all police and fire motor vehicles hits the nail on the head, but why not have sirens on all motor vehicles? One kind is just as dangerous to human life as another. Nine-tenths of the auto accidents are caused by automobiles and trucks slipping upon people without a sound of warning. One has only to stand on any street in St. Louis and watch to see that nine-tenths of the motor vehicles never give a sign of warning of their approach. Indeed, the owners and manufacturers try to see how silent they can make them!

There should be laws requiring all motor vehicles to have sirens which will ring upon entering every block; every driver of a motor vehicle to have a license showing that he is an experienced, sober driver, with perfect vision, an accident and liability insurance policy and a list of all automobile laws with him in his machine at all times.

Every other street should also be a one-way street and parking restricted to one side of the streets that are wide enough to permit other vehicles to pass between the parked vehicles and the street car tracks.

If the above laws were passed, deaths would be reduced to a minimum. Without these laws, speed regulation to 10 miles in congested districts and 25 miles in other districts, and strict, impartial enforcement of the laws with prison terms for second volators.

E PLURIBUS UNUM.

Suburban Train Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WISH to call attention to our railroad service around the city of St. Louis. Every other large city has a good railroad connection which enables people to live out further. The Missouri Pacific announced some time ago that they had to take off some suburban trains for lack of patronage, between Kirkwood and Union Station. Why don't they let their suburban train run out further, say for 40-50 miles? We don't need trains where there are the busses and street cars, but need trains there where no other means of transportation is available.

We live 40 miles out and my husband has to board in town, as there is no way here of getting home at night and to work in the morning. Also we live on the Missouri Pacific. Their train schedule is fixed so that no workingman can use it, the morning train getting into Union Station at 8:15, while all the factories start at 8 o'clock. The night train leaves Union Station at 5:20 and factories don't close until 5:30 or 6 p. m.

Why not give cheaper fares for working people who use the trains daily? Why not place the schedule so that they can use the trains? Why have them run any old time?

It is time the railroads wake up. We working people cannot afford to pay $50 a month rent in town; we have to move out further. But we have to hold our jobs in town. I ask the St. Louis business people to help us city employed to a better train service, so that we can hold our jobs and are not obliged to live apart from our families.

A WORKINGMAN'S WIFE.

WILSON AND THE AGES.

The congressional tribute yesterday to the memory of Woodrow Wilson was a welcome and timely interlude in public affairs. It brought minds from the close application of daily duty into the prospect of the ages. It offered homage to one of the great Presidents, not for his tangible achievements, his finished record of service, but for his striving and his sacrifice.

On such an occasion it may be asked what causes some statesmen to be remembered above others of their time? Why do Jefferson, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Wilson stand out among contemporaries and among Presidents? What is the common denominator of their fame?

Jefferson was a great democrat and a great statesman. But the democracy and statesmanship were inspired by a common quality—his humanity. He believed in the common man. Whether his belief was justified is beside the point. His political doctrines have suffered some severe twists and are largely disregarded today. None the less, his faith and his friendliness toward the common lot have made him a colossus among the shades of our fathers.

Allowing for the lingering element of Civil War hatreds and sectional differences, Lincoln stands even closer to the hearts of Americans than does Jefferson. The measure of that difference may be only his greater fame as a humanitarian. A Cuban monument to Roosevelt has been erected and dedicated, not because of the importance of his part in Cuban liberation, either in state or in the field, but because his effort pictured the soul of emancipation for the common man.

Now Woodrow Wilson has been characterized by one of his colleagues as "the leading humanitarian of the modern world." He sought, first, to liberate mankind from autocracy and, second, to liberate the nations from war. He succeeded measurably in both aims. For both efforts he was cursed and maligned. Emancipation could be contrived only at the cost of war and human life. An iniquitous peace was accepted, when no better could be obtained, in the hope that a congress of nations working together for amity would countervail the evils of the treaty.

He made great gains at the cost of great losses. Political opposition and special interest remember only the losses. The ages take account of the gains. They know the quality of unselfish devotion. In statesmen it is none too common. Politics keeps score on the measures of the moment, the treaties signed, the written record. The ages remember great motives, great services, great moral and humanitarian causes. It is not so much that a redeemer prevails as that he dies in the cause.

Wilson was a great humanitarian. He thought the people were worth fighting for. He died in that thought. In that thought he will live.

THE WAR ON "OLD WEEMS."

The Board of Governors of the George Washington-Sulgrave Institute has declared war upon the works of old Mason Weems, who, in his biographical sketch of Washington, gave to the world the story of the cherry tree, and who was responsible for the commonly accepted belief that our first President never told a lie. We cherish that story, but this group with the solemn-sounding title would prove old Weems a faker, tear down the traditional Washington and give us heaven knows what in exchange.

At the same time a Boston professor brands as false the story of Benjamin Franklin's experiment with the kite string and key, insisting that the electrical shock would have killed Poor Richard.

What will the literalists and dry-as-dusts be denying us next? Are we to be informed that Lady Godiva never did her famous bareback canter? Will those who would trample upon the stories of old Weems tell us that King Alfred never let the cowherd's wife's cakes burn and took his bawling out like a little gentleman? Will their pitiless persistence lead them to declare that Helen of Troy had not "the face that launched a thousand ships," that Cleopatra wasn't a vamp, that Sappho was the Felicia Hemans of her day?

Perhaps intensive research will show that some of the incidents written into history are without sufficient foundation in fact, but are we to be denied the story of that historical encounter in which our own Tom Benton, down in Nashville more than a hundred years ago, smashed Stonewall Jackson in the jaw?

NATIONAL DRIVE FOR SAFETY.

In making public reliable figures showing the number of accidental deaths per annum in the United States, and pointing out how large a percentage of these fatalities is due to automobiles, the Department of Commerce takes an important step in the general effort to bring about safer conditions. Secretary of Commerce Hoover makes a special plea to all concerned to find constructive measures to meet what has come to be a crisis.

The figures show that one-fifth of the total of 74,131 deaths from accidents of all kinds must be charged to the use or misuse of the automobile. Automobiles now kill more people than the railroads. Missouri has a record of 398 deaths by automobiles in 1923, against 213 by railroads, 32 by street cars and 70 by other vehicles. St. Louis is charged with 168 deaths by automobiles. This is 20.9 per 100,000 population, compared with a rate of 27 in the city with the highest ratio, 25 in three other cities, and 16.3 in New York City. Our ratio is about the same as that of Chicago.

Secretary Hoover holds that more adequate punishment for reckless drivers, uniformity in traffic laws and a broader educational program for both motorists and pedestrians will be good initial steps to bring about safer conditions. And he praises the newspapers for their concerted efforts, through publicity, to further this end.

That Chicago, with about double the number of automobiles, has no higher death rate than St. Louis from automobile accidents, is to the credit of the city by the lakes and to the discredit of St. Louis. Now that we have all the facts, let us make more determined and effective efforts to lessen this growing terror.

CALL ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

The need for another conference for the further limitation of armament is convincingly presented in Secretary Wilbur's statement to the House Naval Affairs Committee. In order to maintain the ratio allowed us under the 5—5—3 agreement entered into with Great Britain and Japan at the Washington conference we must undertake a 20-year building program at a yearly cost of $110,000,000.

The aggregate cost of such a program is $2,200,000,000. Interest charges would add approximately another $100,000,000 to the total.

The situation today, from a financial standpoint, is practically unchanged from that which inspired the Washington conference. The reduction in strictly naval programs has been voided, so far as relief from taxation is concerned, by the elaborate aircraft plans of France, Great Britain and Japan.

Under present conditions we have no option as to our course. We cannot lag behind those nations in military equipment. If they persist in such expenditures we shall have to do likewise. Plain prudence will demand that as a minimum. Public opinion probably will not only approve of our keeping up with the procession but in setting the pace.

Obviously we are in better shape to assume such burdens than are the other nations. But no nation can afford to segregate so much capital from industry. The sensible procedure is to call another conference and agree upon a new plan of limitations and restriction upon all branches of arms which will lift some of this crushing tax load from the people's shoulders.

MR. ANTWINE'S OPINION.

"I don't know when I have been intrigued by anything as Mr. Coolidge's efforts to lead us back to the simple life has intrigued me," Mr. Antwine said.

"You will remember that we had an attempt of this sort in Mr. Roosevelt's time. There was Pastor Wagner, whom Mr. Roosevelt urged us all to emulate. I always thought it came to nothing because Mr. Roosevelt himself set such an opposite pace, finally winding up with a lion hunt in Africa.

"Mr. Coolidge can be trusted to carry the thing through, I imagine. He is not, at any rate, going lion hunting at the end of his term. It would surprise me to see him do anything but return to his New England farm and resume where he left off when politics claimed him.

"I am for him, if he can do it. We have been carried off our feet by a fever of extravagance. It has busted most of us, and if we don't stop it we will all be busted. Mr. Coolidge points in his daily life, the absence of all pomp and show about the White House, the simplicity with which he does everything, the remedy for the greatest of our national evils. I wish he would let us know how much he is going to spend at Christmas and whether or not he means to send any useless gifts.

"If he will say he isn't, it will have a tremendous effect. Henry Ford would at once come out and say he isn't either, and except God, who says nothing, there would be nobody left to guide us," Mr. Antwine said.

Sir: Times do change! On the train the other day I worked on a cross-word puzzle (my first one, and got it 98 per cent right, too) from St. Charles to Montgomery City, and neither man nor woman looked askance at me. I moved to the other end of the car and there a mother and daughter were working on the same puzzle and making the same primary mistakes I had made. I moved to the smoking compartment and there a traveling salesman was busy on a cross-word puzzle, with a dictionary lying beside him. "Do you know a form of the verb 'do' in four letters with 's' the third?" he asked. The black porter was watching and commented, "Them puzzles cert'nly do tax you' brain. I worked on one yesterday and never could get that little word for a South American potato." The traveling man agreed with the suggestion that the Gideons ought to put dictionaries instead of Bibles in hotel rooms. Yours in eight letters. TREE-SHADED COURTYARD.

OLD MISSOURI ORCHESTRA DISBANDS.
(Independence, Mo., Examiner).

An unusual case is that of Amos Cady of Bolivar, Mo., who could play six musical instruments simultaneously, while he was blind and who can only play one now that he has regained his sight. He was blind for 22 years. He played a harmonica, held to his mouth by a yoke around his neck, a banjo played with his hands; a bass drum beaten with his elbow, cymbals struck with his knees, a triangle and eight Swiss bells rung by his feet. His inability to play more than one instrument now is explained by the fact that he can no longer concentrate sufficiently to play the six instruments due to the fact that the acute sensitiveness of touch and feeling that comes with blindness, left him when his sight was restored.

Dismayed, she stands, her hand upon her heart,
And wildly fears to heed its poignant smart.

Her boyish breast, by impious glance bewared,
Flutters, as would a little bird ensnared.
Her eyes, undimmed, become a lake of tears.
Yet is the pain so powerfully sweet,
She bows her head, acknowledging defeat.

REPORTERS IN THE EIGHTIES.

I CAME to know many reporters by frequenting the 50-cent tables d'hote and from the first was impressed by the novel spectacle of young men actually interested and even zealous in their daily toil. In the commercial world on which I had turned my back, work had been looked upon as distasteful drudgery from which we were all anxious to escape, and of which we neither talked nor thought after business hours. But as we sat around the table in Maria's basement dining-room, the talk was chiefly of the "good stories" printed that morning, of the feats in "space-grabbing," of some conspicuous member of the city staff, and, with a generosity that at first amazed me, of the astonishing talent revealed by some very youthful cub reporter. Something of the flavor of newspaper life in the eighties is preserved in the stories of Richard Harding Davis and Jesse Lynch Williams. The zeal with which these young men entered into the spirit of their work ceased to surprise me as soon as I learned the nature of some of their assignments and began to realize the enormous educational value of daily work on a city staff, especially in Police Court reporting and criminal investigation as a preparation for a literary career. For, as Mr. Dooley's friend, the wise priest, once remarked in one of those moments of inspiration in which epigrams are born: "Sin is news and news is sin." * * * The annals of the eighties are rich in literary happenings, among which we note the beginnings of the 10-cent magazines and the consequent opening up of a new market for the sort of literary wares that we young fellows were trying to sell. The limited field offered by the older publications was occupied by writers of established reputation, and to "break into" The Century or Scribner's or Harper's seemed an almost impossible feat to us. It was not that the authors of reputation resented our intrusion, for those whom I knew were always ready to aid with advice and encouragement any youngster who applied to them. I trust that in another world these kindly friends have found a reward for what they endured while reading the stuff I used to submit for their approval. And in the role of guide, philosopher and friend to budding talent none surpassed Mr. Howells of blessed memory.

A WORD FOR THE SKYSCRAPER.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

THE skyscraper as a health resort is urged by Dr. Edward P. Davis, who headed the volunteer medical service corps in war time. It is obvious that in the upper strata of a city's atmosphere pierced by the high buildings there is more sunlight and the air is purer. Painstaking research has revealed that microbes seem to obey the zoning laws faithfully and diminish in numbers as they ascend toward the apex of one of the lofty pyramids of modern cities. One of the results of aviation will be the use of the roof tops, in a striking reversion to the Oriental custom that finds the whole cycle of existence lived at the summit of the house. The soaring shaft to be reared by the University of Pittsburg or the thousand-foot edifice to be erected in Rome is typical of an age that spurns the ground and seeks the sky for practical reasons and not merely in obedience to a spiritual impulse.

FAREWELL RECEPTION TO EX-GRAND DUCHESS

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The 10-ay visit of the former Grand Duchess Cyril of Russia to the Monday Opera Club of New York City came to a ceremonious conclusion last night at Sherry's. It had commenced there a week before with a welcoming reception y the club.

"All Russian factions will be united against the soviet when the time comes."

In the words of Mrs. Henry P. Loomis, president of the Colonial Dames of America and prime mover in the Monday Opera Club, which brought the former Grand Duchess to America, "her visit bids air to make our season a brilliant one."

Last night in the farewell at Sherry's men took the hand which hopes one day to be a Czarina's and kissed it reverently, and women dropped curtsies, as they did a week ago. The prospectus issued by the Monday Opera Club promised its "carefully selected members" that its function "would be maintained along the lines of fastidious tastes."

Mrs. Henry Loomis explained further, before the former Grand Duchess arrived, that "society in Europe, of an older civilization, brought to bay by the cataclysm f war, looks across the sea with ope to the social life of our vigrous new nation."

Yesterday, in an interview on he eve of her departure, the rand Duchess was asked if she elieved standards of social behavior and etiquette were of such mportance.

"They are of tremendous imortance," she said gravely.

"And how do you think Ameri-n society compares with the Old World society in its behavior?"

"I find you are most extraordiarily well-informed," the former Grand Duchess said. "I have arned a lot since I have been ere." She smiled enigmatically d added, "Much more than u know."

"It is with the greatest regret at I am leaving," she continued, nd it is with a feeling of real iendship for all the Americans I ave met. They have been so kind me. I have loved it all, every oment of my stay."

"How did you find sentiment ere toward Russia?"

"And did you find any sentient against the soviets?"

"I don't think people think much the soviets," she said.

The carefully selected 500 which mposes the membership of the onday Opera Club, and the equally carefully selected guest list, were owed to pay $10 per person for e benefit of charity in order to tend the receptions a week ago d last night.

"They are of tremendous importance," she said gravely.

"And how do you think American society compares with the Old World society in its behavior?"

"I find you are most extraordinarily well-informed," the former Grand Duchess said. "I have learned a lot since I have been here." She smiled enigmatically and added, "Much more than you know."

"It is with the greatest regret that I am leaving," she continued, "and it is with a feeling of real friendship for all the Americans I have met. They have been so kind to me. I have loved it all, every moment of my stay."

"How did you find sentiment here toward Russia?"

"I found a very friendly sentiment for all the troubles Russia had been through."

"And did you find any sentiment against the soviets?"

"I don't think people think much of the soviets," she said.

The carefully selected 500 which composes the membership of the Monday Opera Club, and the equally carefully selected guest list, were allowed to pay $10 per person for the benefit of charity in order to attend the receptions a week ago and last night.

In addition, the privilege of entertaining the former Grand Duchess privately has been enjoyed in New York by Mrs. Henry F. Loomis, Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. George F. Baker Jr.

HONOR GUEST AT TEA

—Dieckmann Photo.

MISS ALICE MUCKERMAN.

THE second party in honor of Miss Muckerman's debut will be a tea from 4 to 6 o'clock this afternoon, given by her mother at their home, 4464 West Pine boulevard. A group of the debutantes will serve and several matrons, including Mmes. Festus J. Wade, James G. Cahill, John W. Keeshan, George F. McNulty and Walter Muckerman, will assist without hats.

Social Items

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Markham of 4961 Pershing avenue have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lindon Smith of Boston, and their daughter, Miss Frances Smith, who came to St. Louis for the Mauran-Mullikin wedding today. Other out-of-town guests are Mrs. James H. Nolan, mother of the bridegroom; Frank Mauran of Philadelphia, an uncle of the bride; R. Clipston Sturgis of Boston, Bentley Hoeber of Washington, and Dr. Louis Green of Washington.

St. Louisans will be interested in the engagement of Mrs. Carter Mullikin Lockwood, daughter of Mrs. James H. Nolan of Washington, and Bentley Hoeber, also of Washington, which has been announced informally. The date for the wedding has not been set. Mrs. Lockwood, during her residence in St. Louis a few years ago, was a prominent member of the younger set.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton L. Whittemore of 6420 Forsythe boulevard, have sent out cards for a dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club the evening of Dec. 22, complimenting their young daughter, Miss Elise. The guests will be members of the junior set.

Plans for the dance to have been given that night at the same club by Mr. Charles Scudder for his young daughter, Miss Eliabeth, have been abandoned because of mourning. Cards recalling the invitation have been received.

William Cotter of the Kingsbury Apartments, and his daughter, Miss Leota Cotter, returned yesterday from Rock Island, Ill., where they have been visiting Mr. Cotter's daughter, Mrs. Handley Allen, formerly Miss Eva Cotter.

Miss Merrydelle Gambrill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gambrill of 5048 Westminster place, is expected home from Vassar College for the Christmas holidays on Friday. Howard Gambrill Jr., who is at school at Phillips Exeter, will arrive the same day.

Alfred Partridge Hebard Jr., who has spent the past three years at a preparatory school in Cambridge, Mass., and who is now a freshman at Harvard, will be the guest for the Christmas holidays of Dr. and Mrs. George N. Tuttle, 4917 Maryland avenue, and their third son, Wallace Tuttle.

Mrs. George Lockett Edwards Jr. of Kansas City, and her small son, will arrive in St. Louis Dec. 22 to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Robert Maypole, 4907 West Pine boulevard.

Old Kentucky Resort Hotel Burned

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 16.—The Estill Springs Hotel at Irvine, Ky., 40 miles southeast of here, erected in 1845 and for nearly 80 years one of the leading health and pleasure resorts in the South, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last night.

The hotel, which was owned by Harvey Riddell of Denver, Colo., son of the late Judge Robert Riddell, was a 100-room two-story frame structure. The fire originated in the servants' room. For many years the hotel had been frequented by Kentucky Governors. Henry Clay was a visitor there.

Sale of C., P. & St. L. Approved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 16.—The sale of the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railroad, auctioned Nov. 20 in 20 parcels for approximately $3,500,000, was approved today by Circuit Judge Smith. Approval of the sale was taken to assure dismemberment of the system and junking of some divisions. Purchasers are New York financial interests and the Litchfield & Madison Railroad.

Free Extraction of Teeth.

Teeth of persons more than 16 years old will be extracted free of charge from 8 to 10 p. m. tomorrow by the conductive anesthesia class of the St. Louis Study Club at the St. Louis University infirmary, Grand boulevard and Caroline street. The club is composed of graduate dentists, who are studying advanced subjects in modern dentistry.

MISS MAURAN WEDS CHARLES MULLIKIN

MISS ELIZABETH MAURAN, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Mauran, became the bride at 12:30 o'clock today of Charles Mullikin, son of Mrs. James H. Nolan of Washington, D. C., and the late Charles Mullikin, in one of the most fashionable ceremonies of the year. It was a green and white wedding, with the only touch of color in the pink of the bridesmaids' gowns. The Mauran home, where the ceremony was performed, was transformed into a veritable garden of roses, lilies and snapdragons, set in a bed of green, which festooned the walls and doorways. From the second floor balcony and aisle of white ribbon was fastened at intervals with white chrysanthemums topping aisle posts, and through this the bridal party walked to the drawing room, where the Rev. Dr. Sullivan of the Church of the Messiah officiated. Here a background of lilies and smilax was built in lieu of an altar, and white satin cushions formed the prie dieu.

The bride might have stepped from the frame of a quaint old-fashioned portrait, in her 1830 period gown. Fashioned of satin, it was flounced with deep ruffles of exquisite rose point lace in the bouffant mode, and tight-fitting bodice with pointed waistline, rouned neck and tiny puffed rose point sleeves. She dispensed with a train and wore her veil under an old-fashioned lace cape fastened to her hair with orange blossoms. Her flowers were lilies of the valley arranged in a round bouquet set in lace.

Mrs. Thomas K. Niedringhaus Jr. was matron of honor, and Mrs. Carter Mullikin Lockwood, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Walter J. Hock of Detroit; Mrs. Donaldson Lambert and Miss Rebecca Chase, bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in a peach-colored crepe back satin in the straight silhouette. The skirts were fashioned of petals of the material edged with chiffon, and at the right shoulder of the simple bodices there were bows of the satin ending in trains. They carried orchid-tinted sweet peas. Martha Stribling, 6-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mildred Stribling, in a dainty net and lace frock over turquoise blue taffeta, was flower girl. She carried a basket of sweet peas and lilies. Henry Callahan was best man, and Donaldson Lambert, David R. Calhoun Jr., Marion Niedringhaus and Henry Cook, groomsmen.

Almost a thousand premier roses were used in adorning other rooms of the house for the reception which followed. A table was laid for the bridal party and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bixby, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hall Knight, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Watts Jr., Misses Elizabeth Cook, Margaret Turner, Elizabeth Luyties, William H. Luyties, Theodore Benoist Jr., William McCandless and Bentley Haeber of Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Mullikin will spend Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs William Van Voorst Warren, the latter formerly Miss Isabel Mauran, and their small daughter in Boston, and the remainder of their honeymoon at the Mauran summer home in Dublin, N. Y. They will occupy an apartment at 812 Goodfellow avenue.

Mrs. Mullikin gave her attendants handkerchiefs trimmed with real Belgian lace, and Mr. Mullikin gave his groomsmen mufflers.

PIONEERS

You remember how many years you allowed to pass by before you became a "movie fan," because of the miserable little converted stores and run down buildings in which pictures were shown. The motion pictures of those early days were not deserving of better environment.

Then Famous Players-Lasky Pictures were conceived, and won world-favor because of their excellence and superiority. All the pioneering to make perfect pictures was done by this great organization whose production achievements made possible the magnificent motion picture theatres of today.

This great organization is today a local citizen of St. Louis owning and operating the Famous Players theatre—the incomparable Missouri. In it, always, it is our aim and achievement to provide for you "the best show in town."

15 GIRLS RESTORED TO HEALTH IN THE NIGHT AND DAY CAMP

Report Shows 30 Are Now Enrolled to Take Treatment For Run-Down Systems.

Fifteen girls have been discharged from the Night and Day Camp, 9500 South Broadway, as completely restored to health, it was reported yesterday at a meeting of the Night and Day Camp Committee of the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis.

There are now 30 girls enrolled there. This Night and Day Camp is maintained by the Tuberculosis Society for young working girls and women who are in poor health or worn out physically. No one with tuberculosis is admitted. The health prescription consists of plenty of sleep, fresh air, wholesome food, rest, recreation and sunshine. Last year more than 100 girls were restored to health.

During the last four weeks there has been a 91 per cent gain in weight of the little girls at the Residential Open Air School, which is maintained in connection with the Night and Day Camp. Three per cent remained stationary. There are now 40 children enrolled in this school who go there because they do not make the proper gains in the day open air schools. There they are given 24 hours' daily supervision for six months, and longer if necessary. As a rule, a child is completely restored to health in six months, the report says.

A GREAT GIFT FOR THE GIRLS

Give Wife or Daughter a Winter Cruise to West Indies

Let them get away from the worst of winter for a month in the tropics.

It's easy on the pocket, via the Canadian Pacific S. S. Montroyal (formerly Empress of Britain). But it's the best investment in health, and rest, and recuperation your money could buy.

Jan. 20 is the first sailing date from New York. Feb. 21 the next. Canadian Pacific is host and guide, makes all arrangements afloat and ashore, which insures that your womenfolk may safely travel alone if you can't go. They'll enjoy Banff and Lake Louise hotel service on this cruise.

Havana is the first stop. Then down to picturesque Panama via Haiti and Jamaica. Over to the north coast of South America and among half forgotten island gems studding the Spanish Main to Porto Rico, Nassau and Bermuda. For a month of luxurious sight-seeing, of broadening views, of delightful social life on board ship and ashore.

Such a gift will "last a lifetime" and grow brighter in memory each year. Help them to go this winter on one of the Canadian Pacific Cruises.

The Canadian Pacific runs five extraordinary cruises after New Years—two to the West Indies; one to the Mediterranean countries, sailing from New York on Feb. 9; one 'Round the World, from New York on Jan. 14, and one in spring 'Round America.

Send for planning literature or ask for an experienced Cruise representative to call. Apply to local agents or Geo. P. Carbrey, General Agent Canadian Pacific, 420 Locust st., St. Louis, Mo. Telephone Bell Main 1711.

During 1923 the Post-Dispatch printed 90,953 For Sale "Wants"—54,417 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers combined.

Y. M. C. A.'S WAR WORK FUND TOTALED $152,170,000

$40,896,000 Spent in United States and $88,118,000 Overseas, Accounting Shows.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Application for judicial approval of accounts totaling more than $150,000,000 was made to Supreme Court yesterday by Cleveland H. Dodge, former treasurer of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., now dissolved.

In his application Dodge stated that receipts by the Y. M. C. A. of the United States from war drives and other sources for wartime work was $152,170,108.62. Of this amount $40,896,248.12 was expended in the United States in the construction and operation of buildings, camps and in disbursements to affiliated organizations for work among soldiers and sailors. Another $58,444,101.93 was expended in Paris, London, Coblenz, divisonal headquarters and elsewhere overseas. Men of the allied armies and prisoners of war received benefits amounting to $29,674,192.25. Provisions for army and navy recreational centers and expenses for training and transporting personnel cost $17,336,683:48.

The accounting shows that $18,503,805.53 has been turned over to Harold I. Pratt, treasurer of the trustees of the war fund of the Y. M. C. A., to carry on activities begun during the war, on a peacetime basis. Dodge said this sum includes no money on property receives in contributions or donations.

W. L. Sackett Dies in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—William L. Sackett, State Superintendent of Waterways, died early today in St. Luke's Hospital here, where he had been in a critical condition for nearly two weeks. Death was due to pulmonary embolus, a blood clot on the lung, which was discovered after a recent operation for hernia. His condition had been unchanged for the past week until 1 a. m. today, when he began sinking, and death occurred 10 minutes later.

COMMUNITY COUNCIL HEALTH BOARD WILL MAKE SURVEY

Delegates Vote to Have Department Investigate Conditions in City.

Feeling that the health division of the Department of Public Welfare of St. Louis has not been expanding in proportion to the growth of St. Louis, Nelson Cunliff, director, requested the health department of the Community Council to make a survey leading to extensions and improvements in service. At a meeting of the Community Council held yesterday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce, the delegates to the council votoed to have the Health Department make such a survey.

In addition, Dr. L. A. Halbert, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Missouri Conference of Social Welfare and executive director of the Kansas City Council of Social Agencies, told of the needs of social legislation in Missouri; Dr. George B. Mangold, social director of the Board of Religious Organizations and Church Federation, spoke in favor of the proposed child labor amendment; Elmer Donnell, secretary of Associated Industries of Missouri, spoke against the bill, and Harry McClain, chairman of the Social Service Exchange, spoke on the Christmas Bureau they have organized to see that all persons receive baskets on the holiday.

CHRISTMAS FIRE WARNING ISSUED

"Keep Christmas but keep it safe; don't let fire be a Yuletide visitor," warns Fire Chief Panzer in a proclamation issued today in which instructions for a "fireproof" holiday season are given.

Christmas fires are unusually costly and tragic, one in every 10 fires at Christmas time resulting in a fatality, according to statistics of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the Chief points out, adding that the season betokens great anxiety and much work for members of fire companies.

Through exercising care and judgment, the number of holiday fires can be reduced to a minimum, the warning states, following with an enumeration of common causes of fire which can be eliminated.

"Christmas trees, if lights are to be used for decoration, should be decked with electric bulbs, never with lighted candles. For preserving the beautiful custom of displaying a lighted candle in windows, an lectric candle should replace the tallow taper which is dangerous in proximity to curtains and draperies.

Christmas trees should be set on a substantial base to prevent falling over and metal tinsel is prescribed for decoration. Flake asbestos or powdered mica should be used for snow instead of paper or cotton. The tree should be removed before it has time to dry out and become more highly inflammable.

A warning is given against certain types of toys, including those burning alcohol, gasoline or kerosene; flimsy motion picture machines, and cheap electrical toys. Defective wiring and dangerous connections in electrical toys often have caused severe burns and fires.

Santa Claus, himself, comes in for instruction by the Fire Chief, who taboos long cotton whiskers unless they have been dipped in water glass, procurable at any drug store.

Merchants are urged to keep quickly accumulating rubbish cleared away and to keep exits in stock rooms open and unobstructed.

HOTEL CHASE TAKEN OVER BY COMPANY OF CHICAGOANS

Property Purchased From Chase Ulman, but the Price Is Not Made Known.

Hotel Chase was taken over today by a company formed by Chicagoans to buy and operate it, the Lindell Hotel Co. It was purchased from Chase Ulman, who built it in 1922. The price was not made known, but the property is subject to a $2,700,000 deed of trust. It was stated that the land, building, furniture and fixtures represent a $4,500,000 investment.

Frederic C. Skillman, president of the Chicago Hotel Men's Association, has assumed management of the Chase, and George T. Thompson has taken charge of the steward's department. Skillman was manager of the Surf Hotel, Chicago, for seven years, and previously was connected with the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, and St. Francis, San Francisco.

Officers of the Lindell Hotel Co. are E. B. Wolf, owner of the Surf Hotel, president; Skillman and Thompson, vice presidents; Roy Friedman, also of Chicago, treasurer, and William Orthwein, a St. Louis attorney, secretary. Improvements and redecoration of the hotel, which faces Forest Park, at Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard, are planned by the new owners. Ulman retains the Chester and Chase apartments, east of Hotel Chase.

WIDOW OF MAN STABBED BY SON SAYS IT WAS ACCIDENT

Mrs. Bruce A. Shaw Declares Husband Fell on Saber While They Were Struggling for It.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Mrs. Bruce A. Shaw, widow of the wealthy Oak Park manufacturer who was stabbed fatally Sunday by their son, George, a shell-shocked war veteran, came to the son's defense yesterday after he had been formally charged with murder.

"He didn't stab his father," she said. "George was drinking and they were trying to take the saber from him. It just happened that my husband fell on the point."

The stabbing occurred in the Shaw home after George, his sister, Mrs. Marie Ayers, and a young woman who gave her name as Hazel Brady of Bloomington, Ill., had returned from a cabaret party. They continued their merrymaking at home and the elder Shaw attempted to quiet them. Mrs. Shaw came upon the scene as her husband was drawing the blade of the saber, a relic of the World War which George had picked up on a French battlefield, from his chest. George and the young women were taken into custody. The latter being released after being questioned.

George, unaware that his father had died, attempted to kill himself in his cell.

Acquitted of Murder in Liquor Case

By the Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Ill., Dec. 16.—A jury last night deliberated 10 minutes before acquitting Mrs. Anna Erwing, charged with murder in connection with the sale by her of liquor to Harry Neville, Catlin, Ill., who died in an automobile accident, June 14, after buying the liquor.

Surprise Visit Too Long Deferred.

By the Associated Press.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Dec. 16.—James Osborn of Calexico, Cal., planned for many months to come to Douglas to visit his father, Calvin Osborn, and take a vacation trip with him into Mexico. He arrived yesterday unannounced and learned that his father's funeral had taken place Dec. 8. A lodge, unable to locate any relative of Calvin Osborn, had taken charge of the funeral services.

Princeton (Ill.) High School Burns

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, Ill., Dec. 16.—Fire of unknown origin last night destroyed the Princeton Township High School with an estimated loss of $400,000. Fire departments from nearby towns were called upon for assistance in fighting the fire and other fires starting from burning embers which were carried for blocks by a brisk wind. Collections of books, stuffed birds and animals were destroyed.

FAY DESCRIBED AS "WATCH-DOG" OF UNION ELECTRIC

Miss Mary Gibson, Former Confidential Secretary to General Manager, Testifies in Trust Suit.

William Fay, former consulting engineer, was referred to as the "watch dog of the Treasury," whose relations to the Union Electric Light and Power Co., his client, should remain a secret, it was testified to yesterday by Miss Mary K. Gibson, who from 1913 to 1919 was confidential secretary to Charles S. Ruffner, then vice president and general manager of the utility.

Miss Gibson testified in behalf of the Wiles-Chipman Lumber Co., one of five power users suing the Union Electric for approximately $116,000 as treble damages for alleged actual losses sustained in a period between 1918 and 1920. The plaintiff company alleges it was forced to pay the utility concern $6173.23 in excess of the amount it would have paid the Laclede Gas Light Co., except for the bribery by Fay of an official of the latter named company, to turn down its power contract.

Maintained Separate Offices.

Fay, who maintained separate offices in a downtown office building, would come into the Union Electric company's office, three or four times a month, Miss Gibson testified, at which times she was instructed to admit him without question. Under questioning of Edward W. Foristel, attorney for the lumber company, she told of a trip to New York, with Ruffner, to attend to certain business with the North American Co., owners of the common stock of the St. Louis company.

Upon this occasion, she testified, she made an appointment, at Ruffner's instructions, for Fay to meet James D. Mortimer, then president of the North American Co., at its offices at 30 Broad street. She was cautioned, she related, to insure that Fay would meet Mortimer "early in the morning," in the absence of office visitors. When making arrangements for Fay's visits to Ruffner's St. Louis office, she testified, Ruffner instructed her to make no identification by name over the telephone.

By these alleged incidents of secrecy, the plaintiffs contend, there existed a conspiracy between officials of both the North American Co. and Union Electric, with Fay, to control the operations of the Laclede company's electric business through Fay's machinations.

Fay's Deposition in Case.

Fay, who died Nov. 28, testified in his deposition, read at the trial in Circuit Judge Mix's court last week, that he paid William S. Gallaher, superintendent of the Laclede company's electrical department, $150 a month for nearly a year. Through this, he testified, he was enabled to obtain access to the files of the Laclede company and to induce Gallaher to turn down the applications of the plaintiff power users.

Attorneys for the Union Electric company have set up the defense that the Laclede company was physically unable to furnish the power requirements.

The question of what fees should be awarded plaintiffs' attorneys came up for discussion today and three uninterested attorneys made estimates ranging from $8000 to $15,000. Former Circuit Judge Albert D. Nortoni suggested between $12,500 and $15,000; former United States District Attorney Charles A. Houts, $10,000 to $15,000, and former Circuit Judge Vital W. Garesche $8000 to $10,000. John F. Green, counsel for one of the plaintiff companies, testified that he had devoted about two-thirds of his professional time to the case since last April. The statute which provides the treble damages also provides that attorneys be awarded "reasonable fees."

WALL BUILDING FORECLOSURE SALE TEMPORARILY BLOCKED

Suit Was Filed by Louisianan, Former Owner of Structure.

A temporary restraining order enjoining the foreclosure sale of the Wall Building, Vandeventer avenue and Olive street, which was set for Dec. 16, was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Frey on the bill of complaint of E. Kirby Smith, prominent banker and hotel owner of the structure. The restraining order is returnable Dec. 19.

Smith, in his suit filed yesterday, names as defendants Kennedy Bros., Inc., of Washington, and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., the latter being trustee under a mortgage on the Wall Building. Smith recites that in December, 1922, he gave Kennedy Bros. notes aggregating $200,000 as part payment on an apartment hotel owned by them in Washington. To secure the notes, a mortgage on the Wall Building was given to the St. Louis Union Trust Co. as trustee, for the benefit of Kennedy Bros. Smith charges that Kennedy Bros. misrepresented the annual earning power as well as the appointments of the apartment hotel and in addition hurried him in making the sale. Smith denies that the notes under the mortgage are in default and asks that title to the Wall Building be reinvested in him by the court.

According to Smith, in addition to the notes, he paid $75,000 cash in the deal, assumed a $1,000,000 indebtedness and gave a second mortgage to Kennedy Bros. for $983,000.

MOVE TO OVERRIDE POSTAL PAY VETO HALTED IN SENATE

Republican Leaders, by Parliamentary Maneuvers, Forestall Effort to Put Question to Vote.

ISSUE RAISED BY VOTE OF 51 TO 30

Thirteen G. O. P. Senators Join in Support of Ashurst's Proposal to Consider Veto Immediately.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Administration leaders in the Senate today blocked an effort to override President Coolidge's veto of the postal salary increase bill, passed at the last session of Congress.

Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona, was successful in bringing the question to the floor, but through parliamentary maneuvering a vote was forestalled.

The failure of those advocating overriding the veto was brought about by a decision of President Cummins that Chairman Sterling, of the Postoffice Committee, should have unlimited time to debate his motion, that the whole question be sent back to committee. The Muscle Shoals bill, with a privileged status, was on the calendar for 2 p. m. and opponents of a veto held the floor until that hour, automatically displacing the effort to override.

Two-Hour Fight Futile.

In the two hour fight Democrats, led by Senators Ashurt, Reed of Missouri, and Harrison of Mississippi, and supported by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, sought in vain to block debate by various parliamentary moves which were overruled.

At one stage Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, moved an appeal from a ruling by President Cummins, but this vote also was blocked by Sterling's debate.

The question came up when Senator Sterling introduced his new postal bill, providing increases on virtually all kinds of postal service, except first-class letter mail. Ashurst at the time seized the opportunity to call for a vote on the veto. The Arizona Senator's motion to ask for a vote was approved, 51 to 30, but the actual vote on the veto could not be forced through.

Urges Support of President.

In arguing against over-riding, Sterling said the vote of the last election should "guide us in determining our stand on the President's economy policy."

He added that no emergency existed demanding a general increase in postal-salaries and that a better bill could be drawn on a basis allowing increases where living costs were high.

Thirteen Republicans voted to take up the bill and three Democrats were recorded in opposition.

Republicans voting for the immediate consideration of the measure were Couzens, Michigan; Cummins, Iowa; Edge, New Jersey; Frazier, North Dakota; Howell, Nebraska; Johnson, California; Jones, Washington; Ladd, North Dakota; McKinley, Illinois; McNary, Oregon; Reed, Pennsylvania; Stanfield, Oregon; Wadsworth, New York; Senator Norbeck also was included, but corrected his vote after the roll call.

Senators Bruce, Maryland; Dial, South Carolina, and King, Utah, were the Democrats who joined the Republicans opposing consideration.

A controversy as to whether debate was limited by the unanimous consent agreement reported last Saturday was settled when the

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 16.—Establishment by the Legislature of a memorial for former United States Senator James S. Green of Missouri, whose body is buried at Canton, Mo., is suggested by Attorney-General Barrett in a letter to W. B. McRoberts of Canton, Representative in the Legislature from Lewis County, where Green resided. Barrett's home formerly was in Canton. Barrett pointed out that Green was an outstanding member of the United States Senate just before the Civil War and that he virtually had been forgotten, so far as any action by the State to honor him was concerned.

Hounds Lose Trail of Jail Breakers

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 16.—Fantesna Guerrias, Peoria, held under $25,000 bond for alleged participation in the Vermont (Ill.) $83,000 bank robbery, who, with John Birgdoll and Donald Barclay, held for forgery, escaped from the Fulton County Jail yesterday evening during the supper hour, are still at large today, while search is being made for them throughout Central Illinois. Bloodhounds followed a trail eight miles north of Lewistown and then lost trace of the path, followed by three men. Close watch is being kept in Peoria. The men ripped bars from a window in the corridor of the jail, and no one saw their departure.

SON OF POLICEMAN ADMITS ROBBING BANK

Robert E. Caldwell, 20, of St. Louis, Gets Indeterminate Prison Sentence.

By the Associated Press.

GOLCONDA, Ill., Dec. 16.—Robert E. Caldwell, 20 years old, of St. Louis, son of a policeman, pleaded guilty late yesterday of participation in the robbery of the Union State Bank of Brownfield, near here, Oct. 22, and was given an indeterminate sentence in the State Penitentiary.

There were intimations Caldwell would be used as a State witness against Constable John Frothingham and Harold Steyer of Golconda, and W. E. Padgett of Herrin, also indicted for the robbery, and who pleaded not guilty when arraigned in court yesterday afternoon.

Only three jurors had been selected for the trial of the three men when court adjourned late in the day. Most of the veniremen said they had formed opinions as to the guilt of the accused, and they were challenged by counsel for the defense.

S. Glenn Young, former Williamson County liquor raider, has been subpenaed to appear as a witness.

Although electric power is usually turned off here each night about 10 p. m., orders were issued yesterday to keep the power plant running throughout the night for lighting purposes. This was said to be a precaution against the possibility of an attempted jail break or other untoward happenings.

Father Says Caldwell Fell in With Bad Companions.

Robert E. Caldwell is a son of Patrolman Robert W. Caldwell of 4029 McRee avenue, now attached to the Magnolia Avenue Police Station, and formerly of the traffic squad. The father, who has been ill and off duty for several days, has said his son was employed here as a railroad mechanic until he became dissatisfied with his work and went to Southern Illinois, where he fell in with bad companions.

Drummers Plan Entertainments.

A business meeting followed by a cabaret entertainment will be held Dec. 27 at 2 p. m. at the Marquette Hotel by the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association. A dinner dance will be held in the evening at the Riverview Club.

VAMPIRE PRAYS FOR DEATH BY CHRISTMAS

"Hurry, Hurry Up," Haarman Tells Judge; Is Breaking Under Ordeal.

HANOVER, Germany, Dec. 16.—Fritz Haarman, the vampire murderer, is breaking fast under the ordeal of his trial for the killing of 27 men and boys. He no longer boasts of his approaching execution; he prays for it.

In court yesterday, as the grisly tale of horror continued, the prisoner pulled a cigarette from his pocket and, with shaking fingers, put it to his lips. The stern presiding Judge admonished him that smoking was not allowed in the room.

"Then I won't go on with the trial," Haarman squealed like a hurt animal. "If I can't smoke, I can't think. I've had enough."

The man who had smiled with foolish glee as the court proceedings droned on, as though he were the leading figure in a Greek chorus, has lost his pose completely. Repeatedly he expresses the desire to be dead before Christmas; he seems to dread the prospect of being alive on that day. So, when the Judge once more asked him to confess to the last of the murders of which he is accused, he murmured:

"Put it all on the bill, but hurry up, for God's sake, hurry up."

An investigation of police negligence has just begun. Witnesses against Haarman have described how the police refused to take any stock of their complaints against the butcher. Ie was shown that a detective was finally sent to Haarman's rooms, but left without finding the skulls of five of the man's victims which were then under the bed.

It was also shown that the vampire was sometimes employed as a police spy, and that he enjoyed a measure of police protection. This was the subject of the opening session of the inquiry today. Police officers admitted they had used Haarman, but pointed out it is a general practice in all cities to employ stool pigeons. They denied Haarman was a regular member of the force.

LIQUOR FOUND IN BAR AND BASEMENT AT LACLEDE HOTEL

Police Seize More Than 100 Gallons of Moonshine and Arrest Bartender.

Police literally waded in "moonshine" liquor at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, when they raided a bar at 14 North Sixth street, in the south end of the Laclede Hotel building.

Acting on an anonymous tip, Capt. Loepker of Central District, with a force of uniformed men, and Sergeant Dempsey and his gambling squad, searched the place and under a showcase near the front window found what they describe as 50 pints of moonshine. It was colored and would pass, they say, for a fair grade of whisky.

Then they searched the basement. Two 50-gallon barrels of moonshine, aging in the wood, 39 pints and 11 quarts of the same in bottles, eight quarts of what is described as gin, and nine cases of beverage, which, it is suspected, contains more than the legal content of alcohol, were found.

Police couldn't remove the barrels as they were, but they found empty containers in the basement and removed the liquor. When one of these broke there was a deluge and the officers waded in booze.

Two patrol wagons of the alleged contraband were taken to Central Station. So was Charles Luttenberger, 66 years old, of 2419 Benton street, the bartender, who is known as "Shorty." He denied knowledge of the liquor, which the "tip" said had been taken into the place at dawn yesterday. Luttenberger will be questioned in an effort to learn who owns the saloon, which has an entrance from the hotel, as well as from the street.

TEN DIE FROM POISONOUS LIQUOR IN 3 DAYS IN NEW YORK

Two Victims Women; 66 Others in Hospital, 11 Not Expected to Recover.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The death toll from poisonous liquor in three days mounted to 10 with the death today of Michael McKeon in Bellevue Hospital. Sixty-six other poison victims are in Bellevue Hospital. Eleven of them are not expected to live. Twenty others may be blinded. The death list for December so far is 26, a record number.

Aroused by the wave of alcoholic deaths, the police and prohibition authorities have started unusually energetic activities to curb the sale of poisonous liquor as the Christmas holidays approach. The police are sending to the Federal authorities the addresses of suspicious places.

Twenty-five prisoners arrested for drunkenness, some of them found unconscious in gutters and exposed to the cold, were arraigned last night. Denouncing liquor traffickers who sell poisonous concoctions, Magistrate Simpson dismissed most of the prisoners with a warning. A few old offenders were sentenced to workhouse terms. Federal prohibition officials say that the prevalence of poisonous liquor is due to the embargo against smuggling which has been established off the coast by the coast guard patrol. Two of the poison victims who have died the past three days were women.

The Season o' Gifts

Gift time is here. It brings with it gift-giving problems to many thousands of people.

What would be appropriate for the Holiday Bride—what would most happily fit into the new home life and give increasing pleasure through years of association?

What should be given in honor of anniversary occasions—some remembrance to be treasured more and more dearly as time goes on?

What is the most fitting gift for the birthday of a friend or a member of the family?

What is the most highly appreciated favor for the cotillion prize or for the bridge party?

Last, but growing daily in importance, what Christmas gift will be most enduring and bring the greatest happiness to the recipient?

St. Louis' leading jewelers and jewelry departments have been busy for months assembling the choicest treasures in gold, silver and beautiful gems.

Their designers have been creating exquisite mountings in platinum and gold to frame fittingly the brides' jewels.

Their stationery shops supply the accepted styles in engraved cards, invitations and monogram stationery.

The range of selection which they offer affords as wide scope for modest gifts as for the most expensive—and, whatever the prices, they assure individuality and distinction.

This is particularly true in stores whose names alone indicate high quality, which to many persons mistakenly suggest higher prices.

Whether you are looking for some modest remembrance or a magnificent chest of silver—whether you are planning a gift for the bride, for a birthday, for Christmas or whether you are making an addition to your own collection of jewels, silverware or bric-a-brac, it will pay you to read even more carefully the advertising columns of the Post-Dispatch.

SEIZES ALLEGED LOTTERY TICKETS, ARREST MAN

Roy Davison, 1524 Wagoner Place, Refuses to Make Statement, Released on Bond.

Roy Davison of 15242 Wagoner place, a meter reader, was arrested last night following a search of his home in which about 10,000 tickets with figures on them, said by the police to be lottery tickets, were found. Davison refused to make any statement to the police and was released on bond. A warrant, charging operation of a lottery, will be sought.

Davison's home was searched by the gambling squad, under Detective-Sergeant Dempsey, who reported he had received from a reliable source information that Davison was implicated in the operation of a lottery based on figures in the daily and weekly temperature readings published in the newspapers.

Sergt. Dempsey said in his report that the tickets confiscated ranged from 15 to 50 cents, and that prizes ranging from 25 cents to $200 were awarded daily to winners in the drawings.

CORPORAL FINDS LIFE THAT GETS A MAN SOMEWHERE

Army Career So Slow He Turns Holdup, Gunman and Now Is in Line for Promotion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—"Army life," yawned Corp. John Zakawitch to his admiring squad of F. Battery, Seventh Field Artillery, U. S. A., in Madison Barracks, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., "don't get a feller nowhere." Yesterday the Jamaica police discovered that they had captured the will-o'-the-wisp gunman who has been leading Brooklyn's worst holdup band for months in the person of the Corporal.

Zakawitch, a bullet in his left wrist, was taken to court yesterday. He is a short, hard-bitten young man of 22. He told detectives that for more than a year he had been a spare-time bandit. After each robbery he would slip out of the city to the barracks, where he had charge of a field gun.

Twelve times in the last year he had met his gunmen followers in this city for a "job." His gunman associates didn't know his name or that he was a soldier. Many of his gang were caught, but they could only tell that their leader, or "gun," as he was termed, was known as "Zack," and sometimes paraded as a soldier.

WILFRED JONES NAMED AS COUNSELOR OF COUNTY COURT

Two New Judges, Who Take Office in January, Expected to Oppose Appointment.

More dissension over the St. Louis County Counselor, or legal adviser of the County Court, the administrative body, is foreshadowed by the appointment today of Wilfred Jones as Counselor for a two-year term, beginning Dec. 1 last. Jones, a Democrat, is First Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, and was defeated in the recent election for Sheriff.

Two of the three Judges of the County Court which will be in office after Jan. 1, William Preiss and George Bobring, Republicans, are expected to oppose the appointment of Jones by the retiring court, which has a Democratic majority. Presiding Judge Smiley, a Democrat, will hold over for the next two years.

In 1922 a previous County Court appointed Edward Rosenthal as Counselor, but the present members opposed Rosenthal when they took office and ousted him, appointing C. C. Wolff in his stead. The position pays $3000 a year, and hasn't required much work. Prior to 1922 the Prosecuting Attorney furnished legal advice for the court.

Glen Carbon's Principal Industry Resumes Operation After Being Closed Nine Months.

Glen Carbon, a mining town of 1400 persons, in the south part of Edwardsville township, will have a merry Christmas after all. The community is almost entirely dependent upon No. 2 mine of the Madison Coal Corporation, and it had been shut down since April 1 last, not a day's work being on the pay roll for nearly nine months.

Up to yesterday morning there was no indication of resumption this winter. Then, without warning, a message to start up came. Residents could hardly believe their ears when the blast of the big whistle boomed through the Bottoms and at first thought it was a fire alarm. Thirty men were lowered into the mine last night to clean up fallen debris, and this morning the machine runners started actual mining.

SEEKS SEPARATE MAINTENANCE

Wife Charges Husband Had Her Removed to Asylum.

A suit for separate maintenance, charging that her husband, John H. Bohn, 4566 Gibson avenue, caused her to be removed to Emmas Asylum at St. Charles against her will and that he mistreated her, was filed today in Circuit Court by Mrs. Lillian W. Bohn.

According to the petition, the couple was married in 1903 and lived together until Sept. 20, 1924, when her husband, accompanied by policemen, took her to city hospital against her will. After three days she was removed to Emmas Asylum, from which she escaped Dec. 7.

Banks Indrose Millspaugh.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 16.—Reappointment of Frank C. Millspaugh as State Finance Commissioner is urged in indorsements sent to Gov.-elect Sam A. Baker by the Clearing House Associations of St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Joseph. Until recently Millspaugh, who was defeated for Congress from the First District, has been a candidate for a Federal appointment as Deputy Comptroller at Washington. Deputy Finance Commissioner B. T. Hurwitz, in charge of the "blue sky" division of the Finance Department, has accepted an appointment as an assistant to Prosecuting Attorney Forest Hanna of Kansas City. Hurwitz will remain here until after the session of the Legislature.

Ends Life on Husband's Grave.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — Mrs. Laura Baker committed suicide on the grave of her husband in Brentwood Cemetery, on Long Island, today, by drinking poison and then setting her clothes on fire. Mrs. Baker, middle-aged, was unusually devoted to her husband, who died recently, according to neighbors. Searchers went to the cemetery after she had disappeared from her home and found her lying across the grave.

ALLEGED TRAIN WRECKER HELD

Officials Say Man Confessed Pulling Spikes.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Lester Black of Terre Haute, Ind., was arrested yesterday in Terre Haute in connection with an attempt made yesterday to wreck a southbound passenger train of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad.

F. G. Nicholson, general manager of the road, said he had been informed that Black had confessed that he and his brother, not yet apprehended, had drawn spikes from the track near Terre Haute with the intention of wrecking and robbing the train, which carried a large shipment of cash for the Federal Reserve Bank in New Orleans.

PLANE ATTACHES TO AIRSHIP IN AIR, THEN CUTS LOOSE

Automatic Device Works on Third Trial With the Ships at Altitude of About 1200 Feet.

An airplane attached itself to an airship while both were in full flight high above the earth, then rode idly, and next cut loose so each could make its landing, at Scott Field yesterday. It was the first time in the history of the world's conquest of the air that this whole process was accomplished. Scott Field is the army's chief lighter-than-air station.

The feat demonstrated new possibilities and thrilled birdmen as the forerunner of greater things to come. "It works," they exclaimed, and in the same breath declared that this was but a beginning. A prediction had come true, and this time there were no public croaks, "It can't be done."

The Aircraft Used.

The airship used was TC-3, familiar to St. Louisans, which holds 200,600 cubic feet of helium in its gas bag. It carried Lieut. Frank M. McKee, commander and altitude pilot; Capt. Edward Hill, directional pilot; Maj. Harold Strauss of McCook Field, observer, and four other men. The airplane was a little Sperry Messenger of 21-foot wing spread, weighing about 1000 pounds loaded. Its pilot was Lieut. Clyde V. Finter of McCook Field, Dayton, O.

TC-3 slipped from its hangar and went majestically aloft till the ground was 1200 feet away and houses were as boxes. Circling back from the west, she shot due east over Scott Field at 55 miles an hour, riding level. Meanwhile the Sperry had darted into the sky till it was just behind and beneath the dirigible. Slowing down, Lieut. Finter approximated the speed of the ship and slipped forward to engage the twin apparatus of the craft.

Once the automatic device caught, but the plane was flying a bit too fast, and it did not hold. Again it caught, and again broke loose. Maybe Finter murmured, "third time's the charm," and maybe he was too busy with his hazardous job to murmur, but he turned and tried once more—the apparatus engaged—the plane had become accessory of the ship—young kangaroo of the air carried by its mother.

Feat Accomplished in 10 Minutes.

The process required perhaps 10 minutes and all the time the craft were flying east in a 3 o'clock haze, so that they were several miles away from the field when sucesss was attained. A group of officers, headed by the commandant, Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, were back there on land, straining their eyes to watch.

The airship crew felt no jerk or strain when the airplane "landed," Maj. Strauss, the observer, told the commander. TC-3 turned back with its offspring. Near the field and in sight of it, Lieut. Finter started his motor and pulled a lever to release the Sperry and cut loose after a 10-minute ride. Free again, he put his plane through stunts in celebration, then swooped to earth. TC-3 settled gently down and submitted to ropes that towed her into the hangar.

A trapeze on the airship and a hook on the airplane comprise the linking apparatus. The trapeze consists of two hollow steel pipes about 9 feet long and 1¾ inches across, suspended from the bombing rails of the ship's car, towards the rear. They are joined at the bottom by a similar piece about a yard long on which is a shock-absorbing device. Two cables fore and two aft brace the trapeze.

Safety Device Valuable Feature.

The hook on the plane, which was made at McCook Field, the engineering center, is something like a shepherd's crook. It is of stout wood, reinforced with metal, and is above the top wing, with the curve almost touching the propellors. A safety device prevents it from holding onto the trapeze if the plane flies too fast, but when conditions are right, as on yesterday's third attempt, it holds tight to the bottom of the trapeze. Officers said the unsuccessful attempts proved the value of the safety feature. The motor of the airplane is stopped by the pilot after the hook engages and started before the hook is disengaged.

A plane previously hooked onto a ship went aloft at the national meet at Dayton last October and cut loose in the air to continue by itself, but a coupling in the air never was made until yesterday. Coupling in the air was tried at Langley Field, Va., several months ago, but the plane hook broke. There is danger in the hooking process of pulling the airship down out of control.

The prospect opened by this success is twofold—for use in war and peace. Col. Paegelow, Lieut. McKee and other officers have agreed in pointing out that the nation's huge airships, Shenandoah and Los Angeles, could be equipped to carry a number of planes. Since these craft are only for peaceable pursuits, their swifter, smaller companions could be used to land and pick up mail and passengers, and catch on again, without the troublesome process of landing the ships. Big airships in wartime could carry planes for offense and defense and transport troops.

EFERS JAIL TO PAYING WIFE

lthy Man Says Divorce Must Come Before Alimony.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—Charles d'Arcy, well-to-do San Francisco business man, is in jail today, reading some of his favorite authors and taking a rest for an indefinite period because he refuses to pay his wife $300 a month alimony unless she obtains a divorce.

D'Arcy appeared in court yesterday with a suitcase filled with clothing and books. When he was informed that he must pay $300 a month alimony for which he is 11 months in arrears, he said: "I intend no disrespect for the Court, but I have decided I know more about this case than anyone else. I will stay in jail before I pay."

Senate Committee Informed by La Follette Counsel That They Discredit Alleged Telegrams.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The Senate Campaign Fund Investigating Committee made short work today of its inquiry into a $1,000,000 Republican slush fund," purported to have been handled through four Western Federal Reserve Banks. Finding no evidence to support the story, the committee gave up the trail after a brief hearing.

Counsel for Senator La Follette, who originally suggested that line of inquiry, informed the committee through Chairman Borah that they themselves believed that telegrams supposed to deal with the "slush fund" were forgeries.

John B. Cochran, president of the Franklin National Bank here, was questioned by Borah about certain telegrams connected with the transfer story, but said he had not sent them. They appeared to have been sent by the Franklin Bank to the reserve banks in San Francisco, Kansas City, St. Louis and Minneapolis on Oct. 21. One of them, addressed to the Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank, said:

"The Treasury Department desires issuance by your bank of reserve notes up to, but not exceeding $250,000 against General Motors Co. draft, now in possession of Treasury Department. You may deduct from principal sum any amount necessary to bring State quota deficit, if any, up to original figures. Expedite remainder to National Treasurer William V. Hodges to augment victory. Unprecedented contributions creating surplus in Eastern division, which makes it necessary to distribute over Western division regardless of oversubscriptions, although tSate quota should not exceed $100,000 oversubscription."

Borah, before the committee adjourned, requested "for the committee's record," that search should be made at the Chicago telegraph offices for a record of the messages. He said the purported telegrams had been supplied by L. M. Lewis and J. Moses Ball, operators in the Chicago office of the Postal Telegraph Co.

M'GEHEE LOSES APPEAL ON OUSTER AS MINISTER

Ecclesiastical Council Affirms Decision After an All-Day Session.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 16.—Charles D. McGehee, who was dismissed as a minister and member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, by the St. Louis conference of that church early this year, because of his Ku Klux Klan activities, has lost his appeal of the decision to an ecclesiastical Committee of Appeals.

The conference had found McGehee guilty on four counts of making misstatements of fact concerning a quarrel with Bishop McMurry over his klan activities. Specifically, the charge was: "Immorality, namely, falsehood and bearing false witness." McGehee appealed to the high ecclesiastical body, which, however, affirmed the decision of the conference last night, after an all-day session.

McGehee made a statement before the Committee of Appeals, which was replied to on behalf of the church by the Rev. Ivon Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's Church, St. Louis. The following members of the committee were at the hearing: Bishop E. D. Mouzon, J. P. Hilburn, W. W. Woolard, S. L. Dobbs, P. A. Marin and E. R. Malone.

Following his deposition from the ministry and church, McGehee was dismissed as a Chaplain of the Army Reserve Corps because he was no longer a clergyman. He was pastor of Haven Street Church, St. Louis, untily September, 1923, and while there was active in support of the klan. Since then he has been engaged in klan jobs, but at last accounts has been fired as "titan" of "Province No. 1, Realm of Illinois," by the State "grand headquarters at Centralia, Ill.

MISSOURIAN SUGGESTED FOR SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Appointment of William Hirth of Columbia, Mo., editor of the Missouri Farmer and one of the organizers of the American Council of Agriculture, as Secretary of Agriculture, to succeed Secretary Gore on the latter's retirement March 4, was recommended to President Coolidge today by members of the Missouri congressional delegation. In the latter to the President, which was signed by all the Missouri Congressmen with the exception of Representatives Dyer and Faust, Hirth was presented as a "dirt" farmer, journalist and as an authority on co-operative marketing." He is the editor of the Missouri Farmer and for many years has been a close student of farm economics and is recognized as an authority on this subject, the letter said.

"He has been active in the development of co-operative marketing enterprises and is founder of one of the foremost co-operative organizations in America. He was one of the leaders in the organization of the American Council of Agriculture and has demonstrated his ability and his patriotic interest in the vital agricultural problems of the day."

Representatives Sid C. Roach (Rep.) of the Eighth District and Clarence Cannon (Dem.), of the Ninth have been the active sponsors of the Hirth candidacy. Representative Dyer is not in Washington at this time. Faust favors another candidate.

Mayor Defeated for Fourth Term.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 16. Mayor Ben D. Brickhouse, candidate for nomination for a fourth term, conceded his defeat last night by County Judge Charles F. Moyers.

COOLIDGE AGAINST ANY INQUIRY BY CONGRESS ON NAVY

SENATE BODY PUTS OFF ACTION ON IT

President Reiterates That Policy of U. S. Is to Govern Power of Fleets Only by Nation's Needs.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Naval building by the nations of the world on a competitive basis promises little hope for the future, in the opinion of President Coolidge.

With respect to the American navy, the administration viewpoint was again defined today as looking toward a navy adequate for the defense of the country without respect to steps taken by other nations.

These views, expressed at the White House, were supplemented by the statement that the President regards as unnecessary any congressional inquiry into the state of the nation's navy.

Simultaneously with the statement of the President's view, the Senate Naval Committee postponed action on the resolution of Senator King (Dem.), Utah, for an inquiry into the status of the navy.

Chairman Hale announced a "substitute plan" had been presented to the committee, but declined to explain wherein it would differ from the investigation sought by the Utah Senator, who charged the navy was not being maintained at its treaty ratio.

Annual Inquiry Sufficient.

The proposal has been made in Congress that an inquiry should be undertaken into the status of the navy before appropriation of additional funds, but the President regards the investigations and hearings held annually in connection with the naval appropriation bill as a thorough-going inquiry into the state of the naval establishment.

Furthermore, he feels that the naval general staff and the Secretary of the Navy continually are at work examining the condition of the naval establishment and their findings are at the disposal at all times of Congress.

Although the question of gun elevation of capital ships has again come to the fore through consideration of pending legislation, Mr. Coolidge does not regard that as an important factor in the present discussion of the national defense. He has not examined the proposal thoroughly, but inasmuch as five of the 18 capital ships are deemed to need no elevation of guns and five others are declared by naval officials to be comparable in gun range with the major elements of other navies, the matter of elevating the guns of the eight remaining hardly could be considered as of prime importance. Another factor to be considered, in the President's opinion, is the matter of expenditure, an appropriation of $6,500,000 having been proposed in the pending legislation for such work.

Holds Situation Explained.

The President's views were brought forth by an inquiry at the White House for a statement as to the comparison of the American navy with those of foreign countries. Coolidge does not want to proceed on the theory of a continual comparison of world navies. Such a method of naval building would leave slight hope of a reduction in armaments and therefore the only economical and at the same time safe yardstick with which to measure the American navy would be that of its adequateness to defend the country's coasts.

An address by Chairman Hale of the Senate Naval Committee last summer in the Senate provides, in the President's opinion, a complete statement as to the state of the American navy. This since has been supplemented by the study of naval needs made by the Budget Bureau, but the President himself, in his consideration of budget estimates, and by the House Naval Committee in its consideration of the pending naval bill. Further light on the subject will be brought out by the House debate on the appropriation measure, the Senate Committee consideration and the Senate debate and with the navy having run the gamut of such an inquiry, it is the President's view that another investigation such as has been proposed would hardly be necessary.

Secretary Wilbur will appear before the House Naval Committee tomorrow to give his views on questions pertaining to the navy.

The purpose of the committee to hear the Secretary was made known by Representative Britten of Illinois, ranking Republican on the committee. Britten earlier had visited the White House and discussed with President Coolidge legislation to appropriate $6,500,000 to elevate guns on 13 of the Navy's capital ships. Britten declared afterwards that until the elevation of guns was accomplished the American Navy would not be equal to the navies of other world powers, ship for ship. He asserted that 80 per cent of American ships now were outranked.

Will He Give What She Really Wants This Christmas or Will He Make the Same Mistake Again?

AREN'T men, as a rule, poor guessers when it comes to choosing gifts for women? Men are seldom aware of such mistakes, for a woman is lady enough to act pleased, no matter how dumb a selection he may make,

For example, if the men but knew it, there is scarcely a woman who would not spend her own precious money for a good electric iron. Yet how much more thrilling it would be if some gallant Santa Claus should give it to her; and give her the one which above all others will easily do the difficult things she wants an iron for.

Here's an example of what is now taking place in many cities: Two neighbors of Mrs. F. Heinis, 5205 S. Laflin St., Chicago, saw her Sunbeam iron and each of them bought one like it. And here are the reasons they did so, and the reasons Mrs. Heinis gave a Sunbeam to her niece.

"I could think of nothing that would bring her more happiness," she says, "because she could do her ironing much quicker, and not have that dragged-out feeling at the end of the day which comes from using an iron that does not hold its heat, nor give an even heat."

Over-Heating Will Not Harm It

In perfecting the New Sunbeam we took all kinds of irons apart. And we found that to build a heating unit that would cover practically the whole ironing surface we would have to make it by hand. No machine yet invented could do it. But this All-Over unit would heat the iron all over—not merely in certain spots.

Its heating capacity should be carefully regulated to provide ample heat, and an even heat; but not the rush of violent heat that scorches clothes.

It would have to be insulated with sheets of pure mica—for compositions might separate if the iron were overheated, and porcelain insulation might crack.

It would cost us double to make an All-Over unit like this and one that overheating could not harm, but it meant a better iron than the best iron previously made. So we went ahead.

Mirror-Like Sole-Plate—Tapered Nose for Gathers

We did even more—we double-nickeled and double-polished the sole-plate to give the table linens and similar pieces that beautiful gloss—that clean new look. An iron so smooth and so perfectly balanced that it responds to every guiding touch, and rests woman's ironing arm.

An iron designed with a graceful, tapering nose to get into gathers, pleats, and spaces between embroidery.

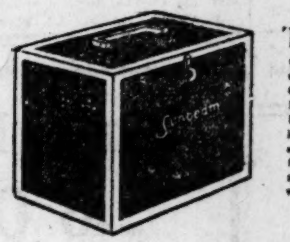
Men don't understand these things, but women can help by dropping a timely hint about the Sunbeam. For not since electric irons first came has there been an improvement so important.

No Time to Lose Before Christmas

Hours of over-heating might discolor the nickel, as it would on any iron. But it cannot impair the Sunbeam's heating capacity. And 70% of the repairs to ordinary irons are on account of that.

So don't accept an old-time electric iron if you find a dealer who hasn't the New Sunbeam. Hand him the coupon and he'll get it for you—or mail to us including dealer's name. But do this at once so you'll have the Sunbeam for Christmas giving. Let nothing prevent you—for the Sunbeam is sold on 30 days' approval and is guaranteed.

All-Steel Fireproof Gift Case, $1



THE one iron obtainable in a handsome Case, hence the one most appropriate for Christmas giving—a Delft-Blue All-Steel Fireproof Case that keeps iron, cord, and stand clean, safe and free from dirt and moisture. A $2.50 value at only $1.

JOHNSON UNWORRIED AS FEUD WITH LANDIS NEARS A CRISIS

Browns' Officials Think Wrangle Will Be Settled Without Drastic Action

Support Behind American League, However, May Be Rendered Supine by Fear of Jeopardizing Heavy Investments —Former Czar Himself Noncommittal.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

President Byron Bancroft Johnson of the American League, is in Chicago today, after having spent yesterday here in conferences with officials of the St. Louis Browns. Whether his defenses against the expected attack of the Landis forces, tomorrow, at the joint meeting of the major leagues in Chicago, were strengthened is the merest conjecture, as no information for publication was forthcoming from Ban as to his hopes, fears or plans.

If the American League head fears the worst, as a result of Landis' expected intention to force Johnson's resignation or submit his own, big Ban does not show it in his impassive features.

In fact, he merely smiles when asked what he expects to happen and replies: "You can never tell what they will do." His answers to more specific questions were noncommital.

Johnson saw President Phil Ball of the Browns for about 10 minutes at the St. John's Hospital. Ball is too ill to discuss baseball affairs. The real conference was held at the offices of S. L. Swarts, attorney for the club and an officer of the baseball organization.

May Force Resignation.

The worst that can happen to Johnson is to have Landis carry out his alleged threat to resign himself or get Johnson's resignation. Officials of the Browns do not look for anything as drastic as that. Whether the league would back up Johnson to the extent of supporting him, even in event of a breach of the national agreement, is doubtful. It would mean the breaking up of the national agreement and the possible end of the world series.

Fear of jeopardizing their heavy investments have apparently turned the blood of some of the fighters to water. Bob Quinn, Ruppert and Ball are Johnson's staunchest friends. Connie Mack, Navin and Barnard are lukewarm, and Comiskey and Griffith are said to be in open revolt. If a showdown should come, the support of the man who organized the American League, put it across as a major organization and made it for many years almost eclipse the older circuit, will have several soft spots in it.

Col. Jake Ruppert of New York, Tom Shibe of Philadelphia and Barney Barnard of Cleveland will call upon Landis tomorrow morning and try to iron out the wrinkles.

St. Louis officials here expressed the belief today that the committee would be successful and that the expected explosion would not materialize.

John McGraw, now en route to Chicago, is preparing to pour salt into the wounds, instead of applying balm. He, too, wants a showdown on the O'Connell case utterances of Ban Johnson; while in the offing is the Pacific Coast League with a request that Johnson's hand in the matter of charges of Pacific League gambling corruption be called.

Whether Johnson would be Samson enough to pull down the temple with him, if he were forced to quit, is one of the possibilities to be considered. There may be another big heave left in the old boy yet.

Johnson's stand against the commercialization of the world's series and his suggestion that the price of world's series tickets be cut down may have had something to do with the lukewarm attitude of some of his club owners. Enthusiasm is apt to weaken when any one hits at the pocketbook.

Schmidt, Veteran Pittsburg Catcher, Draws His Release

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 16.

WALTER SCHMIDT of Modesta, Cal., veteran catcher of the Pittsburg National League baseball club, was given his unconditional release today by Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates.

All clubs of both the National and American Leagues have waived on Schmidt, according to reports here.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Pull for Roper.

FROM and athletic viewpoint Washington University is at last headed right. For the first time in history a Pikeway university chancellor is giving athletics a 50-50 break and is trying to overtake the procession of other major universities.

Long years of strict neutrality and sometimes of hostility from the faculty and heads of the institution have forced Washington to take the dust of Valley Conference rivals in football.

With Chancellor Hadley fighting FOR athletics, the school in a short time should move up near the head of the procession.

The first step is seen in the reaching out for Coach W. W. Roper, the Princeton veteran, a man of proved merit. Roper alone cannot develop a football team, but his name should attract football talent of a higher order than hitherto has been forthcoming.

* * *

A REAL coach, an enlarged stadium and a higher place in valley athletic affairs will be brought about by faculty interest in sports.

St. Louis is the largest population center on the valley circuit. Washington University is one of the highest ranking institutions, scholastically, in the United States. It ought to lead the valley, not trail it, in sports as well as in educational features.

* * *

Cochems in Harness Again.

THE "money-no-object" announcement of Washington University has lured many well-known coaches from cover and applications are numerous. Should Roper be unable to come, Chancellor Hadley and Director of Athletics Edmunds will have a considerable field to choose from.

Washington University is interested in forward passing. The "father of the forward pass," Eddie Cochems, has decided to return to football fields after a long absence. He has had several offers, but has not signed. Cochems has always wanted to return to St. Louis, but his break with St. Louis University has prevented his consideration there.

Whether Washington could use him or not is a question for the Washington authorities. That he is a resourceful man is certain.

Bo McMillin, Jimmy Conzelman and others of football fame are also willing to have the Washington University post, but it is likely that their having played professional football would be held against both.

Then and Now.

NOT all of baseball's tremendous progress is reflected in the vast stands and million-dollar fields devoted to the pastime in the big leagues.

If the stands are 10 times as costly as in the brave days of the nineteenth century, the extravagance in the matter of baseballs used is equally great.

It is not so very many, many years ago when half a dozen balls covered the daily consumption in a league game.

Last season, in 154 games, the total baseballs employed by the National League alone, was 43,224. The New York National League club alone used 7560; which means that the Giants bought an average of 49 balls for every league game played.

The smallest number of baseballs used by any National League club was 3450, by the Phillies; and the club average per season was 5400.

The total expense per club was about the price of a first-rate big league prospect. For baseballs cost clubs of today about what the public formerly paid as a retail price, $1.25 each.

LEVY IS ELECTED PIKER FOOTBALL CAPTAIN FOR 1925

Levy, the mainspring of the Piker attack in football, is also a baseball pitcher and is a member of the basketball squad.

AIR SERVICE BASKET TEAM IS AFTER GAMES

The Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, Missouri National Guard, stationed at Anglum, Mo., has taken up athletics and is developing a basket ball team. Friday night the aviators will oppose the Naval Reserve team at the sailors' floor. Last week the airmen lost to Co. A of the 138th Infantry in a practice game, 23 to 18. Games with the Air Service team can be arranged through Joseph W. Wecker, 6400 Plymouth avenue.

Games Scheduled in Indiana Friday and Saturday—Long Home Schedule.

The St. Louis University basketball team will depart on its first road tour of the season Friday, meeting Central Normal of Danville, Ind., on Friday evening and playing at either Crawfordville, Ind., or Terre Haute on Saturday evening.

A squad of 14 players has been practicing under the direction of Coach Dan Savage since last Monday and the first team has been selected about as follows:

Dec. 19.—Central Normal at Danville, Ind.
Dec. 20—Indiana State Normal at Terre Haute, Ind.
Jan. 7—St. Viator at Kankakee, Ill.
Jan. 10—Hanover College at St. Louis.

Pikeway Basket Quint Defeated In Opening Game

Washington Finishes Strong After Poor Start in Season's First Contest.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 16.—Indiana, using subs in the second half, romped over the Washington University basket ball team of St. Louis, 35 to 28, before a crowd of 3500 here last night. The Crimson players jumped into the lead at the start of the scrap and were never headed.

The visitors, coached by Don White, a former Purdue star, were unable to penetrate the Hoosier defense with any success in the first half, but had better luck in the second session.

Indiana's team work shows much improvement over the State Normal game. The team played together better and followed in its shots with regularity. The Indiana defense was also much better.

Minner and Seago Star.

Indiana 55, Washington 28.

Coach Suggests Cut In the Value of Score Made on Forward Pass

By the Associated Press.

AMHERST, Mass., Dec. 16.

DECLARING that the forward pass in its modern variations, is an "evil" to the game and slowly relegating football into outdoor basketball, Harold M. "Kid" Gore, gridiron coach at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, suggests that a touchdown resulting from a forward pass should score only three points, the same as a field goal, instead of six as now provided. He also suggests as a further remedy the elimination of any run after a pass is received, thus allowing only the ground actually gained by the pass.

Weinert Is Winner Over Jack Sharkey

By Fair Play.
(Copyright, 1924.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Promoters are face to face with the grim fact that only a boxing show with the most resounding names is calculated to draw big these days. Charley Weinert and Jack Sharkey drew no more than 4000 spectators to the 113th Regiment Armory in Newark for their 12-round bout last night and at that there was the additional inducement of Eddie Garvey, the former Notre Dame football star.

All in all Weinert cut his rival pretty much to pieces, but he never slowed him up and took several hefty wallops himself. In fact he took two rights on the jaw which should convince anyone that the Adonis can take a wallop of mighty proportions as well as the next man.

CITY CO

Bouts Postponed Indefinitely by Tommy Sullivan

Promoter Says He Wants t Make Test Case of Commission's Jurisdiction.

NEGRO FIGHTS IGNORE

By Dent McSkimming.

Tommy Sullivan, boxing pro moter, announced this afternoo that the show scheduled to be hel at the Rock Springs Turner Ha tonight, had been postponed. Su livan's action followed an an nouncement by the City Boxin Commission, which held a meetin yesterday, that the bouts would n be permitted.

The promoter announced that h would make a test case, to prov that the City Boxing Commissio was illegal. He also asserted tha he did not post a forfeit or appl for a license, because he had bee advised by his attorneys that th commission had no standing an because police had made no effor to stop negro boxing shows hel here.

Chief of Police O'Brien thi morning received orders to stop th bouts from the Boxing Commissio and had planned to carry out thes orders.

Robert Junod, secretary of th City Boxing Commission, explaine today that Sullivan had failed t meet with the regulations in th following instances:

Failed to file a copy of the club charter to show that the club is an incorporated body authorized to hold boxing bouts.

Yesterday's meeting was calle by Herman Kraleman, chairma of the Board of Public Safety an ex-officio member of the Boxin Commission. There were presen August Niederlucke, Edw. E. Butler, Kralemann and Secretary Robert Junod.

Roland-King Bout Planned.

Walter "Red" Roland vs. Morri King, eight rounds at 130 pounds Eddie Reith vs. Al Vasquez, eigh rounds at 125 pounds; Bill Johnso vs. "Kid" Schulz, six rounds at 14 pounds; Larry Murphy vs. Tomm Wheaton, four rounds.

The announcement by Sulliva of a "semiprofessional" show at th Rock Springs Hall, marked th first attempt to revive the profe sional game in St. Louis since th fiasco which occurred at the Coli seum almost a year ago when Pro moter Jim Mullen of Chicag failed to produce a show as adve tised. In recent months severa amateur boxing shows have bee held.

SOUTHERN LEAGUERS TO MEET IN MARC

By the Associated Press.

Coach Suggests Cut In the Value of Score Made on Forward Pass

By the Associated Press.

AMHERST, Mass., Dec. 16.

DECLARING that the forward pass in its modern variations, is an "evil" to the game and slowly relegating football into outdoor basketball, Harold M. "Kid" Gore, gridiron coach at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, suggests that a touchdown resulting from a forward pass should score only three points, the same as a field goal, instead of six as now provided. He also suggests as a further remedy the elimination of any run after a pass is received, thus allowing only the ground actually gained by the pass.

Weinert Is Winner Over Jack Sharkey

By Fair Play.

(Copyright, 1924.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Promoters are face to face with the grim fact that only a boxing show with the most resounding names is calculated to draw big these days. Charley Weinert and Jack Sharkey drew no more than 4000 spectators to the 113th Regiment Armory in Newark for their 12-round bout last night and at that there was the additional inducement of Eddie Garvey, the former Notre Dame football star.

All in all Weinert cut his rival pretty much to pieces, but he never slowed him up and took several hefty wallops himself. In fact he took two rights on the jaw which should convince anyone that the Adonis can take a wallop of mighty proportions as well as the next man.

Hoosiers to Play Sox.

CITY COMMISSION NOTIFIES POLICE TO STOP BOXING SHOW TONIGHT

Bouts Postponed Indefinitely by Tommy Sullivan

Promoter Says He Wants to Make Test Case of Commission's Jurisdiction.

NEGRO FIGHTS IGNORED

City Fistic Body Failed to Stop Dusky Athletes, Impresario Points Out.

By Dent McSkimming.

Tommy Sullivan, boxing promoter, announced this afternoon that the show scheduled to be held at the Rock Springs Turner Hall tonight, had been postponed. Sullivan's action followed an announcement by the City Boxing Commission, which held a meeting yesterday, that the bouts would not be permitted.

Sullivan did not set any date for the holding of the bouts.

The promoter announced that he would make a test case, to prove that the City Boxing Commission was illegal. He also asserted that he did not post a forfeit or apply for a license, because he had been advised by his attorneys that the commission had no standing and because police had made no effort to stop negro boxing shows held here.

Chief of Police O'Brien this morning received orders to stop the bouts from the Boxing Commission and had planned to carry out these orders.

Robert Junod, secretary of the City Boxing Commission, explained today that Sullivan had failed to meet with the regulations in the following instances:

Failed to furnish bond of $2500.

Failed to pay license fee of $250.

Failed to file a copy of the club charter to show that the club is an incorporated body authorized to hold boxing bouts.

Yesterday's meeting was called by Herman Kraleman, chairman of the Board of Public Safety and ex-officio member of the Boxing Commission. There were present August Niederlucke, Edw. E. Butler, Kralemann and Secretary Robert Junod.

Roland-King Bout Planned.

Walter "Red" Roland vs. Morris King, eight rounds at 130 pounds; Eddie Reith vs. Al Vasquez, eight rounds at 125 pounds; Bill Johnson vs. "Kid" Schulz, six rounds at 140 pounds; Larry Murphy vs. Tommy Wheaton, four rounds.

The announcement by Sullivan of a "semiprofessional" show at the Rock Springs Hall, marked the first attempt to revive the professional game in St. Louis since the fiasco which occurred at the Coliseum almost a year ago when Promoter Jim Mullen of Chicago failed to produce a show as advertised. In recent months several amateur boxing shows have been held.

SOUTHERN LEAGUERS TO MEET IN MARCH

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 16—Southern Association directors devoted the initial sessions of their annual winter meeting yesterday to a general discussion of league problems, named committees and fixed March 3 as the date for the spring meeting but deferred action until today on the major questions—the adoption of a revised constitution and the devising of ways and means to provide greater financial returns for the smaller clubs.

Yesterday's session began before noon and continued throughout the day and into last night before the magnates called it a day. Announcement was made when the meeting ended that all of the problems confronting the league heads had been discussed but that no decision had been reached.

The fixing of a date for the opening and closing of the 1925 championship season also was passed until today.

A. J. Heinemann, president of the New Orleans club; Strang Nicklin of Chattanooga, and R. G. Wallen of Little Rock were named as a committee of three to draft a tentative schedule for next season, to be presented to the spring meeting in Memphis.

Loudos Defeats Mayiki.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 16. — "Jim" Londos defeated Tarro Mayiki in a one-fall match, the feature of a wrestling show here last night. Londos floored the Japanese with a series of reverse headlocks after 53 minutes of grappling.

Hans Steinke won in straight falls from "Vic" Soldat, using a crotch and leg hold each time. The times 4:00, 3:12. Wladek Zbyszko threw Jack Roberts in 12½ minutes and again in three minutes. Dick Daviscourt and Renato Gardini wrestled a draw. Council Rocco was defeated by John Evko in a one-fall match.

No Demand for Baseball Among European Boys, Muddy Ruel Says

English Lads Not Eager to Take It Up and French, More Curious, Find Batting and Throwing a Baffling Mystery.

English lads do not seem to be very eager to take up baseball, and the French kids, although more curious, find batting and throwing a baffling mystery.

Harold "Muddy" Ruel, who was a member of the Giants-White Sox squad which recently toured Europe, thus expressed his opinion regarding the possibility of establishing the American national game in Europe. Ruel, who is a St. Louisan and the regular catcher for the Washington American League team, returned to his home late last week and last night spoke before a gathering of friends at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

"I speak of the manner in which the young boys receive the game because I am quite convinced that the only way to introduce baseball into a foreign country is to give it to the kids in school and on the lots. The way the crowds respond to the big exhibition games doesn't signify much.

Not a Trip to Make Money.

"Financially our trip was a failure, but we were quite convinced that neither McGraw nor Comiskey undertook the trip as a money-making venture. They turned down offers for games while we were idle in London."

Ruel recounted a visit of the squad to a national final for the "hurling" championship of Ireland.

"The game was played at Dublin on a Sunday afternoon. Our baseball must have appeared a tame affair compared with the 'hurling' which is played with a small semi-hard ball driven about the field with clubs which resemble hockey sticks but are actually heavier. Our fellows were greatly amused at the way the players disregarded heavy cracks on the shins, the arms and the heads with those sticks. They drove the ball and passed it with tremendous force.

"We also saw an international soccer match in which England defeated Ireland, 3 to 1. The teams appeared to put greater stress on teamwork than on individual effort and we were surprised to find that the fans who attended the game considered this international match not nearly so interesting as a regular league game.

Played on Soccer Fields.

"All of our games, in England, Ireland and France, were played on soccer fields. We were forced to arrange our diamond in such a way that a line drawn from home plate to second base ran directly across the football field. Thus, most of the long drives to center field went right up into the stands for two-base hits. A fellow could get a triple or home run only by hitting down the foul line.

"The spectators cheered wildly when a fielder caught any kind of a fly ball, even though it was a mere 'pop.' A line drive into the stands brought no applause, I suppose because it was not caught."

At the conclusion of the series of games, Ruel accompanied his teammate, Sam Rice and his wife and Al Lang, president of the Florida State League, and his wife, on a trip through Southern France and Italy.

The largest crowds drawn at the baseball games were: 16,000 at Stamford Bridge, London, the day King George, Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales attended; 6500 on another day at the same grounds; 4000 at Birmingham and 4000 at Liverpool.

"The players took their games seriously and we showed the spectators some very fine baseball. The short center field fence, of course, often made for big scores," "Muddy" explained.

Last Night's Fights

DAYTON, O.—Young Stribling, Macon, Ga., won the referee's decision over Jimmy Klesh of Cleveland in a 12-round bout.

PHILADELPHIA.—Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., added another victory to his list when he scored a technical knockout over Jack Townsend, brawny negro fighter from Buffalo, N. Y., in the fifth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

PORTSMOUTH, O.—Benny Levy, St. Louis, won on a foul from Frankie Susnell, Portsmouth, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout. They are lightweights.

NEW ORLEANS. — Pal Moran regained the title of Southern lightweight champion when he defeated Basil Galiano in 15 rounds. The fight was a good one from start to finish and a draw decision by Referee Dolan would not have been amiss. Moran's great finish gave him the decision. Henry Jungle beat Eddie McCormick; Tony Richards won from Norman Moran in four-round bouts.

COEUR D'ALENE, Ida.—Jimmy Collett of Spokane knocked out Young Stanley Ketchel of Coeur D'Alene 20 seconds after the opening gong in a scheduled 15-round bout.

By LAWRENCE PERRY.

(Copyright, 1924.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. — In the coaching situation that now exists at Harvard not many voices have been heard in defense of Robert Fisher, the present coach. But now a former Harvard player, Fordyce Blake, comes forward with an argument that may be regarded by Harvard critics of Fisher to require some answering.

With regard to Harvard's defense deteriorating, Blake sets forth that during the first five years of Haughton's administration at Harvard the sum total of Crimson scoring against Yale consisted of drop kicks by Kennard and Brickley.

"It is interesting, however," continues Blake, "to compare Fisher's six years' work and Haughton's first six years. During this period the record against Yale was as follows:

CARONDELET SOCCER MEN ARE FREE AGENTS

A circular letter issued yesterday by William F. Yorger, chairman of the Municipal Soccer League Executive Committee, contained a notification that all players of the teams which formerly composed Group One at Carondelet Park have been declared free agents.

The four clubs in question withdrew from the league last Friday when they were ordered to alternate between Grounds One and Grounds Two at Carondelet Park.

Ruth Drew 125,000 Persons During His Tour for Charity

Bambino Pitched First 9-Inning Game in Nine Years, Hit 17 Home Runs, Drove Golf Ball 353 Yards and Gained Ten Pounds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—George Herman "Babe" Ruth, knocker of home runs and well-known man about town (any American League town) has returned to Sudbury, Mass., where he will devote himself to his agricultural interests and pursuits and rest after his 8500-mile trip to the Pacific coast in the interest of charity.

Ruth left New York Oct. 11, the day after the world series, and between then and Dec. 6, when he returned to the East, he did many things. Here are some of them:

Had the accompanying photograph taken.

Made 17 home runs.

Rode 250 miles in a locomotive.

Wore his dinner coat 19 times.

Drove a golf ball 353 yards.

ROCKNE GROOMING TWO PLAYERS TO REPLACE WALSH IN COAST GAME

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 16.—Chief among Coach Knute Rockne's worries in preparing Notre Dame for the football game with Leland Stanford of Pasadena on New Year's day is the possibility that Adam Walsh, his big captain and center, will not be able to participate in the Coast game.

Walsh, who has been one of the mainstays on the line all season, has been receiving treatment for an injured foot and hip in Stillwater, Ok. The grid captain was married at Stillwater yesterday to Miss Dorothy Fisher of that place, a former student at St. Mary's Academy here.

Maxwell, who substituted for Walsh in several games, and also Harmon, are being groomed for the center position.

WILLIAM WAGNER IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF SOUTH BROADWAY A. C.

William Wagner was elected president of the South Broadway Athletic Club at the annual election held last night. Wagner succeeds Harry W. Uhlemeyer, who held the post for four successive years. Uhlemeyer declined to accept the office again. Other officers elected are: Joseph Gilmaster, vice president; Charles Zeman, secretary; Albert Wodicka, financial secretary, and Oliver Kattner, treasurer.

Tigers Drill to Improve Defense

For First Time Since Squad Returned to Work, Weather Threatens to Interfere.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 16.—For the first time since the University of Missouri football squad resumed practice more than a week ago for its game with the University of Southern California at Los Angeles Christmas day, bad weather today threatened to slow up Coach Gwinn Henry's preparations for the coast trip. An unusually fine week last week, and spring-like weather yesterday did much to aid the Tiger campaign, but this morning the weather was on the turn to colder, there was a threat of snow, and a gusty wind threatened to force the Missouri squad indoors for today's practice.

Work on defense has taken up most of the time of the Missouri squad this week, Henry devoting his efforts to drilling his men in the best methods of breaking up Southern California's expected aerial attack. He has also used plenty of signal drill to keep his men in good condition.

PROFITS ARE TAKEN IN THE LATE TRADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Strong commodity markets, firmness in the foreign exchanges, steadiness in bonds and early strength in stocks followed by irregularity on profit-taking marked the day's trading in the financial markets. Call money ruled at 3 per cent throughout, while time money, commercial paper and acceptances were firm, with rates unchanged. The volume of stock trading increased further, the turnover crossing the 2,000,000 share mark. Apparently the momentum gained in the renewed buying yesterday was sufficient to raise the general list to higher levels until well into the afternoon. Then, however, profit-taking again set in which left considerable irregularity at the close. Throughout the day prices for the main body of stocks were little changed, but a few of the rails and a number of industrial specialties in which well organized pools are operating made sharp advances, giving the market a stronger appearance than it really deserved. With the change in the character of the buying which has come about recently frequent reactions are to be expected even though the main trend continued upward. Bonds were steady without special feature.

Foreign Exchange Steady.

"Foreign exchange rates were generally firm, with the trend moderately upward. The action of sterling and francs was particularly interesting. Despite dealings in these currencies in unusually large blocks, prices moved within a narrow range. Sterling, after selling down ⅜ of a cent in the early part of the day, recovered to its previous closing price of $4.69. French francs also were quoted unchanged at 5.37½ cents, following a loss of nearly ⅛ of a point. It is not unlikely that speculative selling of sterling and francs was absorbed by heavy demands resulting from the further transfer of balances from this country to Europe. Speculation plus the building up of American balances abroad have been potent factors in the exchange market for some time. Italian lire and Belgian francs were slightly lower, while Spanish pesetas weakened further. The Far Easterns were lower with the drop in the price of silver. South Americans, on the other hand, advanced.

Car Loadings High.

"Railroad car loading figures continue to supply evidence of the good volume of trade which the country is enjoying. Loadings for the week of Dec. 6, figures for which were published today, amounted to 968,256 cars. This is an increase of 89,625 cars over the previous week, in which traffic was affected by observance of the Thanksgiving holiday, and a gain of 54,335 cars over the corresponding week of last year. In addition to their implications with regard to general business conditions these high weekly car loading figures augur well for railroad earnings during the final two months of the year.

Commodities Strong.

"Pronounced buoyancy in wheat and corn and a strong cotton market were the features of commodity trading. In cotton there was a better trade demand and active covering by shorts, the market here taking its cue from Europe where apparently the cotton figures published last Saturday were somewhat misinterpreted. Although the amount of cotton actually consumed in the month of November was below that of the previous month, the rate of consumption on a daily basis including only working days was larger. At any rate active futures met with a good demand at prices well above the previous close. January deliveries were 25 points higher at a late price of 23.75 cents. Bullish sentiment in grain was rampant without any particular new developments. A crop report is due to be published after the close of the market this afternoon, but the world situation in wheat and corn appears to be governing factor just now. May wheat closed near the high of the day at $1.70¾, a gain of 2½ cents and a new high record price for the year. May corn was up ⅜ at $1.31, also a new high.

INVESTMENT SECURITIES

REINHOLDT & COMPANY

BOATMAN'S BANK BUILDING
ST. LOUIS, MO.

To the Business Man Who Invests for Income

To the business man who intends to invest this month with the primary purpose of obtaining an assured income but without sacrificing other investment qualities, we suggest that he learn how well Miller First Mortgage Bonds suit his purpose.

He will find that Miller Bonds have always maintained the fine safety record which is a tradition in first mortgage investments. He will also discover that the rate of interest (as high as 7%, depending on location of security) is far more liberal than is usually obtainable under ordinary "thrift plans," or from other types of securities of comparable safety.

And he will learn, probably to his surprise, that Miller First Mortgage Bonds, through the Four Distinguishing Marks, can be subjected to the customary investment analysis and comparison for Safety, Validity, Character of Security and Interest Rate, like any other investment. Call, telephone or mail the coupon today for Booklet B-126.

2,436,513,000 BUS. OF CORN FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—The important farm crops of the country this year were valued at $9,479,902,000 today by the Department of Agriculture in its December estimates, based on prises paid to farmers Dec. 1. Revised estimates placed the value of last year's crops at $8,726,889,000 and those of 1922 at $7,816,020,000.

The area of these crops aggregated 355,221,400 acres, compared with 355,504,730 acres last year and 353,635,000 acres in 1922.

This year's corn crop was valued at $2,405,468,000 and production was estimated at 2,436,513,000 bushels.

The value and production of other important crops were:

GRAIN LIST HIGHER ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 16.—Report of rain in Argentine, comment as to statistical position of wheat and higher Liverpool exerted influence on wheat prices while likelihood of cold weather increasing feeding was factor in corn price trend. Liverpool wheat closed 1⅛d to 2d higher. Strength of Winnipeg where wheat export sales were reported also was factor.

The market closed strong for wheat and corn. Comment was made to effect that world available supply of wheat for first time this season was less than at corresponding time last year.

In the local cash grain market soft wheat was scarce and prices 1c higher, quality considered. Demand was limited. Hard was 2c higher. Corn was ½c to 2c higher. Demand was good. Oats were ½c to 1c higher. Demand was good.

Both wheat and corn ruled fractionally higher in the early period of trade, following a better start. Liverpool wheat in afternoon cable was ¼d up on December, 1⅛d up on March and 1⅝d up on May. The forecast of severe weather was factor in corn market.

May wheat opened at $1.68⅝. July wheat $1.47¼. May corn $1.30⅝ and July corn $1.30⅝.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 1847 cars of wheat, compared with 1734 a week ago and 2440 last year. Minneapolis received 263 cars, Duluth 148 and Winnipeg 1436.

Local wheat receipts, which were 101,400 bushels, compared with 145,600 a week ago and 75,400 last year, included 33 cars local and 45 through. Corn receipts, which were 114,800 bushels, compared with 68,600 a week ago and 121,800 last year, included 62 cars local and 20 through. Oats receipts, which were 40,000 bushels, compared with 100,000 a week ago, and 90,000 last year, included eight cars local and 12 through. May receipts were 29 cars local and 20 through.

HIGHER RANGE TO GRAIN PRICES IN CHICAGO TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Highest prices of the year were made in wheat today. Strength in Liverpool was the principal factor. Corn was affected by the advance in wheat and scored fair gains. Oats also were moderately higher. Provisions had a strong tone.

Wheat closed 1⅜ to 2⅝c higher. Dec. $1.66⅞; May $1.70¾ to 1.70½; July $1.49⅝ to $1.49¾. Corn finished ⅝c to ⅞c higher; Dec. $1.26 to $1.25¾; May $1.31 to $1.31⅛; July $1.31¼ to $1.31⅜. Oats were 1⅛c to 1⅜c higher; making a new high for the year. Dec. 60⅜c; May 65¾c to 65⅝c; July 64¼c. Lard closed 50c to 60c higher and ribs 40c to 42½c higher. No trade in bellies. Local cash sales were 22,000 bu. wheat, 67,000 bu. corn 35,000 bu. oats and 5000 bu. barley.

The early Liverpool cables showed that market much higher than North America was yesterday, owing to a good consumptive demand for the better grades. This added fuel to the bullish fire. Locals who had been selling their wheat for profits refused to wait any longer for a setback and reinstated their lines today. The outside buying also was good. The bulges brought out profit taking sales but the market showed ability to absorb the wheat. Seaboard advices stated that foreigners were taking low grade Manitoba wheat and overnight sales were 300,000 bushels. A local export house stated that they bought back hard winter wheats for February, March and April shipment. Argentina advices were less favorable, telling of interference with threshing because of rain. The trade was looking for some increase in the winter wheat figures on the final crop estimate to be issued late this afternoon.

Corn was affected by wheat. There was a little buying by commission houses at the opening based on the advance in Liverpool but offerings were heavy enough to cause a setback a few minutes later. In the later trading pit operators, impressed by the strength in wheat, reinstated long lines and the market moved into higher territory as a result. The favorable weather in the Argentine, rains improving the crop promise caused a little pressure on the bulges. Offerings to arrive from the country on overnight bids were not nearly as large as they were yesterday. Shipping demand remains quiet and the East, especially New England, shows a disposition to take profits on cash corn bought earlier in the season.

Oats showed moderate gains, sympathizing with the advance in wheat and corn. Trade was not as large, but short sellers are timid and this makes for light offerings. Shipping demand is a little better, but the amount sold was moderate. Nat C. Murray estimates that 46.4 per cent of the oats crop has been disposed of, compared with 45.9 a year ago. This indicates the stock of oats remaining from the crop at 809,000,000 bushels, compared with 703,000,000 a year ago.

Provisions were sharply higher under a good investment demand. Cotton seed oil news was bullish and this inspired purchases of lard. The strength in hogs also had a bullish effect.

Winnipeg Market Strong.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 16.—Continuing its steady upward trend, the price of wheat again established a new high post-war mark, when the May future reached $1.73⅝ during a flurry of buying this morning.

The strength of the market was influenced by higher Liverpool cables and strong export demand. Offerings were comparatively light and trade volume small.

New York Rubber.

Truth in Advertising

The value of advertising is in direct ratio to the amount of READER-CONFIDENCE it possesses. That is entirely founded on the quality of TRUTH.

The National Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers and the Better Business Bureau and the Advertising Club of St. Louis, in all of which the Post-Dispatch holds membership, aim to eliminate fraudulent and misleading advertising. This newspaper will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement which does not conform to the highest standard of honesty. (c8)

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

THANK YOU. — Inquire of the Board of Education regarding the general courses in the high schools here.

J. E.—Address the Adjutant-General, National Guard, Jefferson City, for the information regarding the requirements for the aviation division.

READER. — Following are the salaries paid to engineers and firemen in Terminal Railroad yard service; Engineers, from $6.40 to $7.72 a day, and firemen, $4.96 to $6.32 a day. This is the rate for eight hours, varying as above according to weight of locomotives; overtime in excess of eight hours is compensated for at rate of time and one-half.

R. N. G.—It is becoming the practice throughout the country among civilians to display the national flag on all patriotic occasions, especially on the following days: Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12; Washington's birthday, Feb. 22; Mother's day, second Sunday in May; Memorial day, May 30; Flag day, June 14; Independence day, July 4; Armistice day, Nov. 11. In certain localities special days are observed in the same manner.

B. B.—The Missouri Senators are James A. Reed and Selden P. Spencer. The Representatives follow: Frank C. Millspaugh, William W. Rucker, Henry F. Lawrence, Charles L. Faust, Edgar C. Ellis, William O. Atkeson, Roscoe C. Patterson, Sidney C. Roach, Theodore W. Hukriede, Cleveland A. Newton, Harry B. Hawes, Leonidas C. Dyer, Marion E. Rhodes, Edward D. Hays, Isaac V. McPherson and Samuel A. Shelton.

READER.—Following is a formula for aquarium cement: Litharge, 3 ounces; fine white sand, 3 ounces; plaster of Paris, 3 ounces; rosin, in fine powder, 1 ounce; linseed oil, enough; drier, enough. Mix the first three ingredients, add sufficient linseed oil to make a homogeneous paste and then add a small quantity of drier. This should stand a few hours before it is used. It is said that glass joined to iron with this cement will break before it will come loose.

A RUSSIAN. — Nickolai Lenine died Jan. 21, 1924. During the Russian revolution the censorship was so severe that we were unable to get official information regarding the shooting of Lenine, but it was reported that he received a bullet wound in the shoulder from a revolver in the hands of M. Dwanitzke of the information bureau of the Soviet and that a woman who also shot him was said to have been executed. The pronunciation of "Czar" given was the English form. Yours of course is the Russian.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

P. W. S.—You cannot subpena a witness from another state. Subpenas only run within the State.

W. S.—If the facts are as you state, you can sue the company for damages, including the wages lost. Consult a lawyer regarding suit.

JAMES.—You should have the will drawn by a lawyer. His fee would depend upon the amount of work involved. You can ask him in advance what his charge will be.

MRS. M. J.—It is doubtful whether you can have the marriage annulled, under the circumstances stated. However, you might consult a lawyer, and ask him what the cost of an annulment suit would be.

A BET.—The accident insurance company will not have to pay the amount of policy if there is a provision in the accident insurance policy to the effect that the accident insurance will not be paid in case of suicide.

FRED N.—You can get an application blank at the Old Customs House, Third and Olive streets, or you can write to the United States Veterans' Bureau, Washington, D. C., for the bonus application blank or you can get one at one of their local offices.

COLUMBUS, MO.—An adjusted compensation law was passed by Congress over President Coolidge's veto, last spring. You can get full information and an application blank by writing to the United States Veterans' Bureau, Washington, D. C., or from the local American Legion Post.

WM. D.—If you were a resident of Missouri from April 6, 1916 to April 6, 1917 then you were entitled to the Missouri bonus. The time for filing applications expired Dec. 31, 1922. However, we advise you to file an application now, as it is possible that provision will be made for the late applicants. Write to the Adjutant-General, Jefferson City, Mo., for an application blank.

H. A. — Pimples are caused by some constitutional derangement. "bad blood" excluding syphilis is a misnomer. There is no medicine exclusively a blood medicine.

SUBSCRIBER.—Boric acid is a very mild antiseptic and may be used in any strength. We suggest 10 or 15 grains to the ounce for the eyes.

ROY D. — Pimples are a skin manifestation of some constitutional derangement which should be sought out and corrected. Locally 1 part Vleminckx's solution to 4 parts water. Gradually increase the strength of the solution by decreasing the water. Dab on at night and let dry. Wash off in the morning and rub in a good quality cold cream.

G. T. H.—See answers to "P.-D. Reader."

P.-D. READER. — Hiccough is sometimes very easy to relieve, at other times desperately hard, depending upon the exciting cause. Often taking nine swallows of water without taking a breath will relieve. At other times every remedy seems futile. Ten or 15 drops of ether injected into the gluteal muscles hypodermically is often of value in a persistent attack.

U. S. LOSES IN THIRD TAX PUBLICITY SUIT

Federal Judge Sustains Demurrer Filed to Indictment by the Baltimore Post.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 16.—Federal Judge Morris A. Soper today sustained the demurrer of the Baltimore Post to the indictment charging illegal publication of income tax returns.

The demurrer admitted the facts set forth in the indictment—that the Post published the tax payments of the five persons named therein—and it contended no law was violated.

Judge Soper held that by the act of 1924 it was plain that Congress determined to abandon the policy of secrecy from the general public concerning the amount of taxes paid.

United States Attorney Woodcock, who handled the case here for the Government, said the question of an appeal would be decided by the Department of Justice at Washington.

Judge Soper limited his discussion to publicity provisions (Section 257) of the revenue act of 1924, the second ground of the demurrer. He did not deal with the constitutional phase of the question.

"The purpose of the amendments and additions to section 257, by the act of 1924, is plain," said Judge Soper. "Congress determined to abandon the policy of secreting the amount of taxes paid from the general public. It was doubtless thought that thereby the chances of fraud, of favoritism, ~~of im~~proper concealment of income might be reduced. Every citizen, informed as to the amount of taxes paid by his fellows, would become a possible source of information to the Government. The taxpayers and the officials would be more likely to do their full duties. No other explanation satisfactorily accounts for the changes in the law.

"Bearing this in mind, one perceives that it is counter to the very spirit of the law to punish those who, by added publicity, materially assist to accomplish the very object which Congress had in view. To give consistency and clearness to the statute, it is necessary to hold that Congress had no intention to apply the penalties against printing and publishing to so much of the returns as should be given out on the Commissioner's lists. As to other parts of the returns, the prohibition remains in effect."

DIVORCE FOR ESTELLE TAYLOR

Only Final Order of Court Awaits Actress Friend of Dempsey.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—Court records today disclosed that the divorce action against Kenneth Malcolm Peacock by his wife, Ida Estelle Taylor Peacock, motion picture actress, whose reported engagement to Jack Dempsey has been denied several times, needs only the taking of a final rule for the granting of a decree of divorce.

The suit was brought here Sept. 29. A master was appointed in October and his report was field in November. As no exception to the report was made, it was approved Dec. 8, and awaits only the final order of the Court.

The Golden Bed

WALLACE IRWIN

FOURTEENTH INSTALLMENT.

ADMAH gazed in wonder, bathed in silence. It was a noisy public ward; two aisles beyond a thin-voiced woman was laughing shrilly at one of her own jokes; an old man sitting up in bed was coughing like a sick horse. Nurses and internes moved casually about, their cheerful gossip unrestrained. Yet to Admah all the world seemed still. It was like a great church in which she lay, carved in alabaster. . . . It couldn't be his mother. He couldn't fancy her so helpless, doing nothing for herself, actually giving trouble to other people.

"Ma!" He whispered it, leaning close to the motionless head.

Eyelids so thin that the eyes themselves seemed to be showing through fluttered slightly, then slowly they opened.

"So you done came home?" she asked in a voice so natural that he could not believe but that she was in her old health, merely shamming sickness.

"Ma, I came fast as I could." He spoke rapidly to steady his tone. "I couldn't let you know where I was. But I came fast as I could."

"I know you did." Something in her throat seemed to thicken, and her words grew indistinct. "I been powerful hard to git along with sometimes, I reckon. I ain't always been the sort of mother——"

"You have, Ma! Oh, you have!" Losing his shame in the presence of the stark white nurse he fell on his knees and drew one of the gnarled hands to his breast. Never in all his clumsy, incoherent life had he shown her so much tenderness. "Ma, dear! I ain't never done anythin' I should."

Even in her dying breath she said a dry thing: "You're powerful like yo' Pa, Ad." And then she softened it with, "I reckon I was mighty fond of him."

He mumbled incoherently, asking her to forgive him; poor Admah never had the words with which to unburden his troubled heart.

"That's all over," she told him with one of her queer smiles. "But now that I got to go, son, I want you to promise me this—I want you——" A deep, terrible cough seemed to tear her from head to feet, but after the nurse had laid a spoon to her lips she went on, "I want you to promise — you wasn't born to be poor trash, Admah. You got somethin' better. I never give you no book-larnin,' Ad. But I always wanted you——"

"I'll be a man, Ma," he whispered. "I won't go this way any longer. I'll make you proud of me, Ma."

"I reckon so." It came like a sigh.

"You believe me, don't you, Ma? Honest to God——"

But the nurse had brushed him aside, and leaning over the white bed had slowly raised one of the sick woman's fallen lids.

"You'd better go out for a while," she said coolly, and beckoned to a passing interne. "Dr. Holmes, would you mind——"

Almost the first thing Admah recognized when he went down the front steps, feeling his way like a sleepwalker, was a young man in a petunia-colored waistcoat who sprang toward him and held him tight across the shoulders.

"You need a bracer, boy," he said. "Just shuffle along to the corner and I'll throw a slug o' rye under your belt."

CHAPTER 27.

Finally they wandered to the River Front and sat again among the chicken-crates. The unaccustomed drink had had little effect on Admah's heavy heart; his partner crouched beside him, saying little, smoking much. Still tied to Wharf One, the old Senator Clay swam obesely, awaiting some unusual event. Through dulled ears Admah could hear the roustabouts chaffing, then on an upper deck a band struck up a lively tune . . . "Miss Mahtincastle's school gwine on a picnic up rivvuh," an African voice was explaining to Elmer.

Between the slats of their death-houses chickens cackled sociably, rearing their heads through the cracks, sunning young combs in the light of their last terrestrial day. Then a long line of schoolgirls, marching two by two, appeared at the end of Grand avenue and came toward old Senator Clay's receptive gangplank. Two by two, bubbling with fun, they wound their way into the boat, paying only the slightest attention to several nervous spinsters who attempted to order their ranks.

Two girls of eleven, in the rear of the line, chose to loiter on the deck and inspect the chicken crates. The taller one, who was dark and scrawny, stuck her fingers through the bars and tickled the wings of a young pullet, sending the entire coopful into hysterics.

"Come awn!" drawled the smaller girl. "You oughtn't to touch those nasty animals. I wouldn't for the world."

And as though she had spoken for Admah's benefit, she raised her eyes to his. They were heavenly eyes shot with hazel beams, and their very look seemed to draw the heart out of a man.

CHAPTER 28.

It was in the spring of 1913 when the noble marquis, Carlos Domingo de San Pilar, squandered a few months of his abundant time in order to follow Miss Flora Lee Peake from Paris to America; he was kind to all the reporters and was complimentary, if not exactly accurate, in his observations of the lady's native town. To representatives of the Star-Eagle, the Union-Democrat and the Evening Democrat he expressed the opinion that he had at last met the thing for which he had pined since early youth—the ideal American city; so what-you-call hustling with men who must be very powerful and courageous to make those soul-stirring sounds of iron everywhere; and such striking, primitive art on all the bill-boards to remind the stranger of America's Indian origin. And the ladies! So beautiful—ah! They make the loveliest ladies of Spain look very pale by comparison.

When Jimmy Wilder, the celebrated city editor of the Evening Democrat, heard this observation about "pale by comparison," he made a long, accurate shot at the office spittoon and remarked:

"I reckon he's referrin' to the colored population."

An example of Europe's oldest and least progressive aristocracy, the Marquis was forgivable for his misjudgment of an American caste which for 200 years had held itself as high as his own. He came upon Grand avenue with its overhead trolleys, automobile crush, bargain shirt sales, fidgety electric cinema advertisements and baseball scoreboard in front of the new Star-Eagle Building; and how was he to see anything there but an aspect of New York or Chicago in miniature? In the decade between 1903 and 1913 the city had changed just as definitely as the old Livingstone Place had changed when it was sold for a song to the municipality and was converted into a public park. Something had put hurry into Southern legs. Men of the newer generation no longer dined at midday; they lunched and talked business. Mr. Tardeau, who used to run a reliable if jumbled little prescription pharmacy was now, with his son, proprietor of three yellow drug stores. They sold alarm clocks, theater tickets and phonograph records; no prescriptions. Grand avenue was dramatic like a fair. A giant negro paced the sidewalk in a plum-colored uniform, goldenly lettered "Dr. Grimm, the Painless Dentist." And on the edge of the shopping district a bargain candy store with a vermillion front showed a silver-plated taffy puller in action below the sign "Candy Holtz."

The elders of Satsuma played bridge whist behind closed shutters, grumbled to their hearts' content and attributed the change to a Yankee invasion. Their younger men were away in offices and automobiles, feverishly adjusting their lives to the new condition which they realized—or the wiser of them realized—was not merely a Yankee invasion but an aspect of the industrial wave which was sweeping the country from end to end. Boom was in the air. Men boasted of their speedy motor cars, women of the cocktails they could hold without showing it.

Although San Pilar was too fine a gentleman to speak disparagingly of the things that were his host's, it is conceivable that his sparse blond eyebrows might have lifted a hair's breadth at sight of the Peake mansion which Americans in Paris had described as the finest in its town. Stately and proud it stood upon its well-kept lawn, the dingy coloring of its stonework giving it a patina of age. So far so good, according to the European standard. But what of the intrusive sign, "St. Agnes Home for Working Girls," under the cornice of a balconied mansion across the street? Or of a larger house, two doors beyond, being scientifically wrecked by an army of sweating negroes? Or of an ugly square-topped skyscraper, cutting off the light to the South? Or of the sprawling jerry-built structure where sign painters were busily outlining the word "Garage"?

If all these things were confusing to San Pilar's conventional mind, once inside the old Peake house he was quite at ease. The height of the rooms, the abundance of polished wood and glass gave him assurances of that princely opulence which he associated with America. The flagrant black walnut, the funereal mantles, the majolica umbrella stands offended his taste—but what would you have in a land of amusing savages? This Flora Lee was adorable in her home where she ruled an innumerable retinue of blacks—a snow queen among attendant gnomes.

The coming of San Pilar provoked much argument pro and con. Among those pleasantly affected by the news the second Mrs. Garnett Peake stood at the fore. Garnett had married her in 1906 when he had found her, a pretty divorcee living somewhere on the outer edge of Satsuma. Slightly inferior, according to the Peake standards, she had never taken complete command of the big house in Inness street. By 1913 she had grown quite fat and Garnett's constant nagging had reduced her to a jelly-like state of pacifism. She was all a-flutter at the thought of entertaining so noble a Lord, and the night before his arrival she had the temerity to suggest—in the presence of Garnett and the withering Judge—that Flora Lee's alliance with a noble house would, in a way, have its social advantages.

"There are five of us already in the Almanac de Gotha," quoth Garnett, standing stiffly before a cold fireplace in his father's library.

"Six," creaked the Judge, looking sourly up from the chessmen which he was arranging for his evening game. "Six. That is, if you count Cousin Laura who married that Italian scoundrel and starved to death at Nice."

Which closed the argument as to Flora Lee's designs on a foreign coronet. The old gentleman had been showing signs of irritability ever since the Taft inauguration, and of late he had wreaked his ill temper upon the modern young lady. No purist himself, he was unable to see her smoke or hear her swear without shaking his wattles like an ancient turkey gobbler. And cocktails.

More than once he had seen his own grandchild standing in an open drawing room, a cigarette in one hand, a glass in the other. Her voice was becoming harsh. These motor cars were playing the very devil with young women. And the way they danced. Such dances and such music as he would not have permitted out in the negro quarter. . . . With Margaret now, it was different. He wasn't sure he liked her way any better. Flora Lee had been engaged a dozen times and broken it off and been all the livelier for it. But that Carter boy; he'd been hanging around Margaret now for seven or eight years. Who were the Carters, anyway, to expect the Peakes to wait on them? It was affecting Margaret's health. He'd have to speak to her about that Carter fellow. . . .

So he mused over his white and red chessmen, setting them out fussily with his shaking hands. The room had grown unpleasantly quiet. What were people scheming against him now? He glared around to see his daughter-in-law—the new one with the insipid laugh—reading quietly by the lamp. Standing stiff and dull under the spirited portrait of Gen. Horatio Peake on his coal black charger, Garnett looked bored as he always did the evenings when he stayed at home. Rather a small Peake, thought the Judge in a rare moment of disloyalty to the Institution. Then, sharply, gallantly.

"Well, Garny! Are we playing tonight?"

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

© 1924 by Int'l Feature Service, Inc.
12-4

WILL you love each other then? Either the Winter of misfortune or of age comes along to every pair of lovers, after Spring, Summer and Autumn, and if you could know that you could love each other then, then you could safely take the plunge and dive in together.

But who but a genius at imagination, one with almost a wizard's power of summoning phantasma, among the lovers, who are more blind than usual anyhow, can see this flower-face of the girl he loves as she will be when she is fifty—sixty—even forty-five?

He cannot do it. She is Spring. In the Spring the pipe to Love's dance can scent Summer on the air. He can feel that coming season. It is not less beautiful than Spring. It is only different. He knows there is Autumn somewhere over the rim of the world—a season of dead and faded flowers, high winds, brown leaves skipping before Winter-wind and a smell of frost, frozen stillness and the ice of Winter in the air.

And Winter—he has heard that name—but he cannot see it. Now the world is thick in flowers, the air is like warmed, gold wine, his sweetheart's hand is as smooth and silky and young as a baby's, and her cheek as round and pink as that of a new peach, and he can't see snow at all. He can't believe that there ever was any or ever will be. He shuts his eyes and tries to see bare branches and a white landscape, and he can't do it at all.

He is sure he will love her then and she is sure she will him, too, when he can loop his snowy beard in a double-bowknot, but the vision they have is only a transparent sketch over the very real Spring landscape they are looking at. So they cannot really know.

They cannot say: "I KNOW, I can see, what she will be like, or he will be like, old, weary, perhaps ill, mad or sad, and I will love her or him just the same."

What they do say is: "Autumn leaves are hurrying before Winter-wind, and I try to see my beloved swayed by the breath of coming Winter in the air; when that one will be old; but I cannot see an old face on this young one. But when I do—oh god of Love, may I love it just the same!"

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

A Ventilator.

Lay a little stick across the top of the seldom-used teapot, just under the lid. This will permit fresh air to enter and prevent mustiness.

• • •

Scorch Stains.

Wet the scorched spots with cold water and pat borax into the fabric. Let stand five minutes; then brush off and hang garment in the sun.

• • •

The Popular Beads.

So many beads are worn these days and not all are strung securely. Should they be broken, restring them on a gut violin string or a silver-plated mandolin string and they will wear much longer.

• • •

Vegetable Stains.

Stains on the fingers caused by preparing vegetables can be removed by holding the hands in very strong tea for a few minutes. Then wash with soap and clear water. The stains will disappear.

HOW TO JUDGE A FABRIC

WHEN purchasing a textile fabric it is necessary to know something about what constitutes good value in a given material, points out the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. The fiber should be examined with respect to its properties and qualities, and then the fabric itself should be scrutinized.

Good fiber and good yarn may be spoiled by poor construction of the fabric. The plain "over and under" weave of equal yarns is perhaps the most durable, although some twills are very satisfactory. However, these are less artistic than many variations, and the manufacturer is often tempted to sacrifice durability to beauty, or in some cases merely to fashion.

A few of the common weaknesses of fabrics due to construction are as follows: Very fine yarns are woven over very heavy ones, and these soon wear through. Long yarns (floats) are passed over too many yarns and are easily caught and torn. Patterns made by bleaching out portions of a dark background often result in weakened places, which quickly wear

BUCKWHEAT CAKES.

Dissolve one cake compressed yeast in one-fourth cupful lukewarm water, add one quart lukewarm water and sufficient buckwheat flour to make batter that will run from spoon. Beat well, cover and set in warm place over night. In morning take out one cupful batter for "starter." To remainder add 2 tablespoonfuls molasses, ¾ teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful melted butter and about ¼ teaspoonful soda, stirring gently. At night, add to "starter" (which has been kept in cool place) ¼ cake yeast and 3 cupfuls water and proceed as before. A larger amount of soda will probably be needed after the first morning.

SCALLOPED POTATOES AND ONIONS.

Cut pared potatoes and peeled onions in very thin slices; arrange in alternate layers in a buttered baking dish, adding pepper and salt between layers as desired. Pour on milk to cover ingredients, and bake slowly three hours, adding milk as needed. Fifteen minutes before serving, cover the top with one cupful fine cracker crumbs mixed with one-third cupful melted butter and return to the oven, increasing the heat to delicately brown the crumbs. This dish may be made of cold boiled potatoes and cooked onions, when the cooking may be reduced to one-half hour.

Lightfoot Uses His Ears

The wise to danger give most heed
When there appears to be least need.
—Lightfoot the Deer.

He knew that he was well hidden

LIGHTFOOT the Deer lay hidden in a little clump of young hemlock trees on the top of a little hill in the Green Forest. He was resting but not sleeping. He lay with his nose pointed toward the direction from which the Merry Little Breezes were coming. Each one Lightfoot carefully tested with that wonderful nose of his. Each one brought many scents, some of them strong and some of them very faint. But none brought the scent that meant danger. None brought the man scent.

It was the hunting season. Lightfoot knew it. How he knew it he coudn't have said, but he did know it. He had seen no hunters with terrible guns, but he knew that they had been in the Green Forest looking for him and that they would come again. He knew that from the time jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, until he went to bed behind the Purple Hills hunters would be in the Green Forest. It would be so every day until the dreadful hunting season was over.

So Lightfoot roamed about and ate at night, and in the daytime lay hidden as he now was. He always lay facing the direction from which the Merry Little Breezes were coming, for he knew he could trust them to bring him the man scent if a hunter were approaching from that direction. But his wonderful nose and the Merry Little Breezes could protect him only from the one direction. For warning of danger from other directions he must depend on his big, wonderful ears. And so as he lay there he was listening for every little sound. No sound was too faint to be heeded.

For a long time nothing happened. Then back of him, far back of him in the Green Forest, he heard a faint roar. Instantly Lightfoot was on his feet, facing in that direction. He knew that that roar was made by the stout wings of Mrs. Grouse. He had heard it many, many times. He also knew that she flew in just that way only when she had been startled. Some one had frightened her. It might have been Reddy Fox or Old Man Coyote. But it might have been a hunter. So Lightfoot was suspicious.

He pointed his ears in that direction and listened and listened. For a few moments he heard no other sound. Then he heard a a faint thump. "That was the danger signal of Jumper the Hare," thought Lightfoot. "Whoever frightened Mrs. Grouse has now frightened Jumper. Whoever frightened them is now coming this way, for Jumper was nearer than was Mrs. Grouse."

He remained motionless save that those big ears moved now and then to better catch the faint sounds of the early morning. His big, soft eyes watched for any little movement. Presently Sammy Jay began to scream over on the opposite hillside. Lightfoot's ears twitched and his eyes seemed to grow a little bigger. When Sammy Jay screamed like that it meant just one thing—a hunter; Still Lightfoot remained standing there perfectly motionless. He knew that he was well hidden. He did not want to run until he knew exactly where the danger was.

A tiny, dry twig snapped. It was such a faint sound that you or I wouldn't have heard it. But Lightfoot heard it. He fixed his eyes on the place from which it had come. In a moment he saw some branches move ever so little. Then he saw the face of a hunter peering through them. Without a sound Lightfoot turned, crept under the branches of the little trees and stole swiftly and silently away.

FAMOUS WOMEN.

MADAME LE BRUN.

MADAME LE BRUN was a French artiste, or painter, who gained considerable reputation in Paris. Her paintings, historical pieces as well as portraits, were exhibited in the Louvre. Madame de Genlis speaks of the talents of Madame Le Brun with much warmth of praise, and complains that the men "sought to depreciate her paintings because she was a woman."

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN

In honor of her re-election to Parliament women admirers of Lady Astor have presented her with a solid silver coach and six horses, a replica of the coach of the Lord Mayor of London.

• • •

The municipal authorities in Paris are gradually dispensing with women as street cleaners, who during the war period and for some time afterward did all of the cleaning of the streets.

• • •

A gigantic club for business girls is to be erected right in the heart of London and will be operated as a social center where any business girl or woman can go for rest, recreation and meals.

THE LOST-BALL BLUES.

A FOOL there was and he sliced his ball,
    Even as you and I.
  He waved good-by as he saw it fall
  And disappear in the timbers tall,
    Even as you and I.

Ah, the balls we paste and the balls we waste
    And the balls that we never find.
Belong to the kid with convenient eyes
Who never can see where a golf ball lies
    For, he's temporarily blind.

A fool there was and bought some more,
    Even as you and I.
He whaled away and he hollered "Fore!"
And kept it up till he'd lost a score,
    Even as you and I.

Oh, the balls he lost and the dough they cost
    And the wonderful shots he planned,
Belong to the guy with the plus-four pants,

The fool was stripped to his foolish pelt,
    Even as you and I.
And he bought his balls from the boy who delt
In balls he had lost in the timber belt,
    Even as you and I.

And it isn't the shame of a duffer's game
    That stings like a white-hot brand.
It's coming to know that in spite of all
He still continues to slice the ball
    And he never will understand.

TOO TRUE.

CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE.

THERE was to be a heavenly phenomenon. On the following noon the solar luminary was scheduled to pass temporarily shadow.

The commanding officer of an infantry regiment of the Im German army—this was in the old pre-war times—was of a scie turn of mind. He decided to take advantage of the opportunity to le ture his men on the mysteries and wonders of the heavenly bo using for illustration the occurrence promised by the calendar the astronomers.

He sent for his regimental Sergeant-Major—or for the non-co who in the German army corresponded to a Sergeant-Major—and wh this person had arrived and clicked his heels and saluted, the com mander said:

"A total eclipse of the sun will take place tomorrow at such such an hour. The regiment, in undress, will assemble on the para ground and I will come in person and explain the meaning of it. I the weather should be cloudy, the men will meet as usual in the dri shed."

"Tomorrow morning, by order of the Colonel, there will be an eclipse of the sun. The regiment will assemble on the parade grou where the Colonel will superintend the eclipse. If the sky is over the eclipse will take place in the drill shed."

DEADLOCKED.

IT is said that the three thriftiest races are the Scotch, Armenian an the Greek.

Conceded that this is true, it possibly accounts for the fact th a Scotchman, a Greek and an Armenian were fast friends. After a lo absence they met and it was decided by joint consent that the reu should be celebrated with a dinner at a fashionable restaurant. Ju who was to play host for the occasion was a point which no one of t three brought up beforehand.

The food was good and there was plenty of it. One course f lowed another. At 8 o'clock, the coffee and cheese having been se the waiter brought the check and put it upon the table.

Long after midnight the Scotchman temporarily excused hi from his two confreres and called his house on the telephone. His w answered the call.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN AUTO HAD $400,000 INSURANCE

Revolver Is Clew That May Determine Whether Isaac H. Cohn Shot Self or Was Slain.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY OF BODY INDICATED

Necktie Cut Off Below Knot and Cuff Link Taken—Effort to Trace Ownership of Weapon.

Isaac H. Cohn of 726 Eastgate venue, president of the North merican Electric Lamp Co., who as found shot to death, with a re- lver clutched in his right hand, t the wheel of a borrowed automo- le in Forest Park last evening, arried more than $400,000 in life surance.

All of this insurance was taken ut more than three years ago and he policies are not contestable.

Ownership of the revolver may etermine whether Cohn shot him- elf or was shot by the person who, fter his death, attempted to rob he body. The machine was on a riveway in the southwest part of orest Park.

The police consider the case a robable suicide, but it is still be- ng investigated from all view- oints, in the hope that the Coro- er's inquest can determine posi- ively the circumstances of what is ow a mystery.

The shooting of Cohn, by himself r another, is believed to have oc- urred before dark. A passing au- omobilist, Joseph Lindenschmidt f 7040 Clayton road, at 5:10 p. m. aw a man sitting in a slumping osition at the wheel of a Stude- aker touring car which had topped, facing east, on the south ide of Haberstroh culvert on Wells rive. This location, nearly in a ine with Tamm avenue, is in a de- ression between two hills, and is he southern boundary of the Zoo. he culvert is wide enough for hree machines to pass, so that the ar was not in the way of others. indenschmidt thought the man ad been drinking and he did not top.

Notifies Watchman.

Driving past the same place at .20, Lindenschmidt saw the same ar, with the driver in the same osition He did not stop at the ime, but on reaching his home he poke to a private watchman of the atter, and the watchman and an- ther man rode back into the park ith him. They saw that the man as dead, and called policemen.

The location is nearly the same s that in which Tankerville Jo- eph Drew, a wealthy young St. Louisan, was killed in an automo- ile accident in 1910. Drew's body as robbed after his death and a an was sent to prison for the obbery.

That an attempt at robbery had een made after Cohn's death ap- eared from the surroundings. His ecktie had been cut below the not, apparently with scissors or a harp knife, one coat sleeve was lashed and one silver cuff link had been taken. The other had een left, apparently because the first one had appeared to be of no reat value. Two $1 bills and 70 ents were in a purse which had een taken from the pocket. No nife was found in the car. Cohn believed to have been wearing a iamond tie pin.

Two Discharged Shells.

Cohn's fatal wound was in the ight side of the head. The re- olver, held in his right hand, had hree loaded shells and two which ad been discharged. A bullet hole hrough the windshield appeared o show that a shot had been fired from within the car, as the broken glass lay on the hood outside. A edicine bottle, in which some edicinal prescription had been is- ued originally, but which con- ained whisky, was on the seat.

The police report on the case stated that there were powder burns about the wound, indicating that the shot was at close range, s it would have been if self-in- flicted. The assertion as to pow- der burns was questioned by at- tendants at the Morgue, and a Post-Dispatch reporter, who looked at the body, was unable to detect powder burns or singeing of the hair.

Cohn's friends said today that hey did not know of his owning or arrying a revolver and that they knew no reason why he should ave killed himself. Police Lieut. ylward, in charge of the homicide quad, said after an investigation at the death had the appearance f a carefully prepared suicide llowed by a casual attempt at
